

Super dog saves girl, 13, in home fire

The early hours of Tuesday morning produced nothing very extraordinary for the Carlson family of Carpenter Street in Palatine.

Allan Carlson Sr. left for work. His wife, Donna, trudged around their house, making sure that Dan, Ruthanne and Allan Jr. would find their respective schools.

Chestnut, the family's 1-year-old golden retriever, who would be a heroine later that morning, kept herself busy by acting out a dog's life.

Then it all began to fall apart.

ON MOST WEEKDAYS, 13-year-old Nancy Carlson also leaves for school. But not Tuesday morning. In fact, she had not been to school for a week.

Nancy underwent nose surgery last week. By Tuesday morning, her nose remained painful and it still bled.

She placed cotton inside her nose, took some pain relieving tablets and began to rest on her parents' bed.

Later that morning, Nancy's mother left home to shop for groceries.

"I thought she would be sleeping," Donna said of Nancy.

But while she rested, Nancy decided to cook French fries for her younger brother, Allan Jr., 10, who soon would come home for lunch.

NANCY WENT to the kitchen, placed grease in a pan, turned on the electric range . . . and proceeded back to bed.

The next thing she remembers, Chestnut, the family's golden retriever, had jumped onto the bed and began to bark loudly.

"Then I heard a big boom," Nancy said. "I thought it was a door slamming. Chestnut kept going to the (bedroom) door and coming back, telling me to follow her."

"She walked down the hall, and when I went to the door, there was smoke everywhere," said Nancy, who attends Palatine Hills Junior High School.

The kitchen was ablaze. Nancy ran to a neighbor's house. They called the Palatine Fire Dept.

WHEN DONNA finally arrived home, she discovered the commotion of policemen and firemen outside her house.

"It was horrifying, thinking that your daughter is in there sleeping," Donna said. When she was a child, Donna had lost two cousins in a fire.

But Nancy was outside, watching firemen battle the kitchen blaze.

"It was so great to hug her, I just can't tell you," Donna said.

When they finally walked back inside, the telephone rang. A fireman answered and said, "This is the fireman." But the person hung up.

A few minutes passed. The phone rang again. Donna answered. It was a nurse from Palatine High School. She said that 15-year-old Ruthanne had a stomach ache.

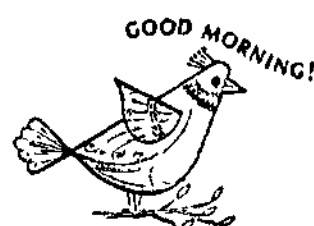

THE NURSE wondered whether Donna could come to the high school and get her daughter.

"I told her, 'I can't come now. We're putting out a fire in my house,'" Donna said.

The nurse must have thought that was funny. Donna said the nurse began to laugh very hard.

Along the way, Donna called her husband, Allan, who works in Elk Grove Village. She told him the house had begun to burn.

FOUR CONDEMNED houses at the corner of Pine Street and Wheeling Road in Wheeling came tumbling down today under the relentless attack by bulldozers. The homes, owned by Roman Domas, were declared a health and safety hazard by the village last year.

Bus system costs too much: RTA

The Wheeling village bus system is losing so much money that a Regional Transportation Authority board member Thursday said funding "can't go on indefinitely."

D. Daniel Baldino, RTA board member from Evanston, said revenue figures for the bus system indicate the Wheeling bus is producing too little revenue and costing too much to operate.

The RTA board approved an $8,165 payment on a $17,050 grant approved earlier this year. Before approving the payment, the board reviewed statistics showing the system was earning only 23 cents per passenger while operation costs are $2.66 per passenger.

THE OPERATING cost per mile is $1.01 while revenue per mile is only nine cents. In the last nine months, the bus has carried only 1,579 passengers.

The bus system costs about $45,000 annually, but the village receives only about $2,000 a year from fares. An RTA trial grant that funds the bus service expires June 30. The bus system has been operating at a loss since it began more than three years ago.

Wheeling village and RTA officials will discuss bus problems at a public hearing June 16. Representatives from the North Suburban Mass Transit District (NORTAN) are expected to attend also.

Village officials are highly critical of the bus system, and Acting Village Mgr. Thomas Markus has said the bus "obviously will never meet the funding requirements of the RTA." He proposed the public hearing to consider route changes or possibly elimination of the system.

Village trustees have suggested replacing the bus system with a special bus for senior citizens. Wheeling officials also have suggested subsidized taxi rides for senior citizens as an alternative to the village bus system.

3 trustees yank support for fire tax

Three Wheeling trustees Thursday said they will not support the Wheeling Rural Fire Protection District's July 17 ambulance tax referendum.

Trustees William Hein, Charles Kerr and Gilbert Monoson cited the fire district board's failure to act on the village's request for disannexation as the major reason for opposing the referendum.

"The general feeling of our group (the trustees) is we are getting the old stall treatment. I don't think there will be any support from Wheeling for that referendum," Kerr said.

HEIN SAID FIRE district trustees don't seem to believe the Wheeling village board is serious about withdrawing from the district.

"Our attorney sent a letter to their attorney and it couldn't have been more explicit about our desire to withdraw from the fire district. To me it could be a stall technique," he said.

Monoson said he is "miffed" about Wednesday night's meeting with the fire district board.

"I tried to go in there with an open mind, but I was disappointed with the way the meeting went. I told them it was a show of solidarity from the village board but I still don't think it got to them," he said.

Monoson said he will oppose the ambulance tax referendum as "an individual, a resident of the village. I'll do everything in my power to see it fail."

"WE REPRESENT 65 per cent of the fire district and we're already getting excellent ambulance and paramedic service. Why would a Wheeling resident go out and bring a tax against himself for a service he already receives free of charge?" he said.

Hein said that the village ambulance service is "put together by the village."

for any help with the ambulance service," he said.

Hein said he also doesn't want to get involved with the ambulance tax "because we want out of the district."

"I don't think a municipality should have to go to another taxing body for money for our own area," he said.

HEIN SAID THE fire district board is using the ambulance tax referendum "to cloud the issue" of Wheeling's withdrawal from the district.

Monoson said he is interested in getting a second fire station west of the Soo Line tracks for Wheeling residents as well as renovation of the existing station.

"The fire district board's attitude is so strong and negative to our requests, they're making sure there is no room for talk. They're telling us to go out and pass an ambulance tax and annex the old part of town into the district, then they'll talk to us," he said.

Wheeling trustees are seeking disannexation from the district in an effort to increase fire tax revenues to the village. Hein said tax revenues could be increased by at least $55,000 annually because an area of the village not in the fire district could be taxed.

BUFFALO GROVE Fire Chief Wayne Winter admitted that if Wheeling opposes the referendum, "it certainly isn't going to help us, but the district has to think of the people that are now in the unincorporated area Wheeling covers. They're getting socked for $75 each time they use an ambulance, and we won't have any trouble convincing them of the need for the tax."

The double taxation issue is "being used as a club — it's blackmail," he said. "To my mind, it's an even trade. If the tax passes, Wheeling could just leave out a corresponding amount from the general tax fund. The

Hays to quit only one of two posts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Trying to weather the storm, Rep. Wayne Hays announced Thursday he will resign only the lesser of his two committee chairmanships despite pressure to quit both because of the Elizabeth Ray sex scandal.

Meeting critics less than halfway, the Ohio Democrat agreed to have "a temporary chairman" replace him on the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee "until the charge against me has been resolved."

But he ignored high-level requests to quit his more important post as head of the House Administration Committee and said he would discuss with that panel "any questions concerning my role as chairman" — obviously sure of majority support there.

Later, looking stooped and haggard, Hays read his statement before television cameras at a podium normally reserved for another committee chairman. He walked with his head down and ignored reporters' questions.

The House Ethics Committee, meantime, launched its investigation of Miss Ray's charge that Hays put her on the Administration Committee payroll at $14,000 a year to serve as his mistress. Hays admits they had a long affair before his April marriage, but denies he hired her for that purpose.

Chairman John Flynt, D-Ga., said the panel "definitely" expected to discuss more names than those of Hays and Miss Ray. It was not clear whether

Illegality hinted in school spending

Funds spent by High School Dist. 214 and Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 in the unit district controversy may have been spent illegally, according to an opinion from Illinois Atty. Gen. William J. Scott. "It is my opinion that an Illinois school board may not expend school district funds to promote or oppose the formation of a unit school district," Scott said in an opinion involving a unit district controversy in Vermilion County. Dist. 59 has spent $6,500 to hire a consultant to update information on the impact of a unit school district in the Dist. 59 area and retained a law firm for legal advice on procedures for initiating a referendum on the matter. Dist. 214 also has retained a law firm for legal advice on the unit district matter and has paid the firm $6,525. Spokesmen for both districts said Thursday, however, money was being spent to keep both boards informed on the matter and not for promotional or opposition purposes. If a unit district is formed in the Dist. 59 area, Dist. 214 would lose two high schools to the unit district.

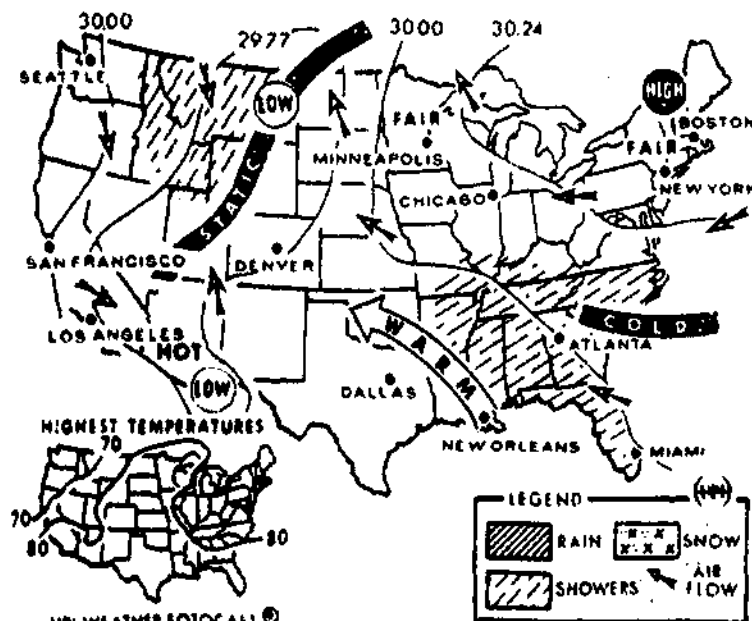

Jury may decide Clavey fate today

The jury in the trial of former Lake County Sheriff Orville Clavey began its deliberation Thursday following closing arguments by prosecuting and defense attorneys in U.S. District Court. Clavey is being tried on four counts of perjury, three counts of tax evasion and one count of extortion. The six-man, six-woman jury began deliberations in the morning and some court observers said a verdict might be reached today.

Buyer commission to be studied

The Des Plaines City Council Monday will consider forming a consumer commission that would investigate complaints of consumer fraud in the city. The council's code and judiciary committee has recommended passage of plans for a consumer protection commission that would hear consumer complaints and attempt to remedy problems before imposing fines or taking legal action. The commission also would refer complaints to the consumer fraud division of the state attorney general's office and develop recommendations for improving business relations and conditions in the city.

Sprinkler units in county homes for elderly OKd

The Cook County Board Thursday tentatively approved a change in the county's building code to require sprinkler systems in the 15 nursing homes in unincorporated Cook County.

The board must give final approval to the measure at a board meeting next week. Once the change is approved, homes will have one year to comply with the rule.

Three nursing homes in the Northwest suburbs are in unincorporated areas and will be affected by the new rule. They are the Ballard Nursing Home and Golf Road Pavilion, both in Maine Township, and Magnus Farm Nursing Home in Elk Grove Township.

In hearings in Washington Thursday, members of a U.S. Senate committee were told sprinkler systems could have prevented deaths in two Chicago area nursing home fires last winter.

WILLIAM HARRIS, county building and zoning commissioner, said the sprinklers "are not the perfect panacea" for preventing fire deaths in county nursing homes. However, he said county officials believe the rule "is the best thing we can do" to improve fire safety.

Harris said the 15 homes in unincorporated Cook County have 28 separate buildings, 8 of which already have some sprinklers installed. He estimated that installing sprinklers will cost nursing home operators about $1 per square foot.

Another building code change which received tentative approval from the county board will require new nursing homes to be built without any dead-end corridors. Harris said the change will help in evacuations.

"Many times when people go down a smoke-filled corridor they don't know which way they are going," he said. "We don't want them to end up at a dead end."

Martha laid to rest beside mom's grave in Pine Bluff

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (UPI) — Martha Mitchell was buried Thursday in the small hometown where she acquired the charm — and the steel — of a Southern Belle that made her first the darling and then the gadfly of the Nixon administration.

"Martha Was Right," proclaimed a large display of white chrysanthemums in nine-inch letters prominent among the floral offerings at graveside as the estranged wife of John N. Mitchell, Richard Nixon's attorney general and campaign manager during the Watergate scandal, was laid to rest beside the grave of her mother.

Mitchell and their 15-year-old daughter, Martha Elizabeth "Marty" Mitchell, who were not at her bedside when she died on Memorial Day — alone and destitute — were both at the funeral service.

Mitchell stared solemnly at the floor throughout the church and graveside services and refused to speak to reporters.

Martha Mitchell caught the attention of the nation stumping the country for Nixon's policies and attacking congressional opponents, the Supreme Court, war protesters and other liberals. But after Watergate, she turned on Nixon, and was the first figure connected with the administration to call for his resignation.

Her funeral service was read in the First Presbyterian Church, the same church in which she was baptized. A crowd of about 450 filled the church to three-quarters capacity.

"In a world full of sadness, we give thanks for those who lightened our lives," said Rev. Richard A. Dodds. "We give thanks for Martha Mitchell for her zest for life, for the breadth of her convictions."

Mrs. Mitchell, 57, died of bone cancer. Her lawyer said she was penniless. She recently sued for back support payments from Mitchell, who was convicted of obstruction of justice in the Watergate scandal.

The only other nationally prominent person at the funeral was Cornelia Wallace, wife of Alabama Governor George C. Wallace.

It was not known who sent the "Martha Was Right" floral display.

The funeral home said Mitchell took all the cards that accompanied the flowers and would not make them public.

Mitchell and the other members of his party entered and left the church by a private entrance. At the cemetery they waited in a limousine until Mrs. Mitchell's casket had been set over the grave. Only then did they come out and sit in the space provided for the family.

Only seven persons sat in that family space — Mitchell, his daughter, Mrs. Mitchell's son by a previous marriage, Clyde "Jay" Jennings Jr., 29; Mr. and Mrs. Ray West Sr. and Ray West Jr., close Pine Bluff friends of Mrs. Mitchell's; and a man who identified himself only as a family friend.

As Mrs. Mitchell's casket was carried from the church, a black woman seated among the guests cried out, "Oh, Martha, Martha," and broke into uncontrollable sobs. She later identified herself as Fanny B. Coleman, a girlhood playmate of Mrs. Mitchell's.

PALLBEARERS CARRYING the casket of Martha Mitchell to grave site, pass in sight of a floral wreath saying: "Martha Was Right." Mrs. Mitchell was buried in her home town of Pine Bluff, Ark. Thursday. She died of bone cancer in New York Monday, penniless and alone.

Syrian troop advance halts in Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Syrian armored columns Thursday halted their march across Lebanon toward Beirut and the ancient port of Sidon and solidified their front lines facing Moslem leftists who have vowed to resist.

The only fighting of the day came between Moslem leftists and Christian rightists in the capital in which 60 persons were killed and 100 others wounded in scattered clashes.

There was a flurry of alarm during the morning when two jet fighter planes flew low over the capital and drew fire from Palestinian gunners who apparently thought they were Syrian MIGs.

Damascus Radio said later the planes belonged to a remnant of the Lebanese Army which remained neutral in the civil war and is supporting Syria's peace initiative. Lebanese Army Commander, Lt. Ahmed Khatib, confirmed the planes were piloted by Lebanese officers.

President Suleiman Franjeh meantime met for two hours with French Ambassador Hubert Argod and Vatican envoy Alfredo Broniera to discuss French President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing's offer to send peacekeeping troops to Lebanon.

Rightist sources said Franjeh wanted to accept Giscard's offer and "internationalize" the conflict but the lame-duck president stopped short of issuing a formal request for French troops.

No new Syrian troop movements were reported since Wednesday when a Syrian armored column cut south-west across the southern Chouf region of Lebanon towards the leftist-held Biblical port of Sidon, 30 miles south of the capital.

UPI correspondent Doyle McManus toured the region and reported all was quiet in the strategic port, which serves an adjacent U. S. oil refinery, and the advancing Syrian forces were apparently further away than Moslem leftist and Palestinian reports had earlier indicated.

One leftist commander told McManus that the bulk of the Syrian troops were still further west across the Lebanese mountain range in the lower tip of the Bekaa valley.

"If they are worried in Beirut about Sidon falling to the Syrians, they are not worried in Sidon. Children are playing on the street and everything is quiet," McManus reported.

Christian rightist sources in close touch with the Syrians still maintained that the troops intended to march on the city, "if not today then over the next few days."

Further north, in the center of the Bekaa valley, where the bulk of their 4,000-man force was stationed, the Syrians made no attempt to advance beyond the front-line positions they established Wednesday — three miles east of the leftist-held Dahr al Baidar hilltop guarding the main pass leading across the mountains to Beirut.

In the capital, loudspeaker trucks toured Moslem areas calling for a "general mobilization" to confront the Syrian invaders.

Moslem Leftist army leader Lt. Ahmed Khatib told a news conference that he was ready to mobilize his forces along with those of the Palestinians and leftist militias to "resist the Syrian advance."

Khatib also said he had dismissed the commander of his Bekaa forces,

Maj. Ibrahim Chaheen, for "having failed to confront the Syrian invasion."

But by now, after four days of unhindered advances that left the Syrians controlling the northern and eastern regions of the country and probing into the south, most observers were convinced that the leftist call to arms was nothing more than sabre-rattling.

"Neither the leftists nor the Palestinians want to fight the Syrians and that is why they are saying they will. They are still hoping the Syrians will think twice about it and go away," a leftist source said.

House OKs fuel efficient auto bill

The House Thursday overwhelmingly approved a $20 million bill to start a five-year search for ways to run cars with less fuel. The vote was 296 to 86. The bill would set up a five-year program in the Energy Research and Development Administration, to give grants and contracts for advanced auto propulsion systems. "The objective is to develop engines and drive systems that are more energy-efficient, less polluting and safer," said a report with the bill.

Marine recruit emotional problems cited

A physician testified Thursday that many young Marines at Parris Island, S.C., had been recruited despite histories of emotional problems or crime. "Many said they had been told by their recruiter not to mention their records or they would not be allowed to join," said Dr. Anthony M. Costriani of Atlanta. "Others said they had been given no choice but to enlist in the Marines by local law enforcement agencies." Costriani testified before the House Military Manpower subcommittee investigating incidents of recruit abuse.

Murder, rape common at Lewisburg: inmate

Inmate Francis R. Marziani says murders, gang rapes, beatings and drugs are every-day occurrences at the Lewisburg Federal Penitentiary in Pennsylvania and he chose solitary confinement rather than be terrorized. Marziani, 38, of Drexel Hill, Pa., was placed on five-year probation after serving 15 months on an attempted arson conviction by a judge who cited in his decision "depraved, animalistic conduct" at the prison. Earlier this week, the U.S. Board of Prisons began an investigation of Lewisburg and Chief U.S. District Judge Joseph S. Lord III called for a probe of the facility.

Boston busing case was weak: Levi

Risk of further violence and a weak legal case prompted Atty. Gen. Edward Levi's decision not to involve the Justice Department in Boston's school busing appeal, a department official said Thursday. The official said Levi now is looking at other cases under litigation in which he might carry out President Ford's directive to seek limits on court-ordered busing. Suits involving Louisville, Dayton, Ohio and Wilmington, Del., are among those under consideration.

Soldiers of fortune trial in Angola set

Legal officials said Thursday the death penalty could be meted out against 13 soldiers of fortune, including two Americans and a mercenary commander who ordered his own British troops killed for cowardice. The 13 foreigners are scheduled to go on trial in Angola next week on charges they fought against the Cuban-led Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola during the former Portuguese colony's civil war.

er he meant witnesses or was suggesting the committee might investigate the rumored sexual escapades of other members of Congress.

Later, after a two-hour closed committee meeting, Flynt said the probe "will not necessarily be confined to allegations made against any one person."

He said staff investigators would interview principals and witnesses, including Hays, for "at least a week" before the panel takes testimony.

"If necessary," he said, "we will issue subpoenas to any witness who does not want to appear voluntarily."

In his statement, Hays said Miss Ray's charge "has yet to be substantiated by credible evidence" and he will be exonerated when investigators have "all the facts."

Nonetheless, he said he would call the campaign committee into session June 9 "to ask that a temporary chairman be elected until the charge against me has been resolved."

"I have also decided to call a meeting of the Committee on House Administration to discuss with them any questions concerning my role as chairman of the House Administration Committee."

Hays derives some of his considerable power from the campaign committee, which bankrolls Democrats seeking House election and has an estimated $500,000 at its disposal this year.

But he wields far more influence as master of the Administration Committee, which controls the purse-strings for much of the spending and staffing of Congressional offices.

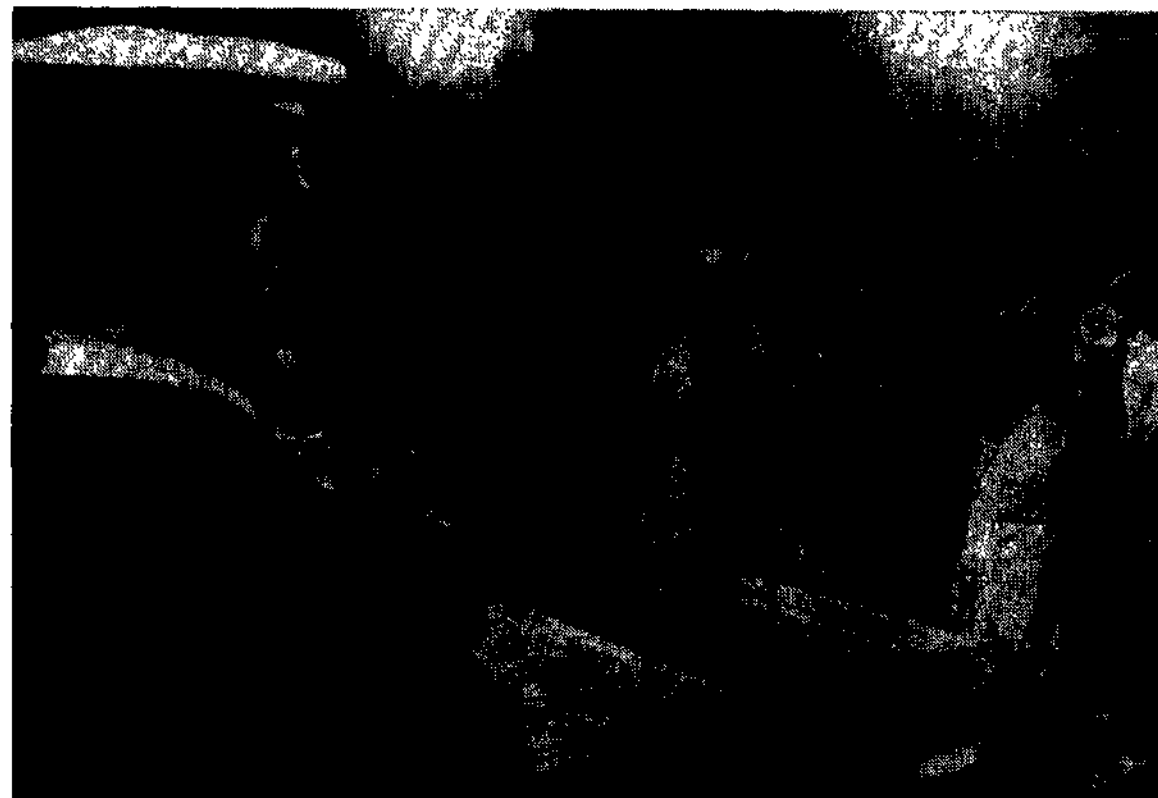

House Democratic leader Thomas O'Neill asked Hays Wednesday to give up both posts while Congress and a grand jury investigate him.

Seven House Democrats also will ask a party caucus this month to strip Hays of the Administration Committee chairmanship.

Two of those seven — Reps. Bob Berglund of Minnesota and James O'Hara of Michigan — said Thursday Hays' compromise resignation "is not enough."

BRITAIN'S MAGNA CARTA, almost four times as old as the United States, went on public display in the rotunda of the U.S. Capitol Thursday. The oldest surviving original of the historic document is dated 1215 and signed by King John. It will be on display for one year.

Magna Carta, Columbus displays unveiled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An original copy of the Magna Carta and the first map of the New World went on display in Washington Thursday as tributes from Britain and Spain to 200 years of American independence.

England lent its former colony one of four surviving copies of the Magna Carta, dated 1215 and signed by King John. A British parliamentary delegation joined congressional leaders Thursday to unveil the historic document in the Capitol's Rotunda.

It will remain on display for one year.

A few blocks away, King Juan Carlos and Queen Sophia of Spain presented the Smithsonian Institution with a bicentennial loan of 39 priceless documents and artifacts relating to Columbus and his discovery of the new world.

The exhibit, "Christopher Columbus and his Time," includes the first map of the New World, drawn on ox hide in 1500 by Juan de la Cosa, a navigator and geographer who was master of the Santa Maria on Columbus' first voyage in 1492.

The exhibition also included the wrought iron pulpit from the church of St. George of Palos from which the royal decree was read authorizing the departure of Columbus' expedition.

Clavey jury deliberation may bring verdict today

by DAN BARREIRO
The jury in the trial of former Lake County Sheriff Orville (Pat) Clavey will continue its deliberation today following the completion Thursday of final prosecution and defense arguments in federal court.
The jury began deliberation Thursday morning in U.S. District Court in Chicago, and some court observers believe a verdict might be reached today.
Clavey is being tried in Chicago on four counts of perjury, three counts of tax evasion and one count of extortion.
DEFENSE ATTORNEY George

Collins continued his attack of those charges Thursday, telling the jury of six men and six women "there is a reasonable doubt" of Clavey's guilt.
He again referred to testimony of prosecution witnesses Jerome Schuetz, former Lake County chief deputy, and Martin DeFoor, owner of the Cheetah II bar in Half Day. Both received immunity from criminal prosecution for their testimony against Clavey.
"Clavey is what Schuetz and DeFoor have to have to get their pass (immunity)," Collins said. "They (the prosecution) gave them the pass of the century and the deal of the age."

COLLINS SAID DeFoor and Schuetz knew the prosecution wanted to hear damaging testimony against Clavey, and that they obliged by concocting a story implicating Clavey.
U.S. Assistant District Atty. James Burns rebuffed Collins' closing statement. Burns said the inference from the argument was that the prosecution conspired with witnesses to convict Clavey.
"I find it repugnant to my sense of justice," Burns said. Referring to Collins' statement that Schuetz and DeFoor had to "point the finger" at Clavey, Burns said, "The question is 'was it a truthful finger?'"

The foreign language department at the College of Lake County will hold French and Spanish courses from 8 to 11:45 a.m. Monday through Thursday, starting Monday. Incorrect time of the classes was supplied by the college.

Ruling in Downstate school case

Fund use in unit role illegal: state

by DOROTHY OLIVER

Funds spent by High School Dist. 214 and Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 in the unit district controversy may have been spent illegally, according to an opinion from Illinois Atty. Gen. William J. Scott.

"It is my opinion that an Illinois school board may not expend school district funds to promote or oppose the formation of a unit school district," Scott stated in a opinion requested by the Vermilion County State's Attorney in connection with a unit school district controversy there.

"Were such a power granted to a school board, questions might be raised as to its validity under... the Illinois Constitution of 1970 which requires that public funds be used only for public purposes," the opinion states.

THE SCOTT opinion states school districts exercise "limited governmental powers" as set forth in the school code and that school districts "have no inherent powers" beyond that.

Scott said after reviewing the powers of a school board set forth in the school code "I find nothing in these provisions authorizing school boards to expend district funds... to oppose or promote a unit district."

Dist. 59 spent $5,500 to hire a consultant to update information on the impact of a unit school district in the Dist. 59 area. The district spent between $18,000 and $20,000 in 1973 for the original unit study which was used as a basis for the review this year.

Dist. 59 also has paid for the printing of the unit district citizens' study committee reports and authorized the administration to assist in the organization of the committee.

DIST. 59 RETAINED the law firm of Reid, Ochsenschlager, Murphy and Hupp for legal advice on the procedures of bringing the unit district question to the voters in a referendum. The district has not approved payments to the law firm, said Leah Cummins, coordinator of community relations for Dist. 59, but she said the attorneys have started working with district officials and "the meter is running."

Dist. 214 also has retained a law firm, Faywell, James and Brooks, for legal advice on the unit district. Robert Weber, associate superintendent for business services, said the board has paid the firm $6,525.

Dist. 214 also hired a court reporter to make transcripts of all unit district study committee meetings, Weber said. Copies of the transcripts were given to the committee and are being used by Dist. 214 officials "to keep us informed," Weber said.

In March, the district also published a special edition of "Our Schools

Are People" newsletter to the community urging residents "to join the opposition to the formation of a unit district in the area served by Dist. 59." The newsletters, written as a letter from former Board Pres. Gene Artemenko, states that the Dist. 214 board "passed a resolution expressing unanimous opposition" to the Dist. 59 unit district, which would separate Elk Grove and Forest View high schools from Dist. 214 and place the control of elementary and high schools under one board and administration.

MRS. CUMMINS and Weber each questioned whether the tax dollars spent by their districts on the unit study are illegal.

Mrs. Cummins said the Dist. 59 board has not formally voted to support or promote the unit district concept, and although some board members have publically stated they favor bringing the question to the voters in a referendum, they have not endorsed it.

"The objective of the board has been to let the voters decide," she said.

Weber said, "It's a matter of interpretation" whether money spent by Dist. 214 has been to oppose the unit district or "to keep us informed as to what is happening."

HE SAID THE lawfirm was hired "to advise us as to the legalities" of the procedures used to form a unit district.

Richard Doyle, state's attorney for Vermilion County, who requested the Scott opinion, said the question on the legality of the expenditures was raised "when one district (in the county) wanted to spend money in opposition to a unit district consolidation in another district. They wanted to fund legal moves to stop the consolidation."

He said Scott's opinion agrees with his own interpretation of what is legal, and that "school districts can't spend taxpayers' money to promote their ideas on various issues." He said the legal role of the school district is to "educate and inform — not to influence."

Project to cost $500,000

Street repairs to begin July 15

The first phase of a $500,000 five-year plan for upgrading village streets, sidewalks and curbs will begin July 15, Lawrence Oppenheimer, Wheeling public works director, said Thursday.

Oppenheimer said the village is waiting for the state to process papers on the project, which will be funded with state motor fuel tax revenues.

Major projects in the program include resurfacing of streets in the Orchard Lake development on Hintz Road. It also calls for sidewalk replacement along Laurel, Redwood, Palm, Willow and Birch streets.

Oppenheimer said he also plans to replace sidewalks along Milwaukee Avenue after the state resurfaces it in 1978.

Meadowbrook West subdivision on Wolf Road also will get curb and gutter improvements under the proposed plan. Oppenheimer said the village also will repair sewers in the area.

Construction of a $300,000 public works garage is tentatively scheduled for the 1977-78 fiscal year under the five-year plan. The village currently rents a garage at 1032 S. Milwaukee Ave. for $9,000 a year.

VARIETY
HOW MANY FEET OF ROW
HOW MANY PLANTS TO GROW PROPER SPACING TO SOW
CULTURAL TIPS TO KNOW WHEN TO HARVEST WHAT YOU GROW!

Save seed packages

by Allan and Sheila Swenson

One of the most easily overlooked, most valuable bits of paper for good gardening is the seed package. Tens of thousands of dollars are spent developing new varieties. The basic facts to grow that variety well are on the packet.

Save them. Whether they are empty or still have some seeds for later planting, put the packet in a plastic sandwich bag. It keeps them safe and dry and fresh. You also have the packet for ready reference all season.

Each packet tells the variety. It gives facts about its size, the shape and usually best ways to use it.

You'll find an estimate of how many feet of row or how many plants you can usually grow from the contents of that package. That tells you whether one or several packets will provide you want.

Directions for proper sowing are always listed. Follow these instructions exactly. Tiny seeds just don't have enough stored food to push up through the soil if you bury them too deeply. If you plant too close to the surface, birds may eat them before they sprout. Or a sudden rain may wash them away from shallow plantings.

Check spacing recommendations. If you plant too closely you'll crowd plants that sprout. That wastes seed too. You also save time thinning.

Cultural tips are often provided. Look for special tips to get best results from that particular variety. If you should soak seeds, do it.

If spacing between rows is given, plant your seeds to allow for them to mature with sufficient room within the row and between rows. Crowded plants compete for moisture, plant food and sun. Plants, like people, do need adequate room to roam and thrive.

The final point is perhaps the most important. Seed packets almost always give estimated times from planting to harvest. Mark your calendars. That way you'll know when to expect the first pickings at the peak of perfection.

You'll also be able to select varieties that give you early, mid and late season harvests for more enjoyment and better eating from your vegetables, more continuous color from your flowers.

Consider spaghetti squash

Gardeners interested in growing new varieties of vegetables should consider spaghetti squash, says Joe Vandemark, University of Illinois Extension vegetable crops specialist. Like other squash, it can be grown on fences or on the ground.

Plant seeds in hills in rows at least five feet apart, says Vandemark. Space hills four to six feet apart and plant seeds one-inch deep and three per hill. Thin plants to one to two per hill.

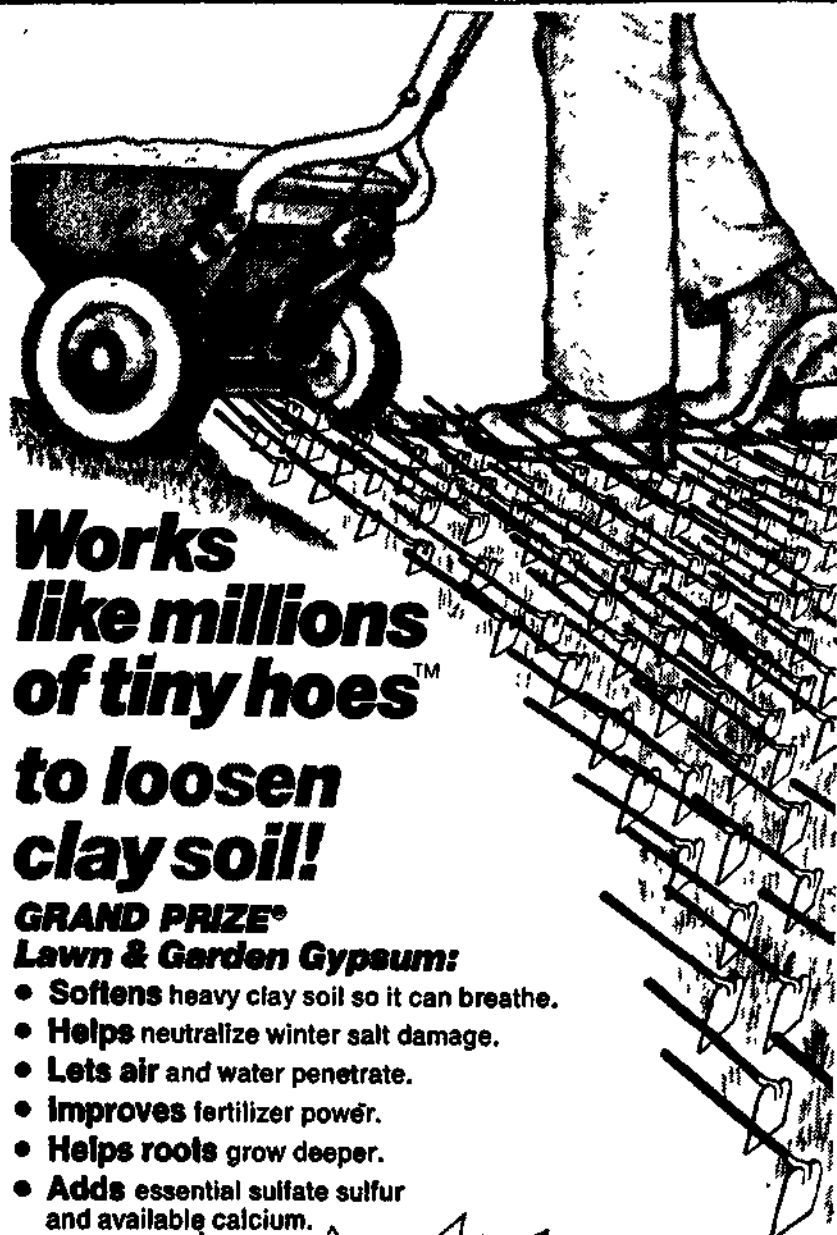

Fruit can usually be harvested in 75 to 85 days, says Vandemark.

Harvest when fruits are yellow and hard to the thumb nail. By keeping spaghetti squash harvested, their vines should produce fruit until frost.

To help home gardeners decide whether or not to grow the new spaghetti squash, Irene Downey, U. of I. Extension foods specialist makes the following cooking suggestions. Bake the fruit in its skin until you can easily stick a fork through it. The baked squash can be served with a cheese sauce or strands may be peeled into a dish with lentils and cheese for rebaking and browning.

A second method of preparation is to boil the fruit, nearly immersed, in a covered pan for 45 minutes. To serve scoop out the "spaghetti like" strands and add favorite seasoning or sauces.

For additional variety recommendations get a free copy of the Illinois Vegetable Garden Guide, Circular 1001, from your local county Extension office, or write to: Publication Office, 123 Mumford Hall, University of Illinois, Urbana, Illinois 61801.

Guest gardener

by FRANK PESCHE of Pesche's Flowers

Lawn people have a convenient way of measuring a grass's fertilizer needs. They talk about the pounds of nitrogen needed per year for each 1,000 square feet of that kind of grass.

Common Kentucky bluegrass needs 4 pounds of nitrogen. Because of their extra vigor, the improved bluegrasses need from 6 to 8 pounds. Bent needs 5 to 7 pounds.

If you follow label directions, Ortho Lawn Food 24-4-8 puts on one pound of nitrogen per 1,000 square feet. So . . . you can quickly see how many applications it takes to supply a lawn for its whole season: four for bluegrass, six to eight for improved bluegrasses, five to seven for bent.

WE'D LIKE to suggest spacing applications something like this:

For bluegrass . . . feed in April and June and then again in September and October.

For improved bluegrasses . . . feed at least once in April, May, June, September, October and November.

For bent . . . feed in April, May, June, September and October. Fall feeding is the year's most important. In late summer or early fall, your lawn notices the same pleasant chill in the evening air that you do; and its growth perks up. Stored food is low after the hard summer and should be replenished.

GRASS IN FALL produces less top growth than in spring but develops more roots and tillers. Fertilizing then goes towards building up the foundation. A fall-fed lawn stays green and healthy longer into cold weather, starts out stronger next spring.

The ability of Ortho Lawn Food 24-4-8 to work fast pays off during fall feeding. It goes into action even after the air and soil have begun to cool off. (The same pattern holds in early spring while the air and soil haven't begun to warm up.)

How much water?

Summer heights

Your summer cutting height should be about one half inch higher than in spring. Try to mow at least once a week; definitely before the grass has grown more than half its cutting height. For example, if you were mowing, at one and one half inch earlier, change now to a two inch cut, and mow before the grass reaches three inches. In shaded areas or on lawns suffering from extreme summer heat, try a three inch cutting height.

How much water does a vegetable garden require? The American Association of Nurserymen says that normal garden requirements for water are the equivalent of one inch of rainfall each week, and that if there is no rain the garden should receive a good soaking once a week. In a furrowed garden allow the hose to run between the furrows until the earth is soaked. If not furrowed, a spray attachment should be used. A thorough soaking weekly is preferable to several light waterings.

Swap and save

If you're "into" gardening and preserving, try this "swapping" to save on the food budget. When your garden produces enough squash and tomatoes for the whole neighborhood, arrange a swap with someone who has a bumper crop of corn and string beans. Swapping produce will help everyone reduce waste and add variety.

How Illinois delegation voted

Nuclear safety amendment OKd

From The Roll Call Report
Here is how members of Illinois' Congressional delegation and the state's two senators voted on major issues recently.

House

NUCLEAR SAFETY: The House adopted, 238-140, an amendment requiring the Nuclear Regulatory Commission to get "reasonable assurances" of safety at the Clinch River Tenn., nuclear power plant before issuing construction permits.

The amendment affirmed current NRC regulations but replaced another amendment that would have required more safety equipment at the plant.

YES: Crane, Murphy, Derwinski, Fary, Hyde, Annunzio, Anderson, O'Brien, Michel, Findley, Madigan, Shipley and Price.

NO: Mikva, Metcalfe, Russo, Yates, Hall and Simon.

Collins, Rostenkowski, McClory, Erlenborn, and Rallsback did not vote.

THE BUREAUCRACY: The House defeated, 178-111 a motion to send a bill extending several Public Health Service programs back to committee. The effort sought to eliminate 30 high paying jobs for the National Center for Health Services Research.

One supporter of the motion said the jobs, which cost $1 million, represent a somewhat unreasonable expenditure.

Opponents said the jobs were needed because the nation's public health programs should run and be staffed with the best possible persons.

YES: Derwinski, Hyde, McClory, O'Brien, Michel and Shipley.

NO: Metcalfe, Murphy, Russo, Fary, Collins, Yates, Hall, Rallsback, Findley, Madigan, Price and Simon. Crane, Mikva, Rostenkowski, Erlenborn and Anderson did not vote.

CONGRESSIONAL LIAISON: The House defeated, 178-143, a bill creating the post of assistant secretary of commerce for congressional affairs. The position essentially is a lobbyist job for the department.

Supporters of the bill noted that many other departments already have a similar position. Opponents contended the department already had enough lobbyists.

YES: Metcalfe, Fary, Hyde, Annunzio, McClory, Hall, Michel, Rallsback, Findley, Madigan and Price.

NO: Mikva, Russo, Collins, Shipley, Yates and Simon.

Crane, Murphy, Derwinski, Rostenkowski, Erlenborn, Anderson and O'Brien did not vote.

Senate

B-1 BOMBER: The Senate adopted, 44-37, an amendment to postpone the production of the B-1 bomber. The amendment cuts $1 billion in spending in fiscal 1977. The Air Force had planned to begin construction on the controversial plane in November.

Supporters of the budget cut said the new plane, which is designed to replace the nation's B-52 fleet, has not been tested sufficiently. The government wants to build 244 B-1 bombers with a total price tag of $23 billion.

Backers of efforts to keep the program going said the plane is the finest strategic weapon that has ever been designed.

Stevenson voted yes on the measure. Percy did not vote.

CONSUMER NOMINATION: The Senate confirmed, 45-39, the nomination of S. John Byington to a 2½-year term on the Consumer Products Safety Commission. Earlier the Senate had voted to deny confirmation of Byington, an aide to President Gerald Ford for a longer term. Ford will probably appoint him chairman of the commission.

His nomination was opposed by leading consumer groups.

Stevenson voted yes. Percy voted no.

STARS & STRIPES

Number 18 in a series

OLD GLORY

"Stars and Stripes" and "Star Spangled Banner" seem natural enough names for our flag. Yet a third and less obvious "Old Glory" has become as popular. This is, perhaps, because it came deep from the heart of a truly New England sailor.

William Driver went to sea at 12 and at 18 became master of his own vessel. Before one of his voyages from Salem, Mass., in 1813, his friends gave him a beautiful American flag. As it was raised to the mast of his ship, Charles Duggett he was visibly moved and cried out "I'll call her Old Glory boys. Old Glory!" His flag followed him throughout his seafaring days and, finally, to Nashville, Tenn., where he retired. There he flew it on all holidays and on his birthday — even at the outbreak of the Civil War to show his belief in the Union. But when the emotions of the war intensified, he sewed Old Glory between the layers of a quilt to prevent its confiscation. It remained secure despite many efforts by Southern sympathizers and Confederate soldiers to find it.

After the war that story of the Captain and his flag spread and captured the hearts of millions. Though the whereabouts of Driver's "Old Glory" is uncertain, the name the salty seaman gave her was anchored in history.

RTA city-suburb clash on Pikarsky heats meeting

by LYNN ASINOF

Suburban directors of the Regional Transportation Authority Thursday presented a united but losing front as they maneuvered to try to force the resignation of Chairman Milton Pikarsky.

The four suburbanites repeatedly voted against measures proposed by five Chicago directors during a heated board meeting. Their own proposals, designed to restrict Pikarsky's powers, were tabled until July by a 5-4 vote.

The suburban board members have threatened to block passage of the 1976-77 budget, which covers the fiscal year beginning July 1, unless Pikarsky resigns. The budget is one of the few items that needs six of the nine RTA votes to pass.

"WE'RE GOING TO win one in June folks," Richard D. Newland of Waukegan said after the suburban board members failed to block a $24.3 million grant to the Chicago Transit Authority.

Newland and other suburban members said they expect the Illinois Senate to bolster their position by approving a restructuring of the RTA as early as today.

"I'm pretty confident of at least 30 votes in the Senate," said board member D. Daniel Baldino of Evanston, noting Senate approval would improve the suburban bargaining position. He said House approval is uncertain.

The bill before the Senate would eliminate Pikarsky's position as chairman, allocate a greater percentage of RTA funds for the suburbs and increase the items that require a two-thirds vote for passage.

"WE HAD INPUT in the drafting," Baldino said of the bill. "We've been in consultation with key legislators.

We are strongly supporting it in the form it is in now."

The city and suburban board members locked horns on numerous items Thursday, including a policy statement of the board's intent to pay its attorneys and consultants.

Chicago board member Patrick O'Malley proposed the ordinance after the suburban board members blocked a budget transfer last month. Without the transfer, the RTA cannot release funds to pay an estimated $115,000 in outstanding legal fees.

BALDINO SAID he will sue for every commitment made under that policy statement, charging it is an illegal override of the previous vote. Chicago directors, however, said no money will be spent without two-thirds board approval.

The suburban directors introduced 16 ordinances designed to limit Pikarsky's power. One was defeated by the Chicago bloc vote and the others were tabled.

"I'm looking for a motion that restricts the chair from going to the bathroom, but I don't see it," O'Malley said sarcastically.

"We can all have these laughs today, but we'll see who laughs July 1," Baldino responded.

For government officials

Harper offers summer seminars

The community leadership training center at Harper College will offer a series of summer workshops designed for elected and appointed officials and the professional staff of local government units.

Each workshop is divided between two nights to allow the consultants to assign readings or work activities. The four sessions will be intensive instruction in fiscal analysis of development, June 10 and 17; governmental fund accounting, June 24 and July 1; productivity and its application to local government, July 8 and 15; and environmental assessment, July 22 and 29.

Howlett's staff to have booth at Arlington S&L

A public information booth sponsored by Illinois Sec. of State Michael J. Howlett will be at Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan Assn. office, 25 E. Campbell St., Arlington Heights, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday.

Personnel from the secretary of state's office will staff the booth to answer questions and distribute Illinois Rules of the Road and Bicycle Rules of the Road, along with other departmental literature.

The way we see it

Manage surplus funds

Northwest suburban school districts have undergone the trauma this spring of slicing budgets, laying off teachers and, in some instances, paring back education programs to balance budgets.

Boards of education have come under attack from parents, teachers and other members of the community who sincerely desire to maintain the quality of education this area offers children.

For most districts, the cuts for the 1976-77 school year have been made, and final budgets are being drawn up. The protests have quieted, and board meetings have returned to a semblance of normalcy.

One district, however, is still facing turmoil in its attempt to balance the budget.

Des Plaines Dist. 62 is in the midst of reevaluating $700,000 in budget cuts that were approved in March. The board recently approved restoring the guidance program and reinstating school nurses, based on revised budget figures that would have put the district in a surplus position for the 1976-77 fiscal year had all the cuts been maintained.

Board members at their June 21 meeting will consider reinstating some of the 20 teaching positions that were eliminated.

We feel the recent board decision was a good one, and the guidance program, in particular should be maintained if possible. At the same time, we caution the board to be careful in its decision on rehiring teachers and to do so with the best long-term interest of the district in mind.

Dist. 62 is in the enviable position of having a surplus to fall back on while in the midst of its enrollment decline. The board has the option of dipping into that surplus to balance a deficit budget rather than making the unpopular decision to cut back.

The alternative is to safeguard at least a portion of the surplus, approving annual cutbacks as they are warranted by enrollment declines and taking heat if it comes, for making unpopular decisions.

We believe it would be responsible for the board to analyze educational and staffing needs annually and make the cuts if needed. With the ongoing enrollment decline the board generally should trim the teaching staff in proportion to the loss of students.

We are not saying it would be wrong to restore any of the teaching positions eliminated in March. But we do believe the board must react to the real needs of Dist. 62 rather than to the pressure groups that form each time a difficult decision must be reached.

We feel this law could be emulated throughout the Northwest suburbs and eventually throughout the state.

Current state law says owners must post the pump prices, but they can show the price of gasoline and tax separately. We feel this is an inconvenience to drivers who then must estimate the total price.

The ordinance calls for advertisement of the price as it appears on the pump. We urge adoption of the ordinance and call on our legislators to push for state laws effecting this reasonable means of displaying prices.

Pro/Con Social Security System

Rep. William Archer

Rep. Abner Mikva

Today's topic: "The Social Security System," is debated by Rep. William Archer, R-Texas, and Rep. Abner Mikva, D-10th. This article is adapted from the National Town Meeting which is held each Wednesday in Washington, D.C. at the Kennedy Center where public figures answer the audience's questions on national issues. The meetings are supported by a grant from the Mobil Oil Corp., but it does not have control over the content.

Can the nation afford Social Security?

The Social Security fund is not in jeopardy of being unable to pay benefits in the next few years. But the conditions projected over the next 75 years, in actuarial terms, are not very attractive. The current benefit structure, without any further increases in the formula, would require that our children, after the year 2000, pay more than 20 per cent of their payroll in order to maintain the benefits. We, as a generation, are only willing to pay 12 per cent and feel that that is too high. That is irresponsible. One of the problems that we've got to face up to today is what is our responsibility from generation to generation, not just the immediate people who are on retirement. It's good that we've finally reached the day of reckoning on Social Security. Yet, even as we face the problems that have been created by past Congresses, we find proposals to once again sweep it under the rug by taking general fund revenues out of the Treasury and putting them into Social Security. Not one single member of Congress who has proposed to use general fund revenues has also proposed a tax to provide additional monies to go into the general Treasury. They leave you with the illusion that the money is going to be there and yet we know we are running a $78.5 billion deficit in the general Treasury so that it only means that what you add on top of that is going to have to be borrowed which is inflationary. And the old and the poor pay dearest in inflation. We also have got to face up to a major decision of whether we want Social Security to become a glorified welfare program or whether we want it to have a relationship to the casualty insurance concept.

An older person who wants to work should be able to work without suffering the loss of his or her Social Security benefits. This will put an extra burden on the cost of the fund and it must be reworked in such a way that this is taken care of. But I think we are losing an awful lot of productive effort, of talent of experience and capability by taking away Social Security if you earn beyond a certain amount. It is an inequity.

Is Social Security a better buy than private insurance?

Social Security, as it is formulated today, is a better buy than what you can buy privately, considering all the risk factors, survivorship benefits, disability benefits and other coverages which you must consider if you are going to make a valid comparison. The reason it is a better buy is because we are transferring to our children the responsibility of paying more than 20 per cent of their payroll to pay higher benefits. I don't care where you pay for it, through a payroll tax or out of general Treasury funds, this money has to come from the next generation.

Is the system unfair to working wives?

You cannot defend a different approach for a woman, or for a man, nor can you defend one in which you get a certain benefit if you live together not married than if you are married. It is a priority item that we must re-evaluate and overcome in the tax code. This is one instance where Mr. Mikva and I are in total agreement.

Can the nation afford Social Security?

For 40 years now, we have been able to eliminate the necessity of the poor farm and other institutional ways in which we used to take care of senior citizens. When you look over the record, Social Security has been a pretty good system. There are problems with it. Any institution that has been going for 40 years, human, government or otherwise, needs some attention and Social Security is no different. It is not insolvent (but) we've got some legitimate arguments to resolve as to what we want the system to be and how we propose to pay for the ongoing system. I sympathize with the young factory worker who is trying to support and raise a family and rails against a Social Security tax. The one thing I found out about all people under 30 — none of them ever expect to get over 30 so they think they don't have to worry about the other end of the Social Security system. But there is that other end. On the other hand, we can't continue to finance an ever increasing burden through the payroll tax. Some of us believe we ought to go to general revenues for part or all of that financing. We also have an argument about how many things we want the Social Security system to do, about what the minimum benefits ought to be and about whether the system should be made voluntary. I hope the voluntary idea is as roundly rejected as it was in 1964 because I think you cannot have a Social Security system which some people join in and others are free not to join.

Should the earnings limit for a senior citizen be eliminated?

At the risk of being accused of killing Santa Claus, let me say that while I agree in theory that we ought to get rid of earnings limitations, there are serious economic impacts that have to be reckoned with. It is not just a trivial cost we are talking about. (Not only) would this be a heavy burden on the fund, but I also ask all of you to contemplate the fact that we currently have almost 8 million unemployed who are wage earners seeking to feed their families. We have to take into account that we have to do something about a jobs program too.

Is Social Security a better buy than private insurance?

In one way, you are trying to measure apples and oranges when you try to compare private plans with the Social Security System. One measure you can use is what they call the load factors in the insurance business — that is how much of the money, in fact, gets paid out to recipients as opposed to how much is used for administration. Well, the Social Security system is non-profit and, for all its faults, the administration of the fund is cheaper than any private fund you could find. (It returns 98 cents of every dollar). Using that as a measuring stick, Social Security comes out to be a pretty good buy.

Is the system unfair to working wives?

Some of us call Social Security the sin tax because if two people living together who both paid into Social Security happen not to be married, then each can draw Social Security benefits. If they (are married) to each other, they draw only the husband's. It is a serious problem that I hope we have enough legislative sense to figure out.

Gas price display law reasonable

Palatine officials, at the request of neighboring Rolling Meadows, have under active consideration an ordinance that we fully support.

The new law would require gas station operators in Palatine to post pump prices on advertising signs, as Rolling Meadows stations began doing this year.

We feel this law could be emulated throughout the Northwest suburbs and eventually throughout the state.

Current state law says owners must post the pump prices, but they can show the price of gasoline and tax separately. We feel this is an inconvenience to drivers who then must estimate the total price.

The ordinance calls for advertisement of the price as it appears on the pump. We urge adoption of the ordinance and call on our legislators to push for state laws effecting this reasonable means of displaying prices.

Why pay $7.50?

I would like to make my opinions known, again, concerning the recent policy of collecting $7.50 per semester from each student who eats lunch at the schools.

Why? This school district (Mount Prospect Dist. 57) doesn't even have a hot lunch program. This outrageous sum is for the privilege of carrying a sack lunch. What on earth are they trying to do to the parents? Not all people in this town have money to burn. There are a lot of us out here who have to count pennies all the way.

Not all mothers in this district are working because they want to. There are a lot of mothers who work to put food in their children's mouths, clothes on their backs and to keep up with medical expenses.

Certainly some of the district people have had enough psychology to know that if a mother must work it is better for the mother to work while the children are in school and not in the evening when the children are home. Not everyone has neighbors who are willing to have other children in their homes for lunch.

The increase in book fees is bad enough to take but that can be fairly well understood. The cost of everything is up. But do we have to pay higher prices for food to send to school with our children and also an outrageous fee for nothing?

At this time I myself am going to school. I'm not even bringing in money. I'm doing this now so when my kids are in school all day I can work and help out with the family finances. I have four children, and we certainly are not gliding along with money to spare.

Worthy of note

Recently while watching a little league baseball game at Paddock School a player was seriously injured when he crashed into a fence post chasing a foul ball.

We realized the boy needed medical attention immediately, so I radioed for help from my car CB. Many CB'ers in the Palatine area monitor channel 18, so I had no trouble getting someone to call on a land-line for the paramedics. Within a few minutes an ambulance arrived and took the youngster to the hospital.

This is another instance where a CB radio has been used in an emergency situation. I want to send a sincere thank you to Saddle-Dancer and Chi-Chi who were the ones that helped out from their base stations. 777's and 333's!!

May I take this opportunity to express our gratitude and appreciation to the Prospect Heights fire department paramedic squad for the extremely prompt and efficient action it rendered to me and my family on March 22. On that date, I had a seizure and my wife called the Prospect Heights fire department for assistance. Even though it was before 8 a.m. on a Sunday, the paramedic squad arrived within a matter of minutes and after applying emergency aid, took me to Holy Family Hospital where professional medical treatment could be given.

Prospect Heights was incorporated into a city only this year. One of the things that we can be extremely proud about is the work and professionalism of our volunteer fire department.

Again, my gratitude to this fine group of men.

3,000 highway workers laid off

Thousands of state highway employees will join Chicago teachers Monday in the ranks of the unemployed as state funds to pay their salaries have run out.

Langhorne Bond, secretary of the Illinois Dept. of Transportation, announced Thursday that layoff notices were being sent to an estimated 3,000 highway maintenance workers.

Bond said the move was necessary because the Illinois General Assembly has failed to pass a $3.1 million supplemental appropriation bill for the department.

Chicago teachers also will end work Monday, 16 days before the scheduled closing of classes. School officials cited the failure of the legislature to approve a supplemental appropriation bill as the main reason for the closing.

Bond said emergency highway maintenance jobs will be handled by supervisory personnel and engineers. The layoffs will last only until July 1, which is the beginning of the new fiscal year.

Secret hearing rules OK'd

The Illinois House Executive Committee approved new rules Thursday which allow for secret hearings on misconduct complaints filed against state representatives.

The action came in response to a resolution filed by State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, against House Majority Leader Gerald Shea, D-Riverside. The resolution charges Shea violated the state government ethics act because he represented several medical groups while serving as a legislator.

The new rules would require a special committee to hold a preliminary hearing on any misconduct complaint if at least 80 members of the Illinois House vote to hold the hearing.

If the findings of the preliminary hearing warrant further investigation, a second special committee would be formed. The second committee would hold a public hearing. The full House would still have to vote to adopt the final committee report on the complaints.

Compensation law changed

The Senate Labor and Commerce Committee approved several changes in the state's controversial workmen's compensation laws. The new bill would limit the amount of money paid as a death benefit to between $15,000 to $10,660.

Committee action on the workmen's compensation legislation came over the objections of some Senate Republicans who claimed they had only five minutes to study the legislation.

The new bill also exempts most farm workers from coverage under the law. The bill, as amended, requires workmen's compensation insurance to be obtained only for farms which are worked more than 2,000 days per year.

Super dog saves girl in home fire

Perhaps he might want to see for himself.

Allan began to drive home. But then his automobile started to act strangely, as if it wanted to stall.

But he persisted and Allan finally reached home, just as the automobile gasped wheezed, sputtered and fizzled to its untimely death before their house with the newly-charred kitchen.

THERE STILL WAS confusion in the Carlson household late Wednesday afternoon. The electric range must be replaced, and the entire house needs interior painting.

Black, grimy soot and cobwebs decorated the walls and ceilings.

"We've had two contractors come in," Donna said. "The first one said, 'Gee, lady, you don't know how to bake bread, do you!'"

Actually, they feel lucky.

"We went to bed Tuesday evening very thankful," said Donna. "It could have been worse. We might have lost our daughter, or our house."

The one the Carlsons can thank is Chestnut, their golden retriever.

"She's always been a super, super dog," Donna said. "Now, she's even superer, if there is such a word."

Amateur comics get first shot at show biz

by DIANE MERMIGAS

Did you hear the one about the day it was so hot, two trees were seen fighting over a dog? Or the day it was so cold, a chicken was seen crossing a road with a capon? (cape on)

If your funny bone was tickled by those two-liners, there's plenty more like them at the Maroon Racoon, a small and unsuspecting night spot in Rosemont, where amateur, stand-up comedians are invited to take their first shot at show business with anything from rope tricks to impressions.

The club, 6350 River Rd., is the home of Comedy College, the only remaining school of its kind in the Midwest for young, hopeful comics who need assurance that the acts they have to sell are worth laughing at.

They audition their skits and gimmicks at the club Wednesdays through Saturdays, 9 p.m. to 2 a.m. during 10 to 20-minute sets.

The novice comics, including everyone from actors and college students to businessmen and truck drivers, spare nothing to come up with a good joke. They poke fun at sex, politics, marriage and movie stars, and once they get an audience ignited they'll say just about anything to keep the laughter lighted.

"LAUGHTER IS music to a comedian's ears," said Larry McManus, founder and director of Comedy College, which offers greenhorns tips and encouragement on getting up in front of a beer-drinking, popcorn-eating crowd.

"You don't hear too much of it when you first start out. Sometimes, you never get a laugh at all. But rejection is part of the business. You learn to take it and work on revising your routines and writing new jokes until you make it," said McManus, 28, an English graduate of Northeastern Illinois University who leads the double life of a struggling comedian and advertising copy writer.

McManus decided to give stand-up comedy a try after being coaxed by friends who had labeled him "the life of the party."

That was in 1974 when the only area, volunteer, comedy workshop was operated out of La Pub, a Chicago night spot. It took about six months of nightly performances to develop a style and package of jokes that "people would laugh at," he said.

When the comedy workshop was forced to shut down, McManus decided to start one of his own in the Northwest suburbs where he believes a new following could be tapped.

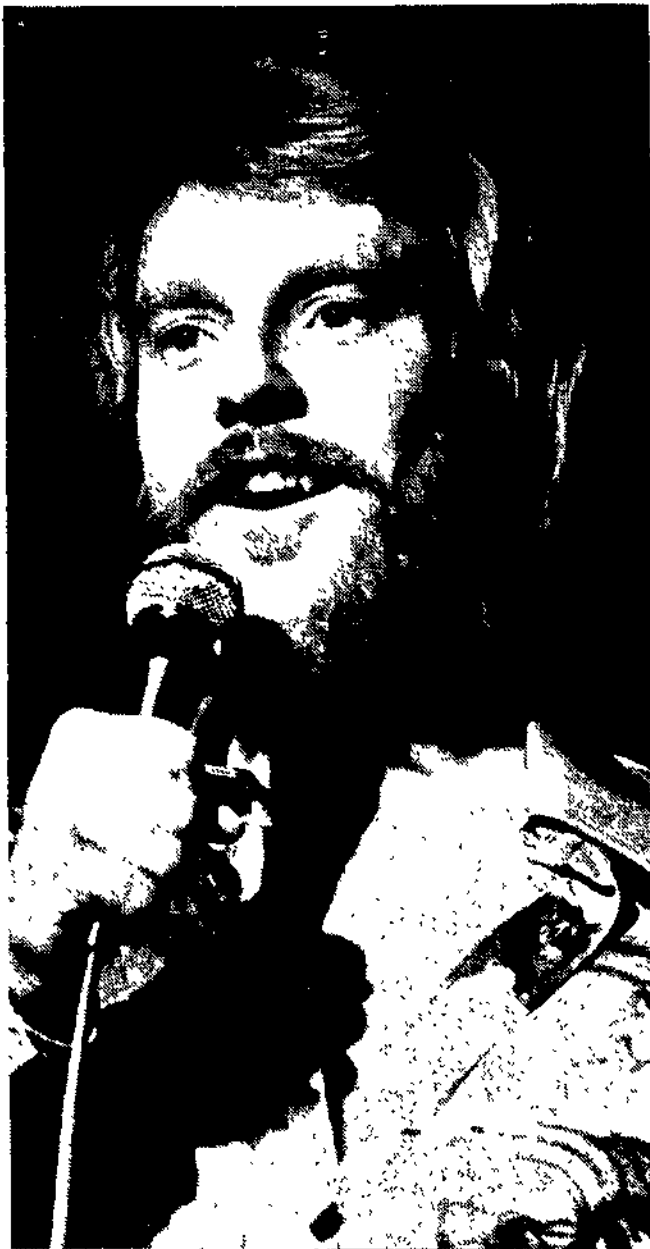

FOR THE PAST year, he has been coordinating nightly lineups of about 15 performances at the Maroon Racoon, training neophyte comics and occasionally playing conventions, dinner dances and other nightclubs.

At least 25 students are enrolled in two, eight-week courses on comedy writing and performing offered through Comedy College at the Rosemont Community Center.

Bradley Wethern, an instructor at the college and formerly an actor in a west coast theater group, came to the Chicago area six months ago in order to pursue a career in stand-up comedy. He and McManus each have their own 15-minute spots in the Maroon Racoon show.

"I LIKE WHAT I'm doing now better than acting because here it is a one-man show. You are the actor, the producer, the director, and you are solely responsible for your own success or failure," Wethern said.

He relies heavily on characterizations — various faces, voices and names — to make his audience laugh. Other comedians spoof daytime television game shows, popular products on the market, and colorful politicians.

STAND-UP COMEDIANS like Bradley Wethern resort to many faces, subjects and punch lines to spark laughter from audiences at the Maroon Racoon in Rosemont. The local night is home of Comedy College, which offers training to novice comics and an opportunity for them to audition their acts.

They live each day to become more like a Bob Newhart or a Will Rogers, and they continually dream of a smoke-filled club echoing with laughter that never dies.

"That's the way most of us view comedy — as a harmless way to show people how to laugh at themselves. It's healthy," Wethern said.

"Our main concern is to provide entertainment for our patrons, whether we are giving them first-timers or veterans of the comedy world," McManus added.

"Anyone in their right mind would have to agree that this isn't the easiest profession in the world to get into," he continued.

IT REQUIRES working your regular job during the day, trying out your comedy act at night, going home and writing newer and funnier material, and then doing it all over again the next day.

"Some people will never make a living off comedy. They wait three months to build up enough nerve to get up in front of a crowd just to find out they aren't really funny," McManus said. "Others steal the show their first time up."

"Our dropout rate is pretty high, but at least we're around for those who want to try," he added.

And so, on a Saturday night, before the usual standing room only crowd of 300, you can almost hear each nervous comic cry out as he approaches the plain, slightly elevated stage at one end of the club:

"Oh, God, please make them laugh!"

Catlow: older than the late late show

by NANCY SERRITELLA

The small, unobtrusive exterior of the Catlow theater offers only faint evidence of the deep history, charm and interesting facts housed inside.

Independently owned, the Catlow first opened at its Main Street location in Barrington on May 28, 1923.

ACCORDING TO Ed Skehan, present owner and manager, May 28 is also Wright Catlow's birthday. Now in his 70s, Catlow has retired to Sarasota, Fla.

In detailing the history of the theater, Skehan said Joseph Cat-low came to Barrington from Lake Zurich, where he had operated an ice business the early part of this century.

In Barrington, the Catlows built a "family social center" at a location which was most recently the site of the White Hen Pantry on Station Street. The center was used for dances, gatherings and to show movies.

"People sat on wooden benches there," Skehan said.

And a young man named Ray Jahnke worked for "Grandma Catlow" selling "three kinds of candy and two kinds of gum" behind the candy counter.

THE FAMILY center was sold to become the Hamper Factory. In 1928 the new movie theater was opened on Main Street by Joseph Catlow's son, Wright.

The first film shown was "Slide, Kelly, Slide."

Skehan said immediately after the theater opened, the Great Depression hit the country and the Catlow suffered some difficult times.

"The theater almost went under. But the banks knew Catlow to be a good man and gave him lenient payment terms to keep the local theater going."

Behind the theater's stage are signs that still recall the "good old days."

One obviously long-unused sign setting backstage announced "Admission 30 cents. Matinees 12 cents."

THE THEATER today, interesting and beautiful in its design, is much the same as it was nearly 50 years ago.

"The theater was used for stage shows and we still have the dressing rooms in the back," Skehan said.

The wooden beamed ceiling, goldleaf designs, and hand-painted art work throughout the theater are all original. Much of the decorative design was done by Alphonso Iannelli of the Chicago Art Institute, Skehan said, and a small sculpture in the lobby of the theater was a handmade gift from Iannelli to Wright Catlow on the opening night of the theater.

"This is all solid oak paneling," Skehan explained of the interior. "It couldn't be replaced today."

A small pit in front of the stage is still a part of the theater. And on either side of the stage are the lofts that housed the pipes of a pipe organ.

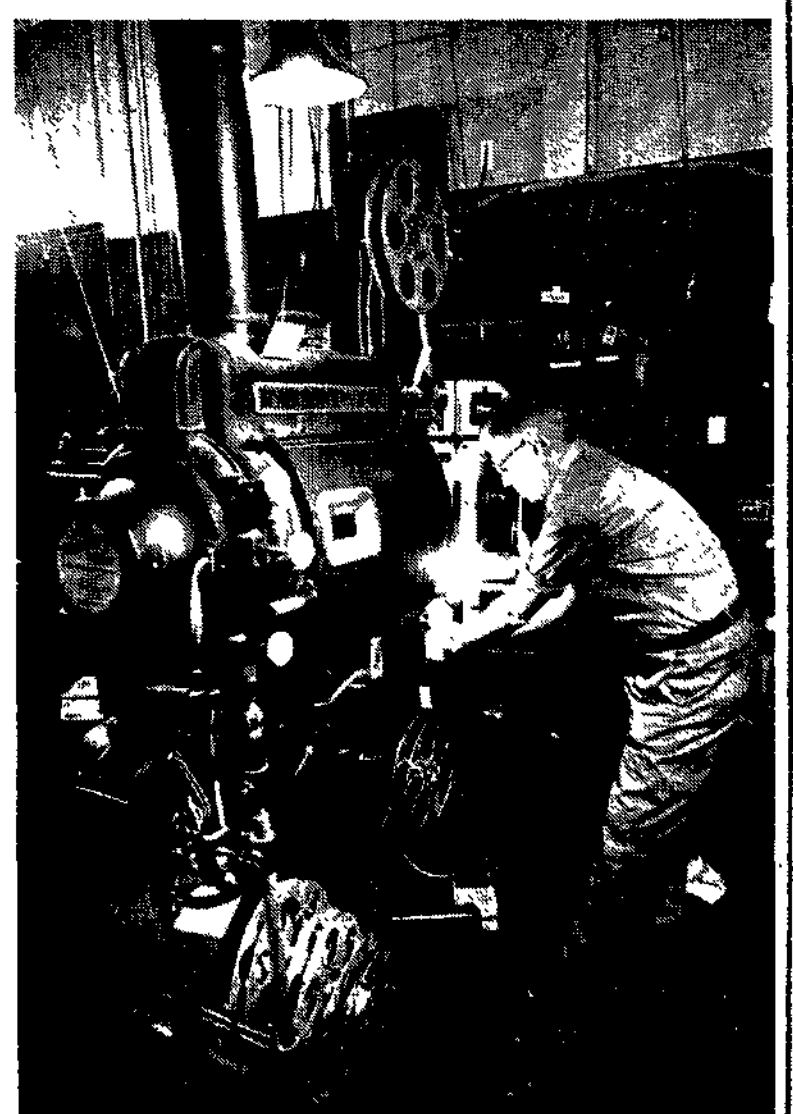

"Chester Catlow (Wright's brother) used to play the organ before the shows started," Skehan added.

AND AS FOR the theater's projectionist, he's the original, too. Ray Jahnke, who started behind the old candy counter, has always been the Catlow theater's projectionist.

"I've only had two bosses," Jahnke said. "Catlow and Ed Skehan."

"When I started in the business I was one of the youngest projectionists. Today I'm one of the oldest," Jahnke said.

"Most men my age just want to

retire. That's the last thing I want to do."

And, as can be expected, Jahnke is a pro in his field.

WHERE MOST new theaters are more fully automated and have new projectors with light bulbs to light the screen, Jahnke

The oak interior of the Catlow is still intact.

'T Shirt' album humorous though often irreverent

Loudon Wainwright III's humor is not for everybody. Some would call it sick (remember "Dead Skunk in the Middle of the Road"?), and others would object to its frequent earthiness.

But "T Shirt" (Arista), his new album, is filled with genuinely witty moments. So what if you end up snickering more often than guffawing?

If you like irreverence, there's plenty and it starts with "Bicentennial" which is a celebration of sarcasm and salutes "our heroes . . . including old Jack Ruby." Much is delivered deadpan and there's a firecracker finish.

Much of Wainwright's humor comes from the juxtaposition of the ridiculous and the sublime, the unexpected turn of a phrase such as the light, breezy jazz tone of "Summer's Almost Over" with the lyric: "Summer's almost over/A new season's coming up/Time to gird your loins/And don your jockstrap and your cup." (Copyright 1976 Snowden Music Inc.)

"Talking Big Apple '75" is both a good takeoff of Dylan's style and New York City. "Prince Hal's Dirge" is a funny view of the cartoon character's thoughts set to a "down and nasty" sound. The album's only non-original song, "Hey Packy," is well done too.

Some of the other selections deal with getting drunk, "Wine With Dinner," who's who in "California Prison Blues" and a couple you'd not want to meet in "Reciprocity."

Some other new albums by singer-songwriters in a more serious vein include:

• "Black Rose" by John David Souther (Asylum). Excellent production by Peter Asher and arrangements by David Campbell (both of whom have worked with Linda Ronstadt) are the real highlights of this album. Souther (part of the Souther, Hillman, Furay Band) suffers from occasional lapses in writing and singing (the strained parts of "Your Turn Now" make you wince).

Campbell uses a chamber ensemble very effectively on "Faithful Love," "Silver Blue" (both recorded previously by Ronstadt) and "Doors Swing Open." It is the starkness and simplicity that make the arrangement beautiful.

The all-star supporting cast includes Art Garfunkel, Lowell George, Ronstadt, Joe Walsh, David Crosby, Stanley Clarke and members of the Eagles.

• "Cardiff Rose" by Roger McGuinn (Columbia) Over-all this is

by Tom Von Malder

a fun album, full of the spirit of Dylan's recent touring with Bob Dylan's Rolling Thunder Revue. It's produced by Mick Ronson, who also plays several instruments. Ronson was with the Review, as were Joni Mitchell and Dylan who both contribute songs, "Up To Me" and "Dreamland," respectively.

"Dreamland" with its imagery is a highlight, as is "Take Me Away," a spirited re-telling of the Review tour co-written by McGuinn and Jacques Levy. Levy, who helped write Dylan's "Desire" album, also co-wrote three other songs on the McGuinn album, including "Jolly Roger," a tale of piracy.

• "Sweet Surprise" by Eric Andersen (Arista). Andersen's folksinging days date back to Greenwich Village in the early sixties. He never really went electric and thus is less known than some of his contemporaries.

He remains a most literate songwriter, on this his second and best Arista album. The title song is a strong uptempo ballad, which combines electric and steel guitars well. Typically, though, most of the album has an acoustic sound. "Love Will Meet Again," sung with co-author Jennifer Condos, is very pretty and uses a cello to set the atmosphere. "Dreams of Me Ico" is another good ballad.

Soundings:

Epic will release an album with the best of GRIN, Nils Lofgren's old band . . . QUINCY JONES is readying an album for July release and at least half will be "salsa funk" using Puerto Rican street musicians. . . yet another delay for the STEVIE WONDER album.

In the area: NAZARETH, THIN LIZZY and IAN GILLIAN BAND, tonight, Aragon Ballroom; SYLVERS, tonight and Saturday, Sportsman's Park, 3301 S. Laramie Ave., Chicago.

Agnew's no novelist but spins a fascinating tale

"THE CANFIELD DECISION,"
BY SPIRO T. AGNEW
Playboy Press, $8.95

The author, Spiro T. Agnew, lives in Arnold, Md., not far in miles from Washington, D. C. He travels the world. He was formerly Vice President of the United States.

That is the author's biography, in its entirety, as it appears on the dust jacket of "The Canfield Decision," and it sums up succinctly the interest in Agnew's book.

The plot has been discussed before — a vice president, Porter Canfield, with presidential ambitions, gets mixed up in a Middle East plot that could have dire consequences for the United States.

Agnew gives the reader his money's worth in having produced 344 pages in very small type. This is no novellette.

The former Vice President also is no novelist — his characters are wooden, the vice president's affair with the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare falls well below the flash point, and his plot trips along without raising the reader's tension past tedium.

THAT IS NOT to say the book is without interest — but what makes it interesting are the sidelights of life along Pennsylvania Avenue, the wheeling and dealing of politics, and the lack of admiration in which Agnew's vice president holds his president.

It's also fascinating to see the way in which Agnew views certain aspects of American life, which likely reflect the way many of those who admired him before his fall look at things. It doesn't mean the view is correct, but it isn't often the reader gets such a good inside view from the top.

Take Agnew's view of the press and reporters as reflected in the way he draws the characters of several reporters. His dislike is obvious and it transcends politics or political devices.

THEN THERE'S THE ever-present game when a celebrity writes a work of fiction that must at least in part be autobiographical — if only in the background it establishes for its plot.

The name of the game is, "I wonder who he meant by THAT?" or "Did so-and-so really do THAT?"

One columnist has questioned whether Agnew wrote this book himself. From a literary standpoint, there's little reason to think he didn't. And the opinions expressed undoubtedly belong to Spiro Agnew, whose name was not a household word eight years ago.

"VERY SPECIAL PEOPLE"
BY FREDERICK DRIMMER
Bantam, $1.95

The message that prejudice is fear born of ignorance shines through the cheap hype surrounding "Very Special People" by Frederick Drimmer, the story of famous "freaks."

Drimmer, most admirably, has undertaken to banish the sideshow trappings of human oddities. He has brought out the humanity of those who have to live without arms or legs or those covered with hair or giants or midgits or any other manifestations of a whimsical nature.

"Very Special People," as Drimmer chooses to call his unusual subjects, is a fine piece of reporting. It is sympathetic and understanding without becoming maudlin or mawkish.

He tells straightforwardly the stories of Eng and Chang, the original Siamese Twins; of Robert Wadlow, the Alton giant who hoped to open shoe stores to become "more than a giant;" of deformed children sold to "guardians" who ruthlessly exploited them.

IT IS UNFORTUNATE that much of the early advertising of the book has focused on the grotesque physical forms instead of the people themselves.

People, being only human, have always stared at those among us who are different. Drimmer has shown us there are more similarities than differences.

He does not evoke pity so often as he does outrage. Consider Charlie Byrne, an Irish giant, whose fears came true: his corpse stolen or sold from the undertaker so his flesh be boiled away and his skeleton more easily examined.

ROBERT WADLOW HAD read of Byrne's end. When the Alton giant died in 1940, he was buried in a concrete reinforced vault, mindful that people cared for his unusual body and not himself.

In short, "Very Special People" is recommended as fascinating and enlightening.

Area artists' show

"America Next Door," an art exhibit coordinated by the Arlington Heights Bicentennial Commission and co-sponsored by First Arlington National Bank and Countryside Art Center, opens tonight at 8 at Countryside Gallery, 414 N. Vail.

More than 40 local artists will each be showing between two and three pieces of work. The show continues through June, then moves to Pioneer Park, Arlington Heights, for the 4th of July holiday. Paintings, graphics and sculpture are included. A cash award goes to the best Arlington Heights scene.

Open auditions

Tryouts for "The Merry Wives of Windsor," a play going into production by The Friends of Schaumburg Township Library, are scheduled tonight from 7 to 10 in the library's large meeting room. The play will be presented in August.

Anyone interested in auditioning who cannot make tonight's date may arrange for a reading with director Joe McCauliffe at Schaumburg, 528-1732.

Plaza art fair

Mount Prospect Plaza, Rand and Central Roads, is sponsoring its 14th annual art fair this weekend. Oil paintings, watercolors, acrylics, pastels, sculpture, pottery and various crafts will be shown. Hours Saturday are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Sunday 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Musical tryouts

Auditions for the musical comedy "Sweet Charity," being produced by Stagedoor Theatre, will be held tonight at 8 and Saturday from 2 to 5 p.m. at the theater in the Northwest Center for the Performing Arts, 704 S. Bonded Pkwy., Streamwood. Information 289-2000.

The play opens July 16 and runs for three weekends.

Guilda awards

Guilda awards for outstanding acting and technical achievement will be presented at the annual spring banquet of Des Plaines Theatre Guild. The event is Saturday in the Sheraton O'Hare North's Hall of Kings. Cocktails begin at 6:30, followed by dinner, dancing, and slides and excerpts from the six shows of the 1975-76 season.

Information 296-1211.

Interview by David Frost

Nixon finally to tell his side

by DAVID DUGAS

David Frost has become a movie mogul just when his career as a television personality is approaching its zenith by way of an exclusive interview with Richard M. Nixon.

Frost dropped in at his New York office long enough to talk about those mutually exclusive subjects, Nixon and moviemaking.

They are of undeniably different weight.

Frost waded into the movie business a couple of years ago with a film, "Charley One-Eye," starring Richard Roundtree, Roy Thinnes and Nigel Davenport.

"The star of the picture was a one-eyed chicken, of all things," Frost said over a breakfast coffee, juice and cigar. "It was a powerful film or an awful film, depending on what you thought of it."

Undeterred, in any event, Frost now has "executive produced" (meaning pulled together the talent and financing) two wildly different pictures.

"The Slipper and Rose," based on "Cinderella" with Richard Chamberlain and Gemma Craven, has opened to rave reviews from London critics.

"Leadbelly," just released in the United States, is Gordon Parks' dramatization of the life of the legendary singer-composer who became a musical phenomenon after spending half his life in prisons and on chain gangs. The film works in more than a dozen Leadbelly songs, including "The Rock Island Line" and "Midnight Special."

"I like to make things happen," Frost says. "I like conceiving the project, finding the writer and director and being involved in that whole process of making it happen."

He has three more pictures in the works.

Then there is Richard Nixon.

Last August, a year to the day after the scandal of Watergate forced Nixon out of the White House, Frost announced that the former President had agreed to submit to a series of interviews to be conducted and produced entirely at Frost's discretion.

"I have sole editorial control, sole control of content and of editing," Frost reaffirmed.

"Mr. Nixon has no right to know any of the questions in advance, nor indeed to see the edited programs before they are broadcast."

Frost will tape a dozen two-hour sessions, 24 hours in all, to produce six hours for television. The taping is to begin at Nixon's San Clemente, Calif., home in November and December. January will be devoted to editing, with the programs "to air simultaneously in the United States and 60 other countries in February and March," he said.

The taping will begin immediately after the U.S. Presidential elections Nov. 2.

"That was the one thing Mr. Nixon felt strongly about," Frost said, "because he didn't want to be accused of influencing the election. It was always going to air after the election and it was left open whether we were going to start taping immediately before or immediately after the election. We decided to start afterwards because I felt he'd be that much more relaxed, talking about Republicans and Democrats, if the elections were out of the way. And it fits in which his finishing the first draft of his book."

Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein, the Washington Post newspaper reporters who broke many of the major Watergate revelations and later co-authored the book, "All the President's Men," recently published a sequel, "The Final Days." Their account of Nixon's last days in the White House pictures him as drinking heavily and sometimes speaking incoherently.

"There was a review that said the one absentee from the book, 'The Final Days,' is the star of it, because he wasn't spoken to," Frost said. "Of course that's the unique thing we have, and the interest all over the world is building and building."

"The great things about it, of course, is that it combines the human interest — why did he do what he did, what is this man really like, what made him tick? — with the historical interest of so many unanswered questions."

"It's got both of the things I've always said are really the prerequisites of the perfect interview. He's by far the most interesting man to interview in the world. And there are no restrictions."

The former President may not be the only figure in the Frost interviews.

"There is no official provision for Pat or any of the rest of the family to be there," Frost said.

"That would be an ad hoc arrangement. And obviously other participants in the drama may take part."

DAVID FROST and Richard M. Nixon meet to discuss the taping of "no holds barred" exclusive interview in which the former President will talk of his final days in office.

"I mean there may be an incident which Richard Nixon recounts from his point of view and we want to hear the story from the point of view of the other person who was present at the meeting. That's why it's such a big budget production. We want to have that ability to go and see how the story looked from someone else's point of view, to play that cassette to him and continue the dialogue."

"We shall use newsreels, too. As the helicopter leaves the White House, what was he thinking at that moment? Obviously the sole star will be Richard Milhous Nixon."

The series is budgeted at "close to $3 million" Frost said. But he won't say what Nixon will be paid. "One makes guesses. I do have a pledge with him that I won't actually say what it is."

Frost interviewed Richard Nixon once earlier when he covered all the leading candidates for the 1968 presidential election. Nixon said he felt Frost had been fair in editing their 40-minute session into nine minutes of TV.

"Quite apart from the bidding" of other parties for the definitive Nixon interview, Frost said, "that may well have been a factor in his feeling that he could grant these extraordinary editorial controls 100 per cent to me."

Frost's organization issued a press release saying Nixon "does not have, nor did he seek any editorial control."

"That 'Nor did he seek' is the really remarkable part," Frost said.

"I'm sure he'll never sit down and confront his past again in the way he's going to do in these 24 hours on these terms."

Artists invited to enter summer art fair circuit

Summer is barely here but artists are already being encouraged to exhibit their talents at outdoor fairs scheduled through September in the Chicago and area.

Browsing at the suburban shows is a popular summer pastime. The lineup of various forms of art, often interspersed with displays of unusual craftsman, makes a pleasant afternoon for viewers.

Artists and craftsmen may apply now for space in these upcoming shows.

July 3: The ninth annual Palatine Art Fair will be held at the local community park, sponsored by the Palatine Jaycees and Jaycee Auxiliary in conjunction with the 4th of July Bicentennial.

Open to all media, the fair will also feature demonstrations and on-the-spot sketches by artists. Cash awards and ribbons will be presented. Entry fee is $10 through June 25, and applications may be obtained from Mrs. Bobbi Metcalf, 356 Willow Wood Dr., Palatine, 359-3312.

Aug. 15: Barrington Women's Club is issuing an invitation to artists and craftsmen to participate in the 18th annual Barrington Art Fair, to be held inside and outdoors at Barrington High School. Indoor space is $12 per booth; outdoor, $10 per unit.

Categories in the juried show include painting, photography, watercolor, ceramics, graphics, original crafts and sculpture. Juried show entries are $2 per entry for exhibitors; $4 per entry for non-exhibitors.

Blanks and further information may be obtained from Barrington Art Fair, 1410 Lake Shore Dr. South, Barrington, 80010. Two hundred entries are expected.

Aug. 15: Itasca Junior Woman's Club anticipates participation by 150 artists and craftsmen for its 10th annual Art Fair on the Itasca Village Green. Proceeds will benefit the Sudden Infant Syndrome Regional Research Center at Loyola University's Stritch School of Medicine.

The Juniors are also seeking patrons to make donations to the fair and advertisers in the program booklet to be distributed free to visitors. Exhibitors, advertisers and patrons may participate by writing to Itasca Junior Woman's Club, P.O. Box 26, Itasca, 60143. Exhibitor space is $15 per unit.

Sept. 18-19: Applications are being accepted for artists who wish to be juried for the 21st annual Park Forest Art Fair. Media include paintings and drawings, ceramics, non-mass produced prints, non-commercial photography, handmade jewelry, handwoven or individually dyed textiles and hand-blown or molded glass.

Cash awards and purchase prizes will total $3,500. Two hundred artists are expected. In order to qualify they must submit colored slides or photos of at least five individual pieces of work prior to the July 9 jurying deadline. The slides or photos should be mailed, with stamped, self-addressed envelopes, to Artist Registration Chairman, Park Forest Art Center, 410 Lakewood Blvd., Park Forest, Ill. 60468. Registration fee is $15 for each piece of work. Further information is available at 748-4253 or 748-8051.

Sept. 19: Streets, sidewalks and parking lots in the central business district will be filled with booths displaying antiques, collectibles, crafts, games, artwork and food at the fifth annual Wilmette Community Fair. The entire show is expected to attract 300 exhibitors.

Applications for exhibit space and other fair information are available from Phyllis Fisher, 256-2044; Valerie Whiteside, 251-0732; or Alice Platon, 251-7336.

It's a treat to sample their sweets

At first glance, the Patisserie in Randhurst Shopping Center, Mount Prospect, is a caloric emporium. The glass shelves at the entrance to the bakery/coffee house are lined with fresh Danish pastries, coffee cakes, doughnuts, pecan rolls, cookies, eclairs, brownies and tarts.

There are apple dumplings, pies, strudels, Black Forest cakes, cream puffs and turnovers, all baked daily. The gooey, sweet selections seem almost endless.

Yet, my friends and I actually trons. Waitresses appropriately wear peasant-styled uniforms.

Because we had already previewed our desserts while waiting for a table, we attempted to keep lunch minimal.

One friend found the French Onion Au Gratin soup, 90 cents, a broth full of lightly seasoned, sliced onions topped with melted cheese on a small slice of homemade bread, extremely flavorful without being overpowering.

Two others in our party ordered chicken salad and tuna salad sandwiches, $1.55 each. Fillings were plentiful and the bread freshly baked and thickly sliced. Potato chips garnish the sandwiches.

Always fighting a bigger appetite than most of my friends, I ordered a ham and cheese omelet, $1.95, which is a house specialty.

THE OMELET, though smaller than most served in other restaurants, was exactly the right size for a noon luncheon. It was cooked to perfection with the melted American cheese and thinly sliced ham neatly folded into the center and was served with an ample wedge of warm coffee cake.

However, desserts were what we were looking forward to, and after much deliberation we ordered between us: hot, deep-dish peach pie topped with cinnamon ice cream, 85 cents; chocolate eclair, 55 cents; pecan tart, 45 cents; and French cheese-cake, 59 cents.

Everything was delicious. The serving of pie was so generous my friend couldn't even finish all of it. Another who ordered an apricot turnover but was disappointed in the amount of fruit filling sent it back for the chocolate eclair and was very happy she did.

THE CHEESECAKE, rich and creamy, was one of the best I've tasted and arrived garnished with whipped cream and a maraschino cherry.

Some of us on the way out loaded up on cinnamon bread and Swedish flap cake for breakfast the next morning.

The Patisserie has been in operation for a year and a half. Hours coincide with those of the shopping center.

A new, more extensive menu is expected to be completed in the next several weeks. Added will be such items as Quiche Lorraine and a variety of crepes.

But the best is still the desserts. And they will remain the same. Hopefully, so will the prices which, by most bakery standards and inflated sugar prices, are extremely low. It's only the calories that add up.

Ravinia coupon books go on sale at local banks

Ravinia's sales force of 1,000 enthusiastic, well-organized women is offering a complete entertainment package at 20 per cent discount for this summer's 41st season.

The "20 per cent off" applies to every performance — from concerts by James Levine and the Chicago Symphony with Leontyne Price, to Andre Previn with Sherrill Milnes, to Benny Goodman, Judy Collins, and Kris Kristofferson.

Coupon books sell at the special price of $20 for $25 worth of coupons. Each book contains 25 $1-coupons which can be used at the entrance gates, box office at Ravinia Park or at Ravinia's downtown office. They provide a 20 per cent saving on both lawn admission and reserved seat tickets.

THE COUPON campaign ends July 6. Until then the books are available locally at Palatine National Bank, Mount Prospect State Bank and in Arlington Heights at the First Arlington National Bank and Northwest Trust and Savings Bank.

The Ravinia Festival season opens June 24 with James Levine, Ravinia's distinguished young music director, conducting the Chicago Symphony Orchestra's first performance of Arnold Schoenberg's romantic cantata, "Gurrelieder," for soloists, chorus and orchestra.

The 12-week season closes Sept. 12. A galaxy of entertainers, including world recognized concert and opera singers, has been assembled for the summer. The 12 weeks will feature round-the-clock activity, from morning workshops to post-concert theatrical revues.

There will be a strong emphasis on American music, both popular and serious, and special focus on the music of Beethoven.

Area girl joins dance company

Amalea Parkud of Mount Prospect will appear in concert with the nationally known Margot Grimmer and her American Dance Company at 8 p.m. Saturday at Weinstein for the Performing Arts, 2810 Sheridan Rd., Evanston.

She was selected for the dance company last year after auditions for a Bob Hope Show involving more than 100 area dancers.

In 1971 Amalea was named Miss Mount Prospect and later won a grand talent award for dance at the Miss Illinois pageant.

Reserved concert tickets, $5, can be obtained by calling 498-3023 or 835-2556 and will be sold at the box office Saturday evening between 7 and 8. Unreserved balcony seats are $4.

Ideal Society campaign opens

Residents of the Northwest suburbs are launching a six-week campaign to create an Ideal Society, with the kick-off ceremony next Thursday, at 7:30 p.m. in Thomas Junior High School, Arlington Heights.

The event is part of a nationwide program sponsored by the World Plan Executive Council, parent of five affiliated organizations teaching the Transcendental Meditation technique. The ceremony will be highlighted by a videotaped message from Maharishi Mahesh Yogi, founder of the meditation program.

man major exhibition at Sears Bank and Trust Company, Chicago.

It is the largest, most complete showing of Hunt's work to be shown in the city since 1971.

His studio, a converted streetcar power station, houses evidence of nature's influence on his work. Lying scattered around are his models — weathered tree stumps, gnarled roots and twisted branches.

WITH MATERIALS of steel, aluminum and bronze, Hunt uses welding torches, drills and various other tools to develop the same forms nature might create if these sculptural materials were available to her.

The largest sculpture in the exhibition is being previewed in Chicago with special permission from the City of New York. It has the working title of "Roosevelt Square" and is designed for Roosevelt Square Park in New York City, to be erected later this summer.

Weighing five tons and measuring 26 feet long by 15 feet wide by 10 and a half feet high, the bronze sculpture is installed outside Sears Tower at Wacker Drive and Monroe Street.

The Sears Bank Exhibition encompasses Hunt's earliest works through his latest pieces, including four sculptures which have never been shown. Sculpture, drawings, lithographs and color screen prints are featured, as well as sketches and models for commissioned sculpture, depicting the evolution of major works.

A RAVINIA trustee and director of the 1976 Art Exhibit at Ravinia Festival this summer, Hunt is arranging a sculpture show of varying scale for placement in the meadow, with an additional selection of smaller pieces for exhibit on the first floor of the Casino.

Hunt has titled the exhibit "Sculpture of Our Time" because "many of the sculptures are made from metal, a material of our time that works very well in outdoor situations."

The artists whose works will appear at Ravinia have used raw corten, stainless steel, brushed aluminum and painted metal, as well as bronze, to create a wide variety of objects for display in the park and the indoor gallery.

A MONUMENTAL piece by Hunt will be permanently placed on the lawn as his gift to Ravinia.

Among other local artists represented in the outdoor display are Brian Monaghan, Herald Jacquard, Jerry Pearl, Paul Slepak, John Henry, Charles Wilson, Barry Tinsley and Virginia Ferrari. The Festival opens its 41st season June 24.

The Hunt exhibition at Sears Tower continues through July 30, 9 a.m.-3 p.m., Monday through Thursday; 9 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Friday.

Suzuki violinists to play Sunday in Orchestra Hall

The Suzuki Academy of Performing Arts will feature 100 young violinists, ages 3 to 17, in a concert at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in Orchestra Hall, Chicago.

Under direction of Mrs. Betty Haag and accompanied by pianist Julian Leviton, the violinists will perform Suzuki repertoire containing folk tunes to Mozart and Bach classics.

Guest soloist Adolph Herseth, a first trumpeter of the Chicago Symphony, will perform two baroque concertos with the Suzuki Chamber Orchestra conducted by Henry Mazer, associate conductor of the Chicago Symphony.

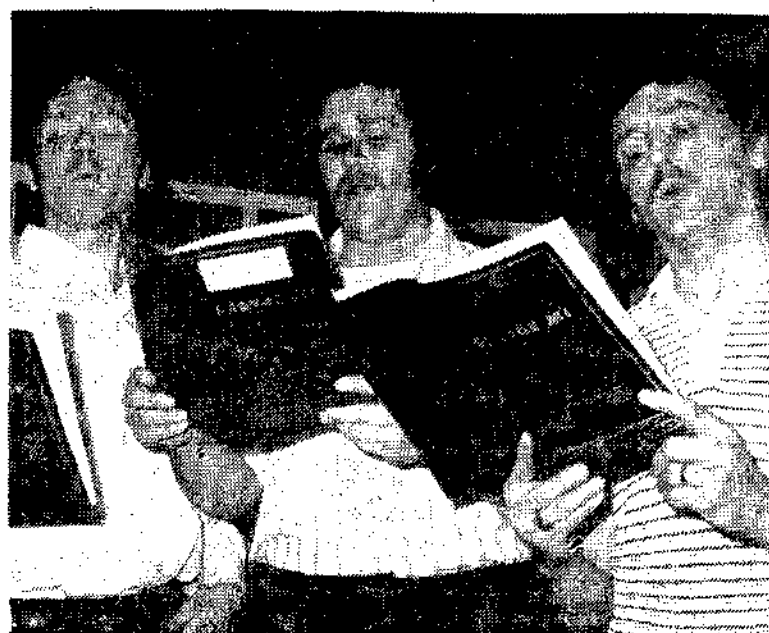

Recently, 40 Academy students returned from a two-week concert tour in Germany. There they performed in five major concert halls, including the Berlin Philharmonic Hall, appeared in three nationwide television shows and were the subject of a documentary film made there.

APPROXIMATELY 200 students are currently enrolled in the Suzuki program. According to a Suzuki administrator Betty Park, interest in the technique has grown tremendously in the past few years, however, because of a lack in instructional space for the program, there is a long waiting list of children who want instruction.

The Suzuki Academy is a not-for-profit organization with student instruction in violin, piano and cello. Park said the program's major monetary support comes from local churches and parents.

Tickets for the upcoming concert may be obtained at the Orchestra Hall box office or by calling 255-8247.

TESTING THEIR vocal cords for the musical comedy "George M." are Tom Garry, Niles; Larry Peterson, Des Plaines; and Bill Allenfort, Arlington Heights. They are among performers selected for Best Off Broadway's production to be presented at Buffalo Grove High School Theater June 18, 19, 25, 26 and 27. Ticket information, 392-4875.

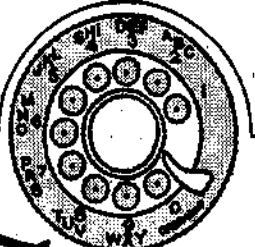

New officers lead Art Center

New officers of Countryside Art Center, Arlington Heights, will begin their duties at Monday's general meeting at 8 p.m. at the gallery, 414 N. Vail.

They were elected last month at a luncheon meeting at the home of retiring president Susan Mart of Barrington.

Sandy Blanc, Arlington Heights, is the new president. The three vice presidents — education, the gallery and publicity — are Mary Pionke, Mary Eriksen and Sally Glasson, respectively. All are from Arlington Heights.

Secretary is Cynthia Bennet, and treasurer is Joan Maloney, also of Arlington Heights.

...Catlow lives on

still uses the two original carbon-arc burning Peerless Magnars.

"I've run motion picture equipment all my life," Jahnke said. "I even ran projection equipment during my two years in the Navy."

And what about the theater's present owner? What is his expertise?

"I worked for Columbia pictures," Skehan said. "I used to sell films to Wright Catlow and I became good friends through the business and he told me he was interested in retiring and selling the business."

A MUNDELEIN resident, Skehan purchased the theater from Catlow about 12 years ago.

"I try to keep the theater as good as the Catlows did," Skehan said. "We only want the best entertainment. There has never been an X-rated film shown here."

"It's a family operation and we have to face the people of the community so we only want the best."

Skehan said the longest running film was "The Godfather," which played at the Catlow for more than 17 weeks. In second place for the longest run was "Love Story" which ran for 12 weeks.

Skehan said most films now run from four to six weeks.

THE CATLOW'S present owner said he tries to keep the theater in good condition by doing something each year to make the theater a little nicer.

All the seats have been replaced since the Catlow's original opening. Once seating 800 patrons, the theater now seats 750, "to give people a little more leg room," Skehan said.

A new concession stand and $6,000 worth of new carpeting are recent additions to the Barrington theater.

"We also recently put in new sectional air conditioning," Skehan said. "We can have perfect temperature throughout the theater because we can control the air conditioning in each part of the theater."

It's all a part of the pride taken in a local landmark.

AMERICA'S STEAK EXPERT

A good, new beginning in 'Suite'

ARLINGTON PARK THEATRE unlocked its doors once again this week and premiered a new management team and play that both indicate real promise ahead.

Noel Coward's compassionate, though often perplexing two one-act comedy/dramas, "SUITE IN TWO KEYS," are nowhere perfect. Nevertheless, they make up a biting, highly significant evening of theater most challenging to stage. And that automatically erases any previous apprehension on my part that commercialism might constitute a bylaw of the new leasing agreement.

Producing and managing directors, HARVEY MEDLINSKY and WALTER PERNER JR., immediately made friends when they announced their kickoff cast of RICHARD KI-

LEY, TERESA WRIGHT and JAN FARRAND, all solid, theatrical veterans. RICHARD BARR is directing the show.

Though it played downtown two years ago, "Suite in Two Keys" received less fanfare simply because not enough people know what it's about.

I still have trouble equating the first playlet, "Come into the Garden Maud," a stale, dated piece that accentuates socialites, fractured French and silly romantic innuendos with "A Song at Twilight" which is extremely well written and executed, and richly overflows in compassion and feeling.

The common denominator is Richard Kiley who is never totally disappointing but appears somewhat wasted in the first act playing the wealthy husband of a middle-aged shrewd, bitchy female who aspires to fraternize with European nobility. She's played by Teresa Wright who not until the final scene shows any real interest in the role. But then I can't really blame her.

Nor does Jan Farrand, outfitted in chiffon and leather boots (I'm still trying to figure that one out), appear very convincing as a Sicilian princess who woos the long-suffering husband in his suite while a dinner party is going on downstairs in honor of his wife. He was told to stay home because someone cancelled out and an

by Genie Campbell

uneven 13 at a dinner party is the worst possible fate of all. Didn't you know?

But the relevancy of the second playlet more than makes up for the frivolity of the first. Kiley is a pompous, aging writer who morally dishes out cruelty to others while he carefully closets his own shortcomings and misgivings.

There are all kinds of loyalties at stake here and a great power standoff between Kiley, who is frightfully natural in his role, and Jan Farrand, who comes across much stronger as a dropout, blackmailing actress than a swinging princess.

And Teresa Wright is extremely viable as the all-knowing, patient wife who carefully picks up all the injured pieces and leaves the audience with a drawn smile and something to think about.

This is the last weekend for Designer Showhouse

This is the last weekend for visiting Designer's Showhouse, a benefit sponsored by the women's boards of the Park Ridge School for Girls.

Arlington Heights Junior Woman's Club, the Des Plaines Woman's Club and the Junior Woman's Club of Des Plaines have all had part in the Showhouse which opened May 17.

The Showhouse, located at 268 Linden in Winnetka, is open from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. daily, and Sunday from 1:30 to 5 p.m. It is also open Friday evening, 7 to 9. Fifteen members of the American Society of Interior Designers have decorated the 18-room home.

Admission at the door is $3.50 with all proceeds going to the Park Ridge School for Girls which is celebrating its 100th birthday this year. The school is a residential treatment center for socially and emotionally troubled girls.

The doctor says
by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Men are neglected in cancer detection

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am in a state of shock. My husband has cancer of the prostate. They didn't operate on the cancer because the doctor said it was too late for that. Instead he was castrated and placed on female hormones. He is very depressed. Can he be cured by taking the hormones? He is only 55 and it all happened so suddenly. Isn't there any way that these problems can be prevented?

DEAR READER — Yes these problems could be prevented. The shocking truth is that cancer in men has been grossly neglected. More men die from cancer than women. The 1973 U.S. Vital Statistics show that 191,320 men and 159,735 women died from cancer.

That is not all — cancer of the prostate is more common than cancer of the uterus (cervix and body of the uterus, excluding the superficial noninvasive variety called carcinoma in situ). In 1973 for those 55 and older there were 18,493 deaths from cancer of the prostate and 8,658 deaths from cancer of the uterus.

THINGS ARE NOT getting any better. The National Cancer Institute estimates there will be 47,000 new cases of cancer of the uterus in 1976 compared to 56,000 new cases of cancer of the prostate. There will be 11,000 deaths in women of all ages from cancer of the uterus and a whopping 19,300 deaths from cancer of the prostate.

Cancer of the prostate is the third most common cause of death from cancer in males and the fourth most common in the general population of males and females, immediately following third ranked cancer of the breast.

CAN WE PREVENT these deaths? Yes! The same thing can be done for men as has been done for women. The answer is in early detection. Of course there needs to be a public education effort to match that done for women. Men need to learn that if the cancer is found early enough, they can be cured. If it is not, the usual treatment after the cancer has spread is to relieve the pain and often to remove the testicles and give female hormones. These measures are used only to control pain and do not cure the cancer. By contrast, early treatment — surgery and radiation — that removes the actual cancer or destroys it can result in cure.

TO GIVE YOU more information about the prostate gland I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-6. Others can get this information by forwarding 50 cents with a long, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1561, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

The telltale statistics are that the cure at Walter Reed Army hospital for cancer of the prostate is about 50 per cent and only a shocking five per cent in civilian medicine. Why? Because the army requires annual physical examinations after 40 years of age. These result in early detection.

A CANCER OF the prostate is found by feeling a lump just as you feel a lump during a breast examination. The procedure isn't pleasant as it is done by feeling the back of the prostate with a finger in the rectum. It is not painful or dangerous.

Considering how simple it would be to have an early detection program the question remains, why is there so little public awareness about what can be done for men? It could save many men the problems your husband is experiencing. All men older than 40 should have an examination at least once a year that includes a rectal examination of their prostate. It can save them from castration, female hormones and death.

Chewing gum removable with cleaning solvents

Dear Dorothy: Chewing gum — one of the worst of laundry messes! Don't think I've ever seen it in your column. It's liable to happen to anyone who washes children's things. I'd just washed a load of dark things and, luckily, before putting them in the dryer, saw chewing gum over everything. Tried a cleaning solvent containing trichloroethylene on one garment and when it did the job, treated everything. Laundered again, everything came out perfectly. Now I examine every pocket — no matter who it belongs to. Even a tissue left in a pocket can cause a mess. — Mr. J. R. Gluck

Mrs. G. did exactly the right thing. I keep two solvents around — one with trichloroethylene (Afta), the other with trichloroethane (non-flammable Energine). One or the other works on most stains that are not sugar or starch-based.

Dear Dorothy: With food prices the way they are, maybe others might like a couple of my packrat tricks. When there is left-over gravy or meat juices, I put it in the freezer in little plastic cups which fit on a grid. When frozen, they are popped out and stored in a plastic bag, ready to add to vegetables or what-have-you. When there's not enough meat to make into a package, I shred the leftovers and freeze with the leftover gravy or juice. — Midge Twining

You richly merit a packrat club award.

Dear Dorothy: Is it true that pink grapefruit is better for you than white? — Laura Hynds

The difference is so slight as to be negligible. Both have the same amount of vitamin C but the pink is supposed to have a trifle more vitamin A.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Dorothy Ritz in care of Suburban Living, Padlock Publications, Box 200, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60005.)

Ask Andy

Mountains made from rocky crust

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1976 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Laura Simon, 11, of Tucson, Ariz., for her question: WHAT ARE MOUNTAINS MADE OF?

Our home in the heavens is the planet Earth, a big ball of assorted materials spinning and whirling on a never-ending journey through space. Actually, the whole thing is made from about 1,500 chemical substances. These are used to make the seas, the continents and the air above. And some of these substances form the mountains.

All the earth's solids, liquids and gases are made of atoms, and fewer than 100 different atoms are used to make the seas, the continents and the air above. And some of these substances form the mountains.

All the earth's solids, liquids and gases are made of atoms, and fewer than 100 different atoms are used to make a whole planet. When the atoms in a substance are all alike, we call it an element. Gold is an element because all its gold atoms are exactly alike. Copper is an element and so is oxygen.

However, as a rule, atoms team up with different atoms and form packages called molecules. The gaseous elements hydrogen and oxygen team up to form mini molecules of water. The two elements form a substance called a compound — and the molecules are very different from their original atom ingredients. In this way, 100 or so different atoms can unite in different ways to form thousands of different chemical substances.

The making and remaking of chemical substances goes on in the earth all the time. Gravity and rotation work to shape the mixture of minerals into a big ball — with the heaviest substances in the middle and the lighter ones on top. This is why the heaviest minerals are wedged together down in the earth's heavy core.

The core is encased inside a thick layer of somewhat lighter materials. This is called the earth's mantle. The lightest minerals form the rocky outer crust, which varies from about five to 40 miles in thickness. This is the land that forms the continents and the sea beds — the surface land on which we live.

So far as we know, there are no mountains down in the dense core or in the thick mantle around it. All the mountains belong in the surface crust. And the rocky minerals used to make them are just like those in the rest of the earth's crust.

The global crust is hard and somewhat brittle. Experts tell us that it is cracked like a broken dish, forming about a dozen large sections and countless fragments. The whole thing is quite restless because heat and dynamic energies tend to surge up from down in the bowels of the earth.

These dramatic surges tend to occur in weak zones, along the cracks in the rocky crust. There we get earthquakes and volcanic eruptions. Often this is a region where new mountains are building. Forces from below bend and buckle the crustal layers, shift them around then stack them up to form titanic rocky sandwiches, rising higher and higher above the surrounding level of the crust.

Basically, mountains are made from all the assorted minerals in the rocky crust, such as sandstones and limestones and any other common rock you can mention. However, since volcanoes help to build mountains, a lot of the minerals are granite-type minerals and fire-formed rocks made of cooled volcanic lavas.

Andy sends a Student Globe to Kenneth Pennington, 12, of Osprey, Fla., for his question: CAN THE ARMADILLO REALLY SWIM?

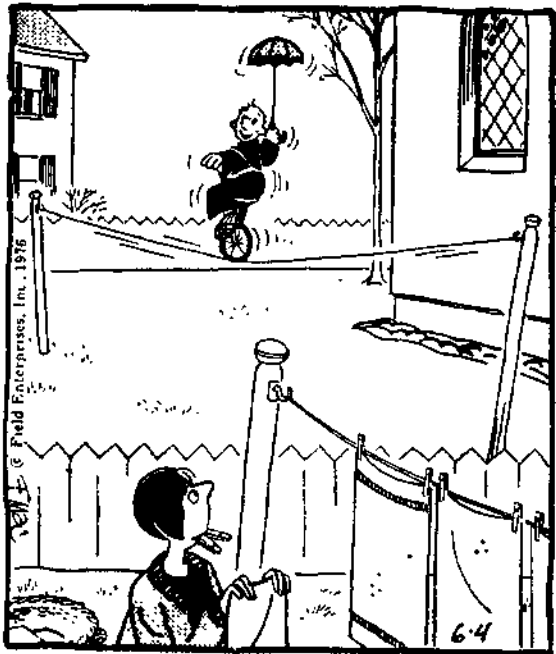

The armadillo is clothed in sturdy plates of armor and looks for all the world like a small military tank. Naturally, this makes him heavy for his size, and in the water one would surely expect him to sink to the bottom like a stone. But this amazing animal can swim very well, and he often takes to the water. It is reported that the nine-banded armadillo of North America can stay underwater for six minutes — and then surface successfully for a breath of air.

This is possible because the armadillo has a special trick of his own for coping with the situation. When entering the water he gulps down extra air. This fills his intestines, and the balloon effect makes him lighter in relation to the water. The extra buoyancy is enough to make it possible for him to stay afloat and swim.

ABC cuts into 'Today' show domain

by JOAN HANAUER
 Mary Hartman may be the talk of the night, but on morning television it's David Hartman, David Hartman.
 Hartman is the host of "Good Morning, America," along with Nancy Dussault. According to ABC executives, it has cut into the "Today" show dominance of morning television.
 With Barbara Walters off to ABC — possibly even to make a guest shot on "Good Morning, America" — the future looks bright.
 CBS is THE province of the straight news report, and its audience remains steady, if not exciting. The story lies in the struggle between "Today" and "Good Morning."
 Marvin Mead, vice president of research at ABC, recently told the network affiliates that "Good Morning" was in second place behind "Today," having added 640,000 additional households for a 62 per cent improvement since abandoning the sinking, "AM, America."

 "Our growth has been principally at the expense of the 'Today Show,'" he said. "Last year 'Today' enjoyed a 62 per cent share of the three network audience. This year it's down to 48 per cent, while we've gone from 16 to 27 per cent."
 "In simple terms, 'Today' has lost about one million homes and most of them are now watching 'Good Morning, America.'"
 ONE MEASURE OF the growing popularity of "Good Morning" is the increasing ease with which the new show can attract top guests, from Henry and Nancy Kissinger in their first joint interview to Billy Graham, Timothy Leary and Golda Meir.

Hartman pointed out during an interview that "Good Morning" has turned on some new viewers, as well as drawing from "Today," and the Nielsen figures back him up as ABC narrows the gap with NBC in the prime age group, the 18-49ers.
 "We have changed the show very little since we started last November," Hartman said. "Our whole point of view is to cover a very broad range of subjects in very human terms, telling people what's going on in a little bit lighter way."
 "We don't spend extended periods of time on anything — our interviews last perhaps five minutes."

Two wrongs make a right

This may well be the comic hand of 1978. All the players were great experts which may explain what happened. Experts can play better than anyone, but they also can play worse.
 The game was match points and East and West were not vulnerable. Therefore, East decided to try a screwball, notrump to stir things up. South's double was correct and West's two-club call was designed to ask East to show a suit, but East passed, whereupon South jumped to three no-trump.
 West opened the jack of diamonds. South won by his king, looked over the enemy convention card to see that the jack lead showed either zero or two higher. So South decided to get brilliant. He led the 10 of clubs to dummy's queen, played a low spade and stuck in his king. At this point the defense could have cashed seven more tricks, but West decided that east had a long heart suit. He led his jack of hearts and the South made the five no-trump he had made from the start of the play.

QUESTION	YOUR INDOOR TENNIS CLUB	WOODFIELD RACQUET CLUB
1. Does your club sell you a year's membership 'til September, then bill you out in May?	☐ Yes, and I'm very unhappy. ☐ I don't believe the question.	Of course not.
2. Does your club wheel and deal on membership fees and court rates?	☐ Yes, if you know the right person. ☐ Yes, but I don't know the right person and must pay the published rate.	Woodfield has published rates applicable to ALL. Why should you pay full boat when others don't? And the fees are basically identical with other clubs.
3. Is your club less than clean?	☐ My club is always immaculate. ☐ Sometimes it's clean. Mostly dirty. ☐ It's downright filthy.	The owner spends lots and lots of time working there and if things aren't right, watch him do a slow burn and make them right.
4. Who's the current manager of your club?	☐ Name ☐ Can't keep track of them. They come and go so fast. ☐ Who cares? To him it's a job.	Woodfield has one man who is manager, owner, director, Chairman of the board. No buck passing at Woodfield.
5. Are your locker room facilities ultra spacious?	☐ Are you kidding. We have half lockers, no benches, etc. ☐ No. But I'm learning to be very chummy with the other members! ☐ No. But I like community showers.	Woodfield has ultra spacious lockers - 170 full sized lockers in Mens and 91 in womens. And permanent padded, wide benches. Men's locker room even has a lounge within it. Boob tube and all.
6. Does your club have large, separate whirlpools?	☐ Sure. They're oversized bathtubs. And set next to each other. ☐ Who cares? The one they do have never works anyway.	Yes, separate and large, large, large. And you need not bring a bathing suit.
7. Do you like carpeting?	☐ Sure. I have my whole house carpeted and the living room looks great. ☐ Sure. I have my patio carpeted with indoor-outdoor. ☐ Is there some other type of playing surface?	Woodfield has DYNATURF. Much more expensive but spongy, soft on your feet, easy on your legs. Woodfield wants the whole club to be first class.
8. How is the court lighting?	☐ We have so many holes in the roof when it rains that we have natural lighting. ☐ Generally good. Three-fourths of light bulbs still work. ☐ O.K. But the buzzing noise is driving me crazy. ☐ Lighting very even. Little dark but even.	Woodfield has the most modern lighting system money can buy. We do not feel that all money expenditures must provide a ROI (return-on-investment)
9. Does your club have a full liquor license and cocktail lounge?	☐ No, but I never drink anyway. ☐ No, we go to a nearby watering hole. ☐ Yes, they have window available for pick up. ☐ I didn't know any tennis club had one.	Woodfield has a cocktail lounge with a full liquor license with a large sitdown bar. Ever been thirsty after a match?
10. Does your club have three lounges?	☐ What, are you crazy? ☐ We have a large lounge. We can sit and look at each other sitting or look up at the unpainted beams. We can also lean over the ledge and watch several courts.	Woodfield has three lounges. Sit comfortably and watch action tennis or racquetball. Or you can hide out in the lounge in the Men's locker room.
11. Does your club have a workout facility?	☐ No, but everytime I get the urge to exercise I lie down until the feeling goes away. ☐ Yes, if you call it that.	Woodfield has a modest workout facility. A Universal to satisfy the healthnik but not overwhelm him.
12. Does your club have two nurseries?	☐ It has one. And it's at the other end of the building. In fact I have to drive to it. ☐ It has one. But they say my kids are too young. ☐ It has one mini nursery and it's in a hole in the wall.	Woodfield has two nurseries. Professionally manned and accepting all ages. And our primary nursery is just inside the club entrance.

New home for opportunity center?

Northwest Opportunity Center officials will appear before the Arlington Heights Zoning Board of Appeals Monday seeking permission to move the center's offices to the North School building, 410 N. Arlington Heights Rd.

The center is located at 8 W. College Dr. in the Arlington Industrial Research Center.

Mike Raimondi, center director, said Thursday that a move to a central village location will help the social service agency.

"The center should be located in an area where there's a lot of visibility. Right now, we're in kind of an out-of-the-way location," he said.

Village officials must approve a zoning variation before the center can use the old school building.

The Arlington Heights Dist. 25 Board of Education has approved a plan to lease the building to the center and Summit School, a private school for children with learning disabilities, at a combined rent of $20,000 a year.

Raimondi said he has notified property owners around North School of the center's intention, as required by local ordinance. He said he has not encountered any opposition to the plan. Monday's hearing starts at 8 p.m. at the Arlington Heights Municipal Building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

"We'd be ready to move as soon as the zoning were approved," Raimondi said. "Our budget cannot absorb a large moving expense so we'll try to get as many volunteers as we can to help us."

Desks and file cabinets are the major pieces to be moved, he said.

Summit School reportedly wants to use part of the North School building for classrooms. The opportunity center will use the building for office space, its headstart program for preschool children and other social service programs such as food stamps and legal aid for low-income families.

Dist. 25 has approved new attendance boundaries for the North School area and the building will definitely be closed later this month.

95 summer jobs offered for needy young persons

Ninety-five summer jobs for youngsters between the ages of 14 and 21 will be available through the Northwest Opportunity Center, the center's community organizer said Thursday.

The jobs program begins June 17 and continues through August. Persons will be paid $2.30 an hour and work a 20-hour week, said Rex Wilkinson.

Registration for the jobs will be from 5 to 10 p.m. June 10 and from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. June 12 at the Northwest Opportunity Center, 8 W. College Dr., Arlington Heights.

Wilkinson said applicants must bring their Social Security card and, if they are living at home, should be accompanied by the head of the household. Persons are eligible for the jobs if they or their families are within federal low-income guidelines and live in suburban Cook County.

"If they think they qualify, then they should come in and apply," he said.

The center has been funded for 95 positions in the Northwest suburbs that it must fill. More jobs may be available in other parts of Cook County, Wilkinson said.

"We haven't got all the job sites determined yet," he said. "There will be some inside and some outside work and we will try to fit the program so that the jobs are close to where the person lives."

Jobs will include doing home maintenance for senior citizens, possibly gardening and work for social service agencies like the opportunity center.

Halas defends draft

Pro football pioneer George Halas predicted Thursday that some of his fellow National Football League club owners would selfishly wreck the sport by grabbing the top college talent if the present draft system were eliminated.

The 81-year-old Chicago Bear owner and former head coach, testifying at a federal trial challenging the draft as an antitrust violation, said that the richer owners would have the weaker teams "at their mercy" without the college draft, and take advantage of the situation even though it might run competition among the teams.

Halas, appearing as a defense witness for the NFL at the damage suit brought by former Washington Redskins rookie Jim "Yazoo" Smith, was asked by U.S. District Judge William B. Bryant whether he thought the wealthier owners "would put their hands around their own throats and squeeze" the have-nots economically in the bidding for college stars.

"Some of them are that selfish in my opinion," Halas replied. "They want to be at the top. Some of them come into the game for the glory of getting their names in the papers."

Without the draft, he told Bryant, who is hearing the case without a jury, "We would be at their mercy and it would destroy the balance of competition. We believe we have the ideal situation for creating that balance."

He listed some of the wealthier owners as Carroll Rosenbloom of the Los Angeles Rams, Lamar Hunt of the Kansas City Chiefs, William Ford of the Detroit Lions, Bud Adams of the Houston Oilers and Ralph Wilson of the Buffalo Bills.

Smith, a No. 1 choice of the Redskins in 1967, brought suit on grounds that the draft denied him a chance to bargain for a better contract providing him with protection in the event of injury. His he sustained a broken neck.

Pro merger appears likely

Negotiations have been under way for two weeks for entry of four American Basketball Association clubs into the National Basketball Association and may be wrapped up within a week to 10 days, Indiana Pacers President Jim Hilliard said Thursday.

Hilliard confirmed talks have been going on for an agreement under which the Pacers, Denver, San Antonio and New York would enter the NBA.

"We've been talking almost daily and we're very close," Hilliard said. "I'd hope the matter will be resolved within a week to 10 days."

Hilliard said the older professional basketball league has offered to accept the four ABA teams providing each club pay a fee of approximately $4.5 million. He said he's confident the money can be raised.

All negotiations thus far have been oral, Hilliard said, and no formal offer has been submitted in writing. The projected $18 million total from the four teams would give each of the 18 current NBA teams $1 million.

The ABA has an antitrust suit pending against the NBA scheduled to go to trial July 1 in New York Federal court if no progress has been made toward settlement by June 18. The NBA board of governors meets June 13-17 at Hyannis Port, Mass.

And in other sports news...

The Chicago Bears Thursday signed Bill Hoban a reserve defensive tackle from the University of Michigan, to a 1976 contract. Hoban is 6-foot-4 and 235 pounds. He will line up at end when the Bears open their 1976 training camp July 12 at Lake Forest College.

Atlanta Falcons quarterback Steve Bartkowski was released on a personal recognizance bond, charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and other traffic violations.

Muhammad Ali will defend his world heavyweight championship on Sept. 28 against Ken Norton in a 15-round bout at Yankee Stadium. . . Willard Byrner, charged with murder in the shooting of Argentine boxer Oscar Bonavena last month, was transferred from the Nevada Prison to Washoe County Jail pending a preliminary hearing next week.

Defending champion Vinny Giles needed just 28 holes of golf at St. Andrews to win two matches that put him into the quarter-finals of the British Amateur championship and that much closer to becoming the first American to win back-to-back titles since Lawson Little 41 years ago. . . Tom Purtzer, a young pro whose best showing was his runner-up status in last year's Thailand Open, shot a six-under-par 65 for the first round lead in the $200,000 Bicentennial Golf Classic in Philadelphia.

Terry Albritton, holder of the world amateur record in the shot put, was disqualified from the NCAA Track and Field championships after he failed to report his entry to meet officials.

Correction: Range balls 3.3c each

In Paul Logan's column Thursday, the figures for hitting golf balls at two Northwest Suburban driving ranges were wrong.
At both Arlington Park and Rob Roy driving ranges, it costs approximately 3.3 cents per ball. A decimal point was misplaced, making each ball cost 33 cents apiece.

We're sorry for the mistake. Sixty balls for $2 (at Rob Roy) and 45 balls for $1.50 (at Arlington Park) are pretty good deals in this age of inflation.

Poplar Creek Racquet Club hosts Family Tennis

First-round competition in the Equitable Family Tennis Challenge is scheduled for June 14 at the Poplar Creek Racquet Club in Hoffman Estates.

The competition is part of the race for Forest Hills and the right to play with the biggest names in tennis during the U.S. Open.

The Challenge features amateur mixed doubles competition limited to family teams. Only amateurs who have not been ranked by the United States Tennis Association since 1971 can compete.

Also, teaching pros are not eligible and youth must not turn 19 in 1976. There must be at least a 15-year age difference between team members.

The Challenge will feature 128 first-round events in 49 states. From there, the local winners advance to 16 sectional tournaments with the winners then going to Forest Hills for the national finals to be held at the U.S. Open.

Trophies will be awarded to the winners of the local and sectional events. The 16 sectional winners will receive an all-expense paid trip to New York for the national finals.

Say it isn't so, Charlie Hustle

There is some news just too outrageous to be believed. "Queen Mother Elopes With Mallman," "Budget Balanced," "Democratic Sweep in Santa Barbara," but nothing to prepare you for the outlandishness of the latest report on Pete Rose, Cincinnati's one-man Our Gang comedy, baseball's sooty-faced kid, America's permanent 14-year-old, the game's only 35-year-old adolescent.

The big lie was right there in black and white: Pete Rose, it said drove a $43,000 Rolls-Royce! Pete Rose! Charlie Hustle!

Nonse! Pete Rose would drive a pickup. A camper. Something practical for hunting and fishing. Why, when Pete Rose won the car for Most Valuable Player in the last year's World Series, they didn't give him one of those fancy sports jobs or flashy foreign runabouts. They knew what Pete Rose wanted. They gave him a Jeep.

Pete Rose is the kind of guy who came into the big leagues on a scooter — or roller skates. If he drove anything expensive, it would be a big semi with a citizen's-band radio. "Hello, this is Red Rose. Check the smokies on the Ridge Route . . ."

Pete Rose has 2,568 hits, he runs out bases on balls, he sleeps standing up, wears T-shirts, a crew cut, blue jeans, and high cuts. He plays baseball like a guy jumping through a skylight, sleeps in a tree, drinks coffee from a can, right? Pete Rose would never be caught in a Rolls-Royce. Next thing you know, they'll be telling us he wears spats, subscribes to the opera and belongs to the Book of the Month Club.

"Pete, I'm here to nail this rumor," I told Mr. Hustle as he was getting dressed furiously in the locker room at Dodger Stadium the other night. Pete puts his clothes on like the hotel was on fire. "They're spreading a scandal that you own a — get this — Rolls-Royce."

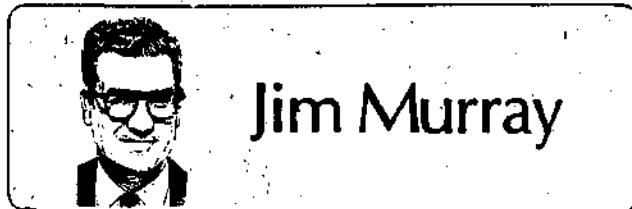

Pete's eyes grew big. He tugged his shirt down over his ears. Pete puts his shirt on over his glove, and his pants over his spikes. I think he sleeps in his spikes. He looked embarrassed. "Oh," he said, "I leave the Rolls in Cincinnati all year. It's more, like, for my wife."

I couldn't believe my ears. Wait till they put this on bubble gum cards, I thought. Pete's Rolls! "Pete! You got a $43,000 Rolls!" Pete looked sheepish. "Well, not exactly. That's list. What I did was trade my Maserati on it. To Mr. McCoy. Randall Hatfield McCoy, my partner."

"Maserati! Pete!" I shouted. "My God, do you have a monocle? And, Mr. McCoy's your partner in what?"

"The coal business," explained Pete. "We're coal brokers and are buying into mines." I shook my head, and had to reach out to steady myself on the locker screen. "Pete!" I was desperate. "You're trying to tell me you own a coal mine?" Pete looked startled. "Well, yeah. It's a good investment. You heard about the coal boom? Around Cincinnati, you have to burn coal now. We don't want to have to be dependent on any Ay-Rabs. And our mines are in Western Kentucky and are low-sulphur."

"Pete!" I groaned. "Coal barons live on Park Ave. and wear top hats. They never get their uniforms dirty sliding into third. They never get pelted with garbage in Shea Stadium. My God, Pete, you don't have a butler, do you? Go to the opera? Heavens, do you own paintings? Got a Toulouse-Lautrec in the guest bathroom?"

"Our coal business is called 'The Pete Rose Energy Co.," explained Pete. "Did you know there's enough coal to last 600 years?" I shook my head. "Pete," I said, "I thought the 'Pete Rose Energy Co.' was the nickname for the way you played third base or ran out bases on balls. I thought you spent the off-season having your wife hit fungos to you or practicing bunts. What else are you into?"

"Well, I have the Pete Rose's Pancake House. We had a million gross sales last year. And that's without liquor, wine or beer. Just food and coffee and milk. We use up 550 to 900 eggs a week."

"Lord, Pete, you're a conglomerate! What ever happened to the blue jeans and bowling shirts? I'll bet you own a tux!" "Two of 'em," proudly said Pete. "My tailor makes 'em."

"Your tailor?! I felt faint. "Yeah, Joe (Pepe) Ramundo. He designs and makes my clothes."

"And here I thought you spent all winter studying films of Tom Seaver. Or riding your motorcycle." Pete looked up. "Oh, last winter, I took the first vacation I ever took in my life."

"Aha!" I said. "And you went deer hunting? Ice fishing? Snowmobiling? Backpacking? Trail biking?" Pete shook his head. "I went on a Caribbean cruise. At the captain's table."

I slammed my notebook and started to creep out before he could tell me he had bought a sloop or a string of polo ponies. "You didn't, by any chance, buy a villa at Cap D'Antibes, did you?" I asked, dreading the answer. "No," Pete shook his head. "I bought the house of a former owner of the Cincinnati Reds and the gas and light company."

I passed a hand wearily over my brow. "Who cleans the chandeliers?" I asked.

But that did it. It was clear hustle pays off like carloadings. Charlie Hustle has become Diamond Jim Brady.

Buffalo Grove Bills hold signup

The Buffalo Grove Bills junior tackle football program will have sign-up for all boys in 4th thru 7th grades Saturday, June 5 from 9 a.m. to noon at the Buffalo Grove Mall (next to the National Store) at Dundee and Arlington Heights Roads.

All boys who live in Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove or Wheeling are eligible to sign up. A $28 registration fee has been set with a maximum of $40 per family. This year, each player will keep his own game uniform with his name on it.

Boys will be placed on one of the Bills traveling teams according to weight and age. The Bills compete in the Tri-County Junior Football Traveling League against other suburban area teams. In addition to regular season games, all teams play in an out-of-state bowl game at the end of the year.

If you will be unable to attend Saturday's signup or need further information, please call John Truelsen, 259-2350, or Dave Triplett, 537-5245.

Final signup set for Raider football

Final registration for the Buffalo Grove Raiders football program will be Saturday, June 5 at Emmerich Park from 2 to 5 p.m.

Emmerich Park is located one block south of Lake-Cook Rd. on Raupp Blvd. in Buffalo Grove.

The program is open to all boys who will be in the fourth through eighth grades this September.

The cost, which includes insurance, game and practice uniforms, will be $22 per boy or $35 per family.

For complete information call Bruce Gay at 541-5282 or Ron Blum at 537-7059.

NEW TWO

Introducing two fun Toyotas that are incredibly functional. The new Corolla Liftback and Corolla Sport Coupe. Both have eye-stopping, sporty good looks inside and out. Both are available in sporty-equipped SR-5 and Deluxe models. They round out Toyota's quality line of Corollas.

Functional fun. We designed the Corolla Liftback to be stylishly sporty looking, and yet it's a practical car with two doors plus a wide rear liftback that opens into a spacious cargo area. Its versatility continues with a unique fold down split rear seat. Fold it all the way down and you've made enough room to hold three carts of groceries. Fold half the split rear seat down and you can carry long awkward loads, and there's still a seat left in the back to carry a passenger.

Economical to operate. The new Corolla SR-5 Liftback and Sport Coupe have a standard 5-speed overdrive transmission to give you great gas mileage and performance. 1976 EPA tests with 5-speed overdrive transmission, 39 MPG highway, 24 city. These EPA results are estimates. The actual mileage you get will vary, depending on your driving habits and your car's condition and equipment. An automatic transmission is available on Deluxe models.

No-cost extras. Toyota has always been known to give you a long list of extras at no extra cost. The two new Corollas are no exceptions. Every Corolla is equipped with standard features like: reclining bucket seats, power assisted front disc brakes, MacPherson strut front suspension, transistorized ignition, styled steel wheels, and power boosted flo-thru ventilation, all included in the list price.

Toyota stands behind Toyota quality. There are nearly 1,000 authorized Toyota dealers across the U.S. comprising a network of service departments staffed with Toyota trained mechanics. Quality. You got it. The new generation of Corollas. If you can find a better-built small car than a Toyota...buy it!

Libertyville boys advance to state baseball semifinals

PEORIA, Ill. (UPI) — Mike Lindal went 2-for-2, stole four bases, scored two runs and drove in a third run Thursday to lead Libertyville to a 7-3 victory over Albion Edwards County in the quarterfinals of the Illinois state high school baseball tournament.

Libertyville, 20-3, moved into the semifinal round of the tournament against O'Fallon, 27-2, which defeated Danville, 4-3, earlier Thursday.

In the other bracket, Brother Rice beat Canton 5-1 and Aurora West overcame Chicago Vocational 6-3. Brother Rice, 30-6, and Aurora West, 23-10, will meet in the semifinals at 9:30 a.m. today.

Lindal tied a tournament single-game record with his four stolen bases, helping Libertyville take advantage of Edwards County defensive mistakes to jump to a 4-0 lead after 4½ innings. Libertyville then held off two Edwards County rallies in the final three innings.

Starting pitcher Brian Schwerman was credited with his 10th victory against one loss and worked the first four innings. Edwards County scored two runs in the fifth and had the bases loaded, before Baker Green relieved Schwerman. Green got out of the jam and yielded only one run in the seventh to the losers.

O'FALLON NIPS DANVILLE
O'Fallon's Kevin Nabb gave his team victory by singling home Brian Holland from second base with two out in the bottom of the 10th inning.

O'Fallon scored two runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to tie the score at 2-2, rallied again in the bottom of the seventh with a run to tie it at 3-3 and then won in a bizarre 10th inning.

After one out, Holland struck out but reached first when the strikeout pitch went into the dirt and away from Danville catcher Tim Brown.

Wright was out on an infield fly. Holland and Deutsch stole third and second respectively just ahead of Nabb's game-winning hit.

Winning pitcher Jim Gregory went the distance for his 13th victory of the season against one loss. The losing pitcher for Danville was Rod Jones, who replaced starter Dave Gehrke in the ninth. Gehrke walked only one and struck out 11 in eight innings.

Danville finished its season with a 21-7 record.

AURORA ROLLS

Earlier, lefthander Chuck Halling of Aurora West overcame first inning control problems and held Chicago Vocational to four hits en route to victory.

Halling singled home Bob Barron in the bottom of the first to cut Vocational's lead to 2-1 and then the Blackhawks scored five runs in the bottom of the second on four hits, including a run-producing triple by Barron, to take command.

The losing pitcher was Charles Scott, who lasted only an inning and a third. Chicago Vocational bowed out of the tournament with an 18-4 season mark.

BROTHER RICE VICTORIOUS

In the first game, Brother Rice scored two runs in both the first and third innings and Klutchnich, now 1-0, held the Canton attack in check the rest of the way. Canton finished its season with a 31-14 record.

Third baseman Mike Ladevich contributed two timely singles in the winner's scoring. In the first, Rice scored two runs on only one hit. Larry Wiktor opened with a walk, took second on Ladevich's single and following a sacrifice scored on a fletcher's choice. Ladevich took third, and scored on another fletcher's choice.

In the third, Ladevich singled again and leftfielder Ed Eber doubled him home. Eber scored on a single by centerfielder Jim Adduci.

Arlington Park's feature race on WMM radio

WMM-FM (92.7) now presents the feature race of the day from Arlington Park.

This marks the fourth year that WMM has broadcast the feature, which airs at 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and 5:55 p.m. Saturday.

As part of this 10-minute WM sports special, the Chicago Tribune's Turf Editor Neil Milbert will provide a detailed preliminary analysis and track announcer Phil Georgeff will call the race.

The entire 109-day schedule will be included once again as WMM provides comprehensive daily radio coverage from Arlington Park.

Long jumps on water

The longest official jump on water was recorded by Wayne Grinditch, 17, in the summer of 1972. He jumped 160 feet at Callaway Gardens, Pine Mountain, Ga.

Barbara Clark set the women's record of 111 feet on the same water in 1971.

Will Belvidere mile ace run under four minutes?

by ART MUGALIAN

Ron Wartgow's achievements in middle-distance running are lagging only slightly behind the incredible legend that has built up around the Belvidere (Ill.) High School senior.

If he runs a four-minute mile in the International Prep Invitational Track and Field Meet, Wartgow will have finally caught up.

Wartgow, the Illinois Class AA mile champ, will test some of the nation's top millers June 12 in Coca-Cola's IPI meet, being held for the first time in five years at Northwestern's Dwyer Stadium in Evanston.

"We're working on 3:50 to 4:04," said Wartgow's distance coach, Roger Frederickson, who helped dispel some of the bizarre stories about his runner's background.

"The boy definitely lives in the country," admitted Frederickson, former runner and assistant coach at Arlington. "He's out in the boonies. His family has cattle and everything. But they don't live on a farm, really."

Wartgow didn't begin running until he was 14.

"He started running when he was a freshman," said Frederickson, who didn't arrive on the Belvidere scene until Wartgow's junior year. "He was dead-last. He looked like a ragamuffin — he looked like no runner at all."

After an impressive cross country season as a junior when he led Frederickson's harriers to a state ranking, Wartgow exploded into track prominence this year. He clocked an amazing 4:11.8 indoors and followed that with a 4:09.5 in the Rockford Relays to beat York's Ron Craker, the state's defending cross country and two-mile champion.

"A lot of people around here were saying things like he peaked too early and he'll never run another race under 4:10," said Frederickson.

Wartgow settled for 4:07.8 in the Illinois state meet, although Frederickson felt his runner hadn't really been pushed. He missed the state record by less than a second.

"We had been planning for a 4:05 and a state record," said Frederickson. "But Ron definitely needs to be pushed. When he ran against Craker, they started kicking about 330 yards from the finish."

In that race, Craker ran a 4:10.5 for his own personal best. The York senior will run the two-mile in the IPI meet June 12.

If Wartgow is successful in his bid to run a sub-four-minute mile, he would become the first prep to turn the trick since Jim Ryan.

"We haven't even done any speed-work yet," Frederickson said. "We went into the state meet like we were preparing for any other meet — just normal high school workouts. This week we'll work on speed."

A "normal" high school workout for Wartgow in the past has meant three 800s at 1:53, 1:55 and 1:54 with five minutes inbetween, and six quick quarters around :51. The incredible training schedule has added to the Wartgow legend.

The Belvidere runner's main competition June 12 may come from Tim Lobsinger of Canada who has run a 4:04.6.

Among the other Illinois state champions entered in the IPI meet are high hurdler Greg Foster of Proviso East (1:13.2), pole vaulter Mike McCrindle of Bloom (16-2), quarter-miler Don White of Thornton (48.4), triple jumper Ed Tate of Bloom (49-7½), and half-miler Steve Schellenberger of Forest View (1:49.9).

Also entered in the meet is co-world record holder Houston McTear, an Olympic candidate in the 100-meter dash; and two-miler Rudy Chapa of Hammond, Ind., another Olympic hopeful at 5,000 meters.

Tickets for the meet are still available at all 50 area Ticketron outlets and from Chicago area track coaches.

Arlington Post to hold tryouts for legion team

The Arlington Heights Legion Post, sponsored by Des Plaines, will hold tryouts Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Recreation Park, according to Manager Lloyd Meyer.

Each day's tryout will begin at 4 p.m.

Arlington opens its season on Sunday against a Cincinnati team. The 1 p.m. game will be at Triton Junior College.

Fans' forum

Dear Editor:

Every Chicago Black Hawk fan should start writing letters to the front office to try to get them to sign Bobby Orr now that he is available, no matter what the cost in dollars. Orr is a guaranteed superstar of hockey and his presence on the ice would go a long way toward bringing respectability to the Stadium.

Too much has been made of Orr's numerous log operations. He is still young and talented and he is just what the Hawks need desperately — a high scoring defenseman, something they have never really had on the team.

Plus, his name alone would bring packed arenas to the Hawks, both at home and on the road.

It was a mistake when the Hawks let Bobby Hull get away from them and that was over money. Now they have a chance to make up for the goof by shelling out some bread for Orr. They could also do well by themselves to spend a little more to get Hull back on the team. Can you imagine a team with both Bobby Orr and Bobby Hull?

VEECK MAGIC

Fans Forum:

Bill Veeck has shown once again what it takes to build a good baseball team by hiring a veteran and respected manager with sound baseball sense (Paul Richards) and going out and getting the best players in trades (Ralph Garr, Ken Brett, Jim Spencer, etc.).

Those people who call Veeck a showman and not a good baseball man are obviously wrong. And the Sox 10-game winning streak proves it. This team can win the pennant like they did in 1959 with pitching, speed and defense. When that happens, all the skeptics, including the Cub fans, will have to stop laughing.

SPORT HAS CHANGED

Dear Editor:

I enjoyed immensely Keith Reinhard's article in the June 2 Herald sports page comparing local high school athletics now and 10 years ago. The story had special meaning to me because I, too, have played and coached in this area over a span of a decade.

Keith seems to have captured the essence of the truth that things change but they also stay the same. Kids change — they change their outlook, their attitude, etc. and they change in more noticeable ways, too, like the way they dress and wear their hair. But they also remain unchanged in many ways, as in the way they always stay competitive and show a desire to work to get ahead.

In a field as well-defined as sports you would think that things would never change. The games are the same games we played 10 years ago and the fundamentals and rules and styles are basically unchanged.

But sport has changed, largely because of the influx of professionalism. High school sports is the only remaining outpost of resistance to professionalism in athletics. Mr. Reinhard, I feel, understands this.

FREMD PITCHER Pam Lechner concentrates on her target — Catcher Connie Bruns' mitt. Lechner and her Fremd softball teammates lost to visiting Hoffman Estates in the Mid-Suburban League championship game.

World champs to play in Prospect tourney

Some of the top teams in the country, including defending world champion Josef's, will play in an eight-team double elimination softball tournament in Mount Prospect Saturday.

Along with the 1975 champs, other name teams playing, starting at 10 a.m. at Meadows Park, will be Sobies, Bruins, Senators, Flamingos, Lyon's 45's, Touch and Shooters (formerly the Scrappers).

The Shooters have won the Mount Prospect League the past four years and finished among the top teams in the state tournament in two of the last three years.

The championship game will be played late in the afternoon. Substantial prizes and trophies will be awarded.

This is one of two tournaments being sponsored this weekend by the Book Store in Arlington Heights and Central Sports in Mount Prospect. On Sunday at Meadows Park there will be another eight-team double elimination tourney with such local teams as Hoskins Chevrolet, Mount Prospect Heating and Air Conditioning and the Shooters along with the Baggers, McGaffers and Gallery of Homes.

The tourney will begin at 9 a.m. with the title game scheduled for late in the afternoon.

SAA holding signups

Registration for the Schaumburg Athletic Association boys' football and girls' cheerleading programs will be held June 5 and 12 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the SAA house, 1307 Sharon Lane, Schaumburg.

All boys eight through 13 and girls now in grades three through seven who live within the Schaumburg Park District are eligible.

The SAA this year will field teams in four divisions. The super pee-wee division is open to boys eight and nine years old weighing no more than 75 pounds. The pee-wees are 10 and 11-year-olds with a maximum weight limit of 85 pounds. Twelve and 13-year-olds who weigh up to 103 pounds will play in the widget division and 13-year-olds up to 127 pounds, in the junior division.

The registration fee is $30 for football and $15 for cheerleading plus the obligation to participate in the candy sale. In lieu of participation, however, parents may choose to pay an additional fee.

Adults interested in coaching or otherwise helping with the program are asked to call Chuck Stadler at 894-1351.

Overtime experts

In 1975, the Cincinnati Reds were the National League's best team in terms of extra-inning performances. The Reds, winners of the 1975 World Series, won 11 of the 15 extra-inning games they played.

The Houston Astros had the worst percentage in the league in this category as they won only five of 19.

CAR CORNER

with George Orth & Roger Nick

It was in France during the last decade of the 19th century that the automobile began to assume some of its present form and popularity. The wide, level boulevards of Paris, and the fine paved roads radiating out of the French capital were the ideal settings for rich sportsmen to display their noisy new playthings. By 1885 there were so many self-propelled vehicles pattering about that the French language added a new word to describe them. The word was, of course, automobile, from the Greek word for self (auto), and the Latin word for moving (mobilis).

For expert service and personalized attention, bring your GM car to RAY OLDSMOBILE, 501 Busse Hwy., Park Ridge. Dow loses 2.13 points

Late selling drives prices down

NEW YORK (UPI) — A late burst of selling wiped out selected buying gains Thursday to drive prices generally lower in the heaviest trading in two weeks on the New York Stock Exchange amid a number of uncertainties.

Several large block trades indicated institutions were either cashing in on six-month gains or switching their portfolios while other investors waited for the Federal Reserve Board's weekly monetary report.

While the nation's basic money supply stabilized, the Fed's report released after the market closed showed loan demands at New York's leading banks rose $429 million, the largest increase in almost 1½ years.

The Fed, vowing to contain a rekindling of inflation, has tightened credit recently in light of a surge in the nation's money supply. The Fed's report last week showed a $1.5 billion decline in the supply.

Amid the uncertainty, the Dow Jones industrial, ahead more than three points at the outset, fell 2.13 points to 973.80. The closely-watched average gained 2.80 points Wednesday.

STANDARD & POOR'S 500-stock index gained 0.09 to 100.13, but the NYSE common stock index fell 0.005 to 53.28 and the average price of an NYSE common share decreased by three cents.

Breadth figures confirmed investor uncertainty. Of the 1,843 issues crossing the tape, 708 declined, 654 advanced and 481 remained unchanged. The volume of 18,900,000 shares, up from the 16,120,000 traded Wednesday, was the heaviest turnover since 22,555,100 changed hands on May 20.

International Flavors & Fragrances was the Big Board volume leader, losing 1 to 21-3/8 on 253,400 shares, including a block of 101,600 shares at 21 1/4. Beatrice Foods followed, up 3/8 to 25-7/8 on 224,500 shares. Wednesday, the firm raised its dividend to 21 cents a share from 19 cents.

Continental Oil, the third most active Big Board issue, gained 1 1/2 to 36 1/4 on 220,200 shares.

Prices were lower in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share decreased three cents. Volume totaled 2,040,000 shares, compared with 2,070,000 traded Wednesday.

Senate to limit debate on antitrust legislation

The U.S. Senate voted Thursday to limit debate on a key amendment to legislation reforming the nation's antitrust laws. The 66-22 cloture vote was considered a victory for advocates of the sweeping reform legislation.

The vote came on a substitute amendment by Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., to a House-passed antitrust measure. Sixty votes are needed to limit debate through cloture.

the bill still faces a filibuster by a conservative coalition which objects to the legislation, and at least one more cloture vote — limiting debate on the bill itself — appeared likely before the measure will reach a final Senate vote.

Business briefs

by the contract dispute, but only 639 are members of the Guild. It was not immediately known how many non-members would join the strike.

Oil company breakup hit

Little good and much mischief could come from forcing the biggest oil companies to break up, administration officials said Thursday.

They testified at a Senate Judiciary Committee hearing on a bill that would force divestiture of the 18 largest companies. The committee has set a June 15 vote on the bill, which was approved by a subcommittee.

The bill would provide, for example, that none among the top 18 could be a major producer while also being a major refiner, or a major transporter, of oil and products.

"It is not at all clear that vertical divestiture in the petroleum industry would result in reduced prices of petroleum products," Federal Energy Administrator Frank Zarb said.

Guild strikes Time

The Newspaper Guild struck Time Inc. Wednesday night when last-minute negotiations failed to produce agreement on a new contract.

The walkout involves employees of Time, People, Sports Illustrated, Fortune and Money magazines and Time-Life Books. They had worked without a contract since Feb. 1.

A spokeswoman for the Guild said picket lines were set up outside the Time-Life Building in Manhattan.

Everything You Get With A $500 Pinball Machine For $21.95* PACHINKO

Talk about fun, excitement, noise and action! That's the name of the game when you play Pachinko...Japan's answer to our pinball machine. With all the appeal of the most expensive Penny-Arcade game, Pachinko is a total amusement center for your home at a price you can afford.

And we think Pachinko's even better! You don't need any electricity or batteries to play. And you can service it yourself by following our simple instructions. Because it's small, it's flexible. Three feet tall by two feet wide, Pachinko can be set up anywhere, and can go right back into the closet when you're finished playing. Best of all, it's completely assembled and ready to play the moment you get it home.

At The Pachinko Factory you'll find both recirculating and non recirculating models. And all the current face designs to choose from. Most important, our store personnel know Pachinko and can make you a Pachinko expert in minutes.

If you already own a Pachinko machine, come to The Pachinko Factory for service. We service all makes and models of Pachinko...regardless of where you bought your machine. And we carry a full line of Pachinko accessories, too.

*Special Sale

Begins today and lasts until our limited supply of 1975 models runs out. Two-year guarantee on all purchases. THIS SALE WILL NOT BE REPEATED. Pachinko sells $2.00 per hundred

Super dog saves girl, 13, in home fire

The early hours of Tuesday morning produced nothing very extraordinary for the Carlson family of Carpenter Street in Palatine. Allan Carlson Sr. left for work. His wife, Donna, trudged around their house, making sure that Dan, Ruthanne and Allan Jr. would find their respective schools.

Chestnut, the family's 1-year-old golden retriever, who would be a heroine later that morning, kept herself busy by acting out a dog's life.

Then it all began to fall apart.

ON MOST WEEKDAYS, 13-year-old Nancy Carlson also leaves for school. But not Tuesday morning. In fact, she had not been to school for a week.

Nancy underwent nose surgery last week. By Tuesday morning, her nose remained painful and it still bled.

She placed cotton inside her nose, took some pain relieving tablets and began to rest on her parents' bed.

Later that morning, Nancy's mother left home to shop for groceries.

"I thought she would be sleeping," Donna said of Nancy.

But while she rested, Nancy decided to cook French fries for her younger brother, Allan Jr., 10, who soon would come home for lunch.

NANCY WENT to the kitchen, placed grease in a pan, turned on the electric range . . . and proceeded back to bed.

The next thing she remembers, Chestnut, the family's golden retriever, had jumped onto the bed and began to bark loudly.

"Then I heard a big boom," Nancy said. "I thought it was a door slamming. Chestnut kept going to the (bedroom) door and coming back, telling me to follow her.

"She walked down the hall, and when I went to the door, there was smoke everywhere," said Nancy, who attends Palatine Hills Junior High School.

The kitchen was ablaze. Nancy ran to a neighbor's house. They called the Palatine Fire Dept.

WHEN DONNA finally arrived home, she discovered the commotion of policemen and firemen outside her house.

"It was horrifying, thinking that your daughter is in there sleeping," Donna said. When she was a child, Donna had lost two cousins in a fire.

But Nancy was outside, watching firemen battle the kitchen blaze.

"It was so great to hug her, I just can't tell you," Donna said.

When they finally walked back inside, the telephone rang. A fireman answered and said, "This is the fireman." But the person hung up.

A few minutes passed. The phone rang again. Donna answered. It was a nurse from Palatine High School. She said that 15-year-old Ruthanne had a stomach ache.

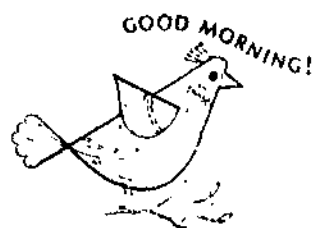

THE NURSE wondered whether Donna could come to the high school and get her daughter.

"I told her, 'I can't come now. We're putting out a fire in my house,'" Donna said.

The nurse must have thought that was funny. Donna said the nurse began to laugh very hard.

Along the way, Donna called her husband, Allan, who works in Elk Grove Village. She told him the house had begun to burn.

Use of funds in unit role illegal: Scott

by DOROTHY OLIVER

Funds spent by High School Dist. 214 and Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 in the unit district controversy may have been spent illegally, according to an opinion from Illinois Atty. Gen. William J. Scott.

"It is my opinion that an Illinois school board may not expend school district funds to promote or oppose the formation of a unit school district," Scott stated in an opinion requested by the Vermilion County State's Attorney in connection with a unit school district controversy there.

"Were such a power granted to a school board, questions might be raised as to its validity under . . . the Illinois Constitution of 1970 which requires that public funds be used only for public purposes," the opinion states.

THE SCOTT opinion states school districts exercise "limited governmental powers" as set forth in the school code and that school districts "have no inherent powers" beyond that.

Scott said after reviewing the powers of a school board set forth in the school code "I find nothing in these provisions authorizing school boards to expend district funds . . . to oppose or promote a unit district.

Dist. 59 spent $8,500 to hire a consultant to update information on the impact of a unit school district in the Dist. 59 area. The district spent between $18,000 and $20,000 in 1973 for the original unit study which was used as a basis for the review this year.

Dist. 59 also has paid for the printing of the unit district citizens' study committee reports and authorized the administration to assist in the organization of the committee.

DIST. 59 RETAINED the law firm of Reid, Ochenschlager, Murphy and Hupp for legal advice on the procedures of bringing the unit district question to the voters in a referendum. The district has not approved payments to the law firm, said Leah Cummins, coordinator of community relations for Dist. 59, but she said the attorneys have started working with district officials and "the meter is running."

Dist. 214 also has retained a law firm, Faywell, James and Brooks, for legal advice on the unit district. Robert Weber, associate superintendent for business services, said the board has paid the firm $6,525.

Dist. 214 also hired a court reporter to make transcripts of all unit district study committee meetings, Weber said. Copies of the transcripts were given to the committee and are being used by Dist. 214 officials "to keep us informed," Weber said.

In March, the district also published a special edition of "Our Schools Are People" newsletter to the community urging residents "to join the opposition to the formation of a unit district in the area served by Dist. 59." The newsletters, written as a letter from former Board Pres. Gene Artemenko, states that the Dist. 214 board "passed a resolution expressing unanimous opposition" to the Dist. 59 unit district, which would separate Elk Grove and Forest View high schools from Dist. 214 and place the COOL WEATHER did not stop Mrs. James Coburn and daughter Cheryl from attending a stage performance by The Truck Wednesday at the band pavilion at Lake Opeka, Des Plaines. It was the first in a series of summer concerts and shows sponsored by the Des Plaines Park District. The Coburns and others were treated to a theatrical variety show by the touring repertory company, including a little juggling by Derek Evans. Free performances at the pavilion will continue Wednesdays and Fridays through August.

Hays to quit only one of two posts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Trying to weather the storm, Rep. Wayne Hays announced Thursday he will resign only the lesser of his two committee chairmanships despite pressure to quit both because of the Elizabeth Ray-sex scandal.

Meeting critics less than halfway, the Ohio Democrat agreed to have "a temporary chairman" replace him on the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee "until the charge against me has been resolved."

But he ignored high-level requests to quit his more important post as head of the House Administration Committee and said he would discuss with that panel "any questions concerning my role as chairman" — obviously sure of majority support there.

Later, looking stooped and haggard, Hays read his statement before television cameras at a podium normally reserved for another committee chairman. He walked with his head down and ignored reporters' questions.

The House Ethics Committee, meantime, launched its investigation of Miss Ray's charge that Hays put her on the Administration Committee payroll at $14,000 a year to serve as his mistress. Hays admits they had a long affair before his April marriage, but denies he hired her for that purpose.

Chairman John Flynt, D-Ga., said

the panel "definitely" expected to discuss more names than those of Hays and Miss Ray. It was not clear whether

Cook County to review pact for court in civic center

A contract leasing the third floor of the Des Plaines Civic Center to the county for use as a District 3 jury court will be reviewed by the Cook County Board Monday.

Des Plaines Mayor Herbert H. Behrel said the county is expected to approve the pact, permitting final planning for remodeling the third floor at the civic center, 1420 Mine St.

"I'm told that if they approve it Monday, we'll know in time for the council meeting that night," Behrel said. "If we get right on it, we could have all the work done by October."

Youth basketball meeting

There will be an organizational meeting for the Young Adult Basketball League at 7 p.m. Monday in the Des Plaines Park District office, 748 Pearson St. For information contact Rick Mackey, 296-6106.

THE DES PLAINES City Council has approved a lease agreement which would permit the county to use the third floor rent-free for the first year of the five-year contract. The county would pay $2,300 a month for the remaining four years. The lease cannot be terminated without 180 days notice.

In addition to rent, the county would pay $114,600 to remodel the third floor for courtroom use. The city would be required to pay the cost of remodeling only in "common areas" such as restrooms and elevators, and all new additions would become city property.

Behrel said it will take about a month to complete final plans for the third floor renovation, and bidding the project would take a week.

"Construction will take about 90 days, so that puts us into October," Behrel said.

The county is moving into the civic center because continued use of the old city hall building next door is uncertain. City officials want to raze the structure to make room for additional parking for the civic center.

Girls' softball league

The Des Plaines Park District is sponsoring a high school girls' softball league this summer.

The season begins June 15. Rules and roster forms are available at the Maine West High School girls physical education office and at the park district office, 748 Pearson St.

An organizational meeting is set for 4 p.m. Monday at Rand Park, 2025 Miner St.

Summer program sign-up

Registration for Des Plaines Park District summer programs will be Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Rand Park, 2025 Miner St.

Free busing plan may end next year

Free busing for children from the Park View School area to other schools in River Trails Dist. 26 may only be offered for one year. Board members debated whether it would be fair to provide free busing to Park View students but continue to charge a fee for students whose parents request a transfer to another school in the district.

At the April 6 meeting, when the board voted to close Park View, board members told parents free transportation would be provided to other district schools. Park View students will attend Bond, Feehanville and Indian Grove schools next fall.

Some parents attending Tuesday's meeting, however, said it would be discriminatory to provide free busing to Park View students while charging parents who request voluntary transfers for their children.

Board Pres. Leora Rosen said the board might consider providing free busing for Park View students for only the coming school year. She said the original offer was made during the emotionalism surrounding the decision to close the school.

Mrs. Rosen also said it is possible that certain routes where Park View students must walk to their new schools could possibly be declared hazardous, which would allow the district to receive state reimbursement for the busing.

The board also discussed whether to maintain its present policy for voluntary transfers. Supt. John Fridlund recommended that the board continue to require parents to pay the transportation costs if they request a transfer to a school other than the one to which their child is normally assigned.

The board tabled its discussion of the busing issue until its June 29 meeting. Mrs. Rosen said by that time there might be more information about the possibility of receiving state reimbursement because of hazardous walking routes.

2 possible Park View renters

Two possible renters have expressed an interest in Park View School.

Ralph Beaudoin, director of business affairs, said the possible renters are a Montessori School and the Northwest Opportunity Center.

Beaudoin said Park View Montessori School would use three classrooms. The preschool would pay $8,000 a year in rent under a suggested agreement, Beaudoin said.

The Northwest Opportunity Center provides social services for low-income residents of the Northwest suburbs. The services include legal aid, Head Start, senior citizens outreach, housing and employment aid, a food stamp service and emergency food and financial assistance.

Beaudoin said the center asked for nine classrooms and the office complex at Park View and their rent offer was $8,500 per year.

The board will consider these requests at a meeting Tuesday.

Meeting dates changed

The board has changed its meeting dates for June. A meeting was called at 8 p.m. for next Tuesday to continue unfinished business from Tuesday's meeting. The board will consider the rental of Park View School and will also appoint a new member to the board to replace Edward Pugliese, who resigned last month.

The regular meeting scheduled for June 15 was changed to June 29. Both meetings will be held at River Trails Junior High School, 1000 Wolf Rd., Mount Prospect.

Oakton College summer classes to begin June 14

Summer session classes at Oakton Community College will begin June 14.

Registration for the session will be Monday and Tuesday in Building 6 at the Oakton interim campus, 7900 N. Nagle Ave., Morton Grove. Students can register both days from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 6 to 8 p.m.

Persons who register must show proof of their permanent legal address. A valid driver's license or voter's registration card may be used.

Tuition for the summer session is $12 per semester hour for residents of the college district. Senior citizens who are 60 years of age or older and residents of the district pay only $6 per semester hour. Payment of tuition and fees must be made at the time of registration or within 24 hours.

Parking permits for the summer session will be sold June 10 in Building 6. Day permits will be sold between 8 and 11 a.m. and evening permits between 7 and 9 p.m. Permits are $5 and are sold on a first come, first served basis. Students must have driver's license and vehicle registration cards with them to purchase a permit.

The summer session will end Aug. 6. There will be no classes July 5.

Junior High location for Dist. 26 classes

River Trails Dist. 26 this year will offer all its summer school classes at River Trails Junior High School, 1000 Wolf Rd., Mount Prospect.

The district originally planned also to offer classes at Feehanville School. Low enrollment, however, forced the district to consolidate the program, said Judy Peterson, summer school director.

Dist. 26's tuition for the program is $25 for a 1½-hour course and $50 for a three-hour course.

The Dist. 26 Board of Education decided to offer only classes that had a minimum enrollment of 12 children. By Wednesday six classes had enough children registered: remedial reading, remedial math, cooking, gymnastics, art and sewing.

The summer program will be from June 21 to July 23. Miss Peterson said there will be no additional tuition for out-of-district students.

Fund use in unit role illegal: state control of elementary and high schools under one board and administration.

MRS. CUMMINS and Weber each questioned whether the tax dollars spent by their districts on the unit study are illegal.

Mrs. Cummins said the Dist. 59 board has not formally voted to support or promote the unit district concept, and although some board members have publicly stated they favor bringing the question to the voters in a referendum, they have not endorsed it.

"The objective of the board has been to let the voters decide," she said.

Weber said, "It's a matter of interpretation," whether money spent by Dist. 214 has been to oppose the unit district or "to keep us informed as to what is happening."

HE SAID THE lawfirm was hired "to advise us as to the legalities" of the procedures used to form a unit district.

Richard Doyle, state's attorney for Vermilion County, who requested the Scott opinion, said the question on the legality of the expenditures was raised "when one district (in the county) wanted to spend money in opposition to a unit district consolidation in another district. They wanted to fund legal moves to stop the consolidation."

He said Scott's opinion agrees with his own interpretation of what is legal, and that "school districts can't spend taxpayers' money to promote their ideas on various issues." He said the legal role of the school district is to "educate and inform — not to influence."

Juvenile arrested in church burglary

A 16-year-old Des Plaines youth was arrested late Wednesday in connection with a burglary at the Church of God, 1495 Prospect Ave., Des Plaines, police said.

Two other boys, who escaped police, still are being sought, according to reports.

Police said the 16-year-old was arrested while police were responding to a burglary call at the church shortly after 10 p.m.

Police said the boys reportedly had entered a boiler room and were going through a desk looking for money. A patrolman reported seeing the three leave the boiler room. He said he identified himself but they ran.

Juvenile authorities said the youth who was caught was taken to Audy Home in Chicago and has been named in delinquency petitions alleging burglary.

Super dog saves girl, 13, in home fire

The early hours of Tuesday morning produced nothing very extraordinary for the Carlson family of Carpenter Street in Palatine. Allan Carlson Sr. left for work. His wife, Donna, trudged around their house, making sure that Dan, Ruthanne and Allan Jr. would find their respective schools.

Chestnut, the family's 1-year-old golden retriever, who would be a heroine later that morning, kept herself busy by acting out a dog's life.

Then it all began to fall apart.

ON MOST WEEKDAYS, 13-year-old Nancy Carlson also leaves for school. But not Tuesday morning. In fact, she had not been to school for a week.

Nancy underwent nose surgery last week. By Tuesday morning, her nose remained painful and it still bled.

She placed cotton inside her nose, took some pain relieving tablets and began to rest on her parents' bed.

Later that morning, Nancy's mother left home to shop for groceries.

"I thought she would be sleeping," Donna said of Nancy.

But while she rested, Nancy decided to cook French fries for her younger brother, Allan Jr., 10, who soon would come home for lunch.

NANCY WENT to the kitchen, placed grease in a pan, turned on

Today

the electric range... and proceeded back to bed.

The next thing she remembers, Chestnut, the family's golden retriever, had jumped onto the bed and began to bark loudly.

"Then I heard a big boom," Nancy said. "I thought it was a door slamming. Chestnut kept going to the (bedroom) door and coming back, telling me to follow her."

"She walked down the hall, and when I went to the door, there was smoke everywhere," said Nancy, who attends Palatine Hills Junior High School.

The kitchen was ablaze. Nancy ran to a neighbor's house. They called the Palatine Fire Dept.

WHEN DONNA finally arrived home, she discovered the commotion of policemen and firemen outside her house.

"It was horrifying, thinking that your daughter is in there sleeping," Donna said. When she was a child, Donna had lost two cousins in a fire.

But Nancy was outside, watching firemen battle the kitchen blaze.

"It was so great to hug her, I just can't tell you," Donna said.

When they finally walked back inside, the telephone rang. A fireman answered and said, "This is the fireman." But the person hung up.

A few minutes passed. The phone rang again. Donna answered. It was a nurse from Palatine High School. She said that 15-year-old Ruthanne had a stomach ache.

THE NURSE wondered whether Donna could come to the high school and get her daughter.

"I told her, 'I can't come now. We're putting out a fire in my house,'" Donna said.

The nurse must have thought that was funny. Donna said the nurse began to laugh very hard.

Along the way, Donna called her husband, Allan, who works in Elk Grove Village. She told him the house had begun to burn.

Class study top priority: Dist. 96 unit

The Buffalo Grove-Long Grove Dist. 96 Board of Education's education committee set the evaluation of the educational program as its first priority.

The district now has a program in Individually Guided Education operated in an open classroom setting. Several parents have told school officials that the system does not work for some of their children and have asked for an alternative system that would provide a more structured environment.

THURSDAY THE committee set the evaluation of IGE as its first priority for study during the summer. The evaluation process already has begun through a meeting this week with some parents who had withdrawn their children from Dist. 96 because they said the children had not achieved academically under the district's educational program.

A second meeting is scheduled for next week with parents and teachers who wish to express their views on the educational program to the committee. The meeting is set for 8 p.m. Thursday at Kildeer School, Route 2, Long Grove.

Committee member Louis Lundstedt said he did not want next week's meeting to become an attack or a defense of IGE. "I don't think we want to condemn IGE. IGE is a very fine thing for some students," he said.

Lundstedt said he does not think parents are attacking IGE. The parents, he said, are only seeking an alternative. "They are not saying that IGE ought to be abolished. They are simply saying that it doesn't work for some of their children. These are parents who want an alternative and it is up to us to provide it," he said.

LUNDSTEDT SAID that based on his overwhelming victory in last April's school board election, he believes there is considerable support for providing an alternative to IGE. "I was the only candidate who ran in the last election who espoused the belief that there ought to be an alternative. That alternative ought to be in place when we open the doors in September."

Lundstedt said he favors a survey of parents to determine how many would prefer an alternate educational system. "We have to look to the people who pay the taxes to keep the schools open," he said.

The committee set as its second priority for the summer the evaluation of the present system for reporting student grades. The committee hopes to complete its work so that a revised system may be used by the first grading period next fall.

THE THIRD PRIORITY set by the committee is an exploration of the possible need for setting minimum academic standards for student achievement to ensure that all students have mastered basic skills before graduation.

Committee chairman Howard Falk said the committee will report to the board at its meeting June 14 on its preliminary findings on the committee goals and "to seek direction to some of the things we will be discussing in the next couple of months."

Access to park poses problem

Auto agency expansion hits snag

A proposed expansion of the Grand Spaulding Dodge dealership on Dundee Road has hit a snag because of the lack of access to a proposed park on the 16-acre site.

Questions about access to the proposed 3.3-acre park were raised at a Buffalo Grove Plan Commission meeting Wednesday night, with the commission members directing Grand Spaulding to resolve the access problem before the scheduled public hearing June 16.

Grand Spaulding plans to purchase 16 acres now zoned for residential use near Arlington Heights and Dundee roads, behind the Mill Creek apartment complex.

THE DEALERSHIP plans to expand its display area on nine acres east of the existing building. Also planned in "10 to 20 years" is construction of a retention basin and a utility building behind the Mill Creek complex. Approximately 3.4 acres directly behind the dealership would be retained for possible future expansion.

When combined with an existing village well site, the proposed park donation would total four acres, running from Dundee Road south to the Mill Creek apartments. The only planned access to the site is from Dundee Road, and several officials questioned whether the lack of access to the park would cut off use by Mill Creek residents.

In a letter to the plan commission, Buffalo Grove Parks Director Stanley

Crosland said the park district would like additional access on the south end of the park, possibly through an extension of Mill Creek Drive.

PLAN COMR. Burton Harris said he was "very concerned" about accessibility to the park, and said that while a park is "sorely needed in the Mill Creek area, it's got to be useful to us. Right now, you can't get to the park without crossing private property."

The Buffalo Grove village staff, and officials from the park district and Grand Spaulding will meet next week to discuss a possible south access to the park, said William Whited, administrative assistant. Whited said Mill Creek Drive may be dedicated to the village or park district for construction of an access route, but he said there were "a lot of unanswered questions" to clear up before an agreement is reached.

IN ADDITION to questioning the park donation, several plan commissioners and residents had doubts about the rezoning of the 16 acres from multi-family to commercial.

Plan Comr. Patrick Shields said he wanted to hear more discussion on the development itself, and Mill Creek homeowner Betty Reid said the "real question is whether we want commercial (zoning) along Dundee Road — I'd like to see you spend more time on the actual plan."

College group plans Christian faith talk

A presentation by the Swordbearers, a group of students from Cedarville College in Ohio, will be held at 7 p.m. today at the Village Baptist Church, 385 Buffalo Grove Rd., Buffalo Grove.

The students will lead discussions on the Christian faith. The visit, aimed at young people and their families, is part of a three-month tour of the United States by the group.

For more information, call the church at 541-2766.

Hays to quit only one of two posts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Trying to weather the storm, Rep. Wayne Hays announced Thursday he will resign only the lesser of his two committee chairmanships despite pressure to quit both because of the Elizabeth Ray sex scandal.

Meeting critics less than halfway, the Ohio Democrat agreed to have "a temporary chairman" replace him on the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee "until the charge against me has been resolved."

But he ignored high-level requests to quit his more important post as head of the House Administration Committee and said he would discuss with that panel "any questions concerning my role as chairman" — obviously sure of majority support there.

Later, looking stooped and haggard, Hays read his statement before television cameras at a podium normally reserved for another committee chairman. He walked with his head down and ignored reporters' questions.

The House Ethics Committee, meantime, launched its investigation of Miss Ray's charge that Hays put her on the Administration Committee payroll at $14,000 a year to serve as his mistress. Hays admits they had a long affair before his April marriage, but denies he hired her for that purpose.

Chairman John Flynt, D-Ga., said the panel "definitely" expected to discuss more names than those of Hays and Miss Ray. It was not clear whether Ambulance tax rapped by Wheeling

Three Wheeling trustees Thursday said they will not support the Wheeling Rural Fire Protection District's July 17 ambulance tax referendum.

Trustees William Hein, Charles Kerr and Gilbert Monoson cited the fire district board's failure to act on the village's request for disconnection as the major reason for opposing the referendum.

"The general feeling of our group (the trustees) is we are getting the old stall treatment. I don't think there will be any support from Wheeling for that referendum," Kerr said.

HEIN SAID FIRE district trustees don't seem to believe the Wheeling village board is serious about withdrawing from the district.

"Our attorney sent a letter to the attorney and it couldn't have been more explicit about our desire to withdraw from the fire district. To me it could be a stall technique," he said.

Monoson said he is "miffed" about Wednesday night's meeting with the fire district board.

"I tried to go in there with an open mind, but I was disappointed with the way the meeting went. I told them it was a show of solidarity from the village board but I still don't think it got to them," he said.

Monoson said he will oppose the ambulance tax referendum as "an individual, a resident of the village. I'll do everything in my power to see it fail."

"WE REPRESENT 95 per cent of the fire district and we're already getting excellent ambulance and paramedic service. Why would a Wheeling resident go out and bring a tax against himself for a service he already receives free of charge?" he said.

Hein said that the village ambulance service is "put together by the village."

"All the equipment and training were paid for by the village. We have not asked the fire protection district for any help with the ambulance service," he said.

Hein said he also doesn't want to get involved with the ambulance tax "because we want out of the district."

"I don't think a municipality should have to go to another taxing body for money for our own area," he said.

HEIN SAID THE fire district board is using the ambulance tax referendum "to cloud the issue" of Wheeling's withdrawal from the district.

Monoson said he is interested in getting a second fire station west of the Soo Line tracks for Wheeling residents as well as renovation of the existing station.

"The fire district board's attitude is so strong and negative to our requests, they're making sure there is no room for talk. They're telling us to go out and pass an ambulance tax and annex the old part of town into the district, then they'll talk to us," he said.

Wheeling trustees are seeking disconnection from the district in an effort to increase fire tax revenues to the village. Hein said tax revenues could be increased by at least $55,000 annually because an area of the village not in the fire district could be taxed.

BUFFALO GROVE Fire Chief Wayne Winter admitted that if Wheeling opposes the referendum, "it certainly isn't going to help us, but the district has to think of the people that are now in the unincorporated area Wheeling covers. They're getting socked for $75 each time they use an ambulance, and we won't have any trouble convincing them of the need for the tax."

Ruling in Downstate school case

Fund use in unit role illegal: state

by DOROTHY OLIVER

Funds spent by High School Dist. 214 and Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 in the unit district controversy may have been spent illegally, according to an opinion from Illinois Atty. Gen. William J. Scott.

"It is my opinion that an Illinois school board may not expend school district funds to promote or oppose the formation of a unit school district," Scott stated in an opinion requested by the Vermilion County State's Attorney in connection with a unit school district controversy there.

"Were such a power granted to a school board, questions might be raised as to its validity under... the Illinois Constitution of 1970 which requires that public funds be used only for public purposes," the opinion states.

THE SCOTT opinion states school districts exercise "limited governmental powers" as set forth in the school code and that school districts "have no inherent powers" beyond that.

Scott said after reviewing the powers of a school board set forth in the school code "I find nothing in these provisions authorizing school boards to expend district funds... to oppose or promote a unit district."

Dist. 59 spent $8,500 to hire a consultant to update information on the impact of a unit school district in the Dist. 59 area. The district spent between $18,000 and $20,000 in 1973 for the original unit study which was used as a basis for the review this year.

Dist. 59 also has paid for the printing of the unit district citizens' study committee reports and authorized the administration to assist in the organization of the committee.

DIST. 59 RETAINED the law firm of Reid, Ochenschlager, Murphy and Hupp for legal advice on the procedures of bringing the unit district question to the voters in a referendum. The district has not approved payments to the law firm, said Leah Cummins, coordinator of community relations for Dist. 59, but she said the attorneys have started working with district officials and "the meter is running."

Dist. 214 also has retained a law firm, Faywell, James and Brooks, for legal advice on the unit district. Robert Weber, associate superintendent for business services, said the board has paid the firm $6,525.

Dist. 214 also hired a court reporter to make transcripts of all unit district study committee meetings, Weber said. Copies of the transcripts were given to the committee and are being used by Dist. 214 officials "to keep us informed," Weber said.

In March, the district also published a special edition of "Our Schools

Are People" newsletter to the community urging residents "to join the opposition to the formation of a unit district in the area served by Dist. 59." The newsletters, written as a letter from former Board Pres. Gene Artemenko, states that the Dist. 214 board "passed a resolution expressing unanimous opposition" to the Dist. 59 unit district, which would separate Elk Grove and Forest View high schools from Dist. 214 and place the control of elementary and high schools under one board and administration.

MRS. CUMMINS and Weber each questioned whether the tax dollars spent by their districts on the unit study are illegal.

Mrs. Cummins said the Dist. 59 board has not formally voted to support or promote the unit district concept, and although some board members have publically stated they favor bringing the question to the voters in a referendum, they have not endorsed it.

"The objective of the board has been to let the voters decide," she said.

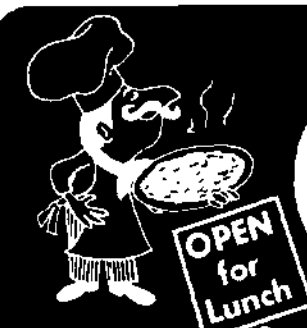

Weber said, "It's a matter of interpretation" whether money spent by Dist. 214 has been to oppose the unit district or "to keep us informed as to what is happening."

HE SAID THE law firm was hired "to advise us as to the legalities" of the procedures used to form a unit district.

Richard Doyle, state's attorney for Vermilion County, who requested the Scott opinion, said the question on the legality of the expenditures was raised "when one district (in the county) wanted to spend money in opposition to a unit district consolidation in another district. They wanted to fund legal moves to stop the consolidation."

He said Scott's opinion agrees with his own interpretation of what is legal, and that "school districts can't spend taxpayers' money to promote their ideas on various issues." He said the legal role of the school district is to "educate and inform — not to influence."

Super dog saves girl, 13, in home fire

The early hours of Tuesday morning produced nothing very extraordinary for the Carlson family of Carpenter Street in Palatine. Allan Carlson Sr. left for work. His wife, Donna, trudged around their house, making sure that Dan, Ruthanne and Allan Jr. would find their respective schools.

Chestnut, the family's 1-year-old golden retriever, who would be a heroine later that morning, kept herself busy by acting out a dog's life.

Then it all began to fall apart.

ON MOST WEEKDAYS, 13-year-old Nancy Carlson also leaves for school. But not Tuesday morning. In fact, she had not been to school for a week.

Nancy underwent nose surgery last week. By Tuesday morning, her nose remained painful and it still bled.

She placed cotton inside her nose, took some pain relieving tablets and began to rest on her parents' bed.

Later that morning, Nancy's mother left home to shop for groceries.

"I thought she would be sleeping," Donna said of Nancy.

But while she rested, Nancy decided to cook French fries for her younger brother, Allan Jr., 10, who soon would come home for lunch.

NANCY WENT to the kitchen, placed grease in a pan, turned on

Today

the electric range . . . and proceeded back to bed.

The next thing she remembers, Chestnut, the family's golden retriever, had jumped onto the bed and began to bark loudly.

"Then I heard a big boom," Nancy said. "I thought it was a door slamming. Chestnut kept going to the (bedroom) door and coming back, telling me to follow her.

"She walked down the hall, and when I went to the door, there was smoke everywhere," said Nancy, who attends Palatine Hills Junior High School.

The kitchen was ablaze. Nancy ran to a neighbor's house. They called the Palatine Fire Dept.

WHEN DONNA finally arrived home, she discovered the commotion of policemen and firemen outside her house.

"It was horrifying, thinking that your daughter is in there sleeping," Donna said. When she was a child, Donna had lost two cousins in a fire.

But Nancy was outside, watching firemen battle the kitchen blaze.

"It was so great to hug her, I just can't tell you," Donna said.

When they finally walked back inside, the telephone rang. A fireman answered and said, "This is the fireman." But the person hung up.

A few minutes passed. The phone rang again. Donna answered. It was a nurse from Palatine High School. She said that 15-year-old Ruthanne had a stomach ache.

THE NURSE wondered whether Donna could come to the high school and get her daughter.

"I told her, 'I can't come now. We're putting out a fire in my house,'" Donna said.

The nurse must have thought that was funny. Donna said the nurse began to laugh very hard.

Along the way, Donna called her husband, Allan, who works in Elk Grove Village. She told him the house had begun to burn.

A FIREMAN EXAMINES the debris from a fire Thursday afternoon which gutted a garden apartment at 624 Carol Square, Elk Grove Village. The blaze started from a cigaret dropped on a couch, fire officials said. Damage was estimated at $12,000. A girl who resides in the apartment and a friend were there at the time, but officials were withholding names until the girl's mother, who is out of town, is notified. No other apartments in the building were damaged and no injuries were reported.

Hays to quit only one of two posts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Trying to weather the storm, Rep. Wayne Hays announced Thursday he will resign only the lesser of his two committee chairmanships despite pressure to quit both because of the Elizabeth Ray sex scandal.

Meeting critics less than halfway, the Ohio Democrat agreed to have "a temporary chairman" replace him on the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee "until the charge against me has been resolved."

But he ignored high-level requests to quit his more important post as head of the House Administration Committee and said he would discuss with that panel "any questions concerning my role as chairman" — obviously sure of majority support there.

Later, looking stooped and haggard, Hays read his statement before television cameras at a podium normally reserved for another committee chairman. He walked with his head down and ignored reporters' questions.

The House Ethics Committee, meantime, launched its investigation of Miss Ray's charge that Hays put her on the Administration Committee payroll at $14,000 a year to serve as his mistress. Hays admits they had a long affair before his April marriage, but denies he hired her for that purpose.

Chairman John Flynt, D-Ga., said the panel "definitely" expected to discuss more names than those of Hays and Miss Ray. It was not clear whether

by TOM VON MALDER

The two-story addition planned for the Elk Grove Village Public Library, 101 Kennedy Blvd., will be financed through a mortgage on the existing library and will be built under the contract manager system.

Library Board Pres. Robert Fleming Wednesday said the cost of the addition is unknown. The addition, to be built at the northeast end of the present structure, will include space for adult and children services.

Fleming said the mortgage will be negotiated rather than bid, adding that he wants to give the mortgage to a local bank because they are "taxpayers." Fleming said the bank has not been chosen but will be decided on the interest charges offered by the banks.

The board financed a 1970 addition to the library through a $150,000 mortgage with the Bank of Elk Grove. At the time, Fleming was a member of the bank's board of directors and a stock holder.

FLEMING HAS since sold his stock and resigned from the bank position and has maintained that there was no conflict of interest involved.

Fleming said the village board will have to approve the action before the mortgage is obtained. He is to discuss the matter with the village board after the project has been bid, which is not expected before July.

The library board this week accepted the low bid of $47,000 by Schillmoeller Kroff Co., Chicago, to function as contract manager for the addition. The library board will act as the general contractor. Two other bids were received.

The bids were opened at an executive session May 17, according to Administrative Librarian Janet Steiner and Board Member Darlene Greaves, although state law requires that public bids be opened in public session. At the time of the bid opening, the board would not release any details of the bids.

Use of funds in unit role illegal: Scott

by DOROTHY OLIVER

Funds spent by High School Dist. 214 and Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 in the unit district controversy may have been spent illegally, according to an opinion from Illinois Atty. Gen. William J. Scott.

"It is my opinion that an Illinois school board may not expend school district funds to promote or oppose the formation of a unit school district," Scott stated in an opinion requested by the Vermilion County State's Attorney in connection with a unit school district controversy there.

"Were such a power granted to a school board, questions might be raised as to its validity under . . . the Illinois Constitution of 1970 which requires that public funds be used only for public purposes," the opinion states.

THE SCOTT opinion states school districts exercise "limited governmental powers" as set forth in the school code and that school districts "have no inherent powers" beyond that.

Scott said after reviewing the powers of a school board set forth in the school code "I find nothing in these provisions authorizing school boards to expend district funds . . . to oppose or promote a unit district."

Dist. 59 spent $8,500 to hire a consultant to update information on the impact of a unit school district in the Dist. 59 area. The district spent between $18,000 and $20,000 in 1973 for the original unit study which was used as a basis for the review this year.

Dist. 59 also has paid for the printing of the unit district citizens' study committee reports and authorized the administration to assist in the organization of the committee.

DIST. 59 RETAINED the law firm of Reid, Ochsenschlager, Murphy and Hupp for legal advice on the procedures of bringing the unit district question to the voters in a referendum. The district has not approved payments to the law firm, said Leah

Cummins, coordinator of community relations for Dist. 59, but she said the attorneys have started working with district officials and "the meter is running."

Dist. 214 also has retained a law firm, Faywell, James and Brooks, for legal advice on the unit district. Robert Weber, associate superintendent for business services, said the board has paid the firm $6,525.

Dist. 214 also hired a court reporter to make transcripts of all unit district study committee meetings, Weber said. Copies of the transcripts were given to the committee and are being used by Dist. 214 officials "to keep us informed," Weber said.

In March, the district also published a special edition of "Our Schools Are People" newsletter to the community urging residents "to join the opposition to the formation of a unit district in the area served by Dist. 59." The newsletters, written as a letter from former Board Pres. Gene Artemenko, states that the Dist. 214 board "passed a resolution expressing unanimous opposition" to the Dist. 59 unit district, which would separate Elk Grove and Forest View high schools from Dist. 214 and place the control of elementary and high schools under one board and administration.

MRS. CUMMINS and Weber each questioned whether the tax dollars spent by their districts on the unit study are illegal.

Mrs. Cummins said the Dist. 59 board has not formally voted to support or promote the unit district concept, and although some board members have publically stated they favor bringing the question to the voters in a referendum, they have not endorsed it.

"The objective of the board has been to let the voters decide," she said.

Weber said, "It's a matter of inter-

Through bi-weekly paper

He links world to 'old country'

by BILL HILL

The red carpet and all the pomp and ceremony reserved for royalty was brought out of mothballs once again recently when Her Majesty Margrethe II, Queen of Denmark, descended on the Chicago area.

Chicago city officials turned out to give her that "my kind of town" welcome when she arrived. The usual dinners were held at the best hotels but, the grandest celebration of all took place in Elmwood Park, where "Den Danske Pioneer" is published.

Although visits by foreign dignitaries and the subsequent parades are exciting for all that are privilege to them, Arne William Jorgensen of Arlington Heights was probably the proudest during the Queen's visit.

HER MAJESTY graciously conferred upon Jorgensen the Royal Reward Medal of the First Class in recognition of his 26 years of service for the Danish bi-weekly newspaper.

The paper's circulation is only about 4,000, but it is still special to the proud Danish people around the world who pay $10 per year to receive it. The paper is one of only two such publications printed in America that gives news of the "old country."

Jorgensen, 48, has lived with his wife, Herdis, at 1625 S. Arlington Heights Rd. the past eight years. They have a 6-year-old son, Jimmy.

Jorgensen came to America alone in 1948, but his strong Danish accent suggests he arrived only yesterday.

HE LEFT DENMARK because of the strain on him during the German occupation period between 1940 and 1945.

"There was a lot of pressure. We always heard a lot about guys out to get you. There were German stooges all around. You couldn't trust nobody," says Jorgensen. His existence was further threatened by his job as a typesetter at a print shop where one of countless anti-German underground newspapers was printed during the occupation period.

For the first few months he was in America, Jorgensen worked with an uncle in Boston as a pressman. But after only six months in the country, he was drafted by the U.S. Army.

"They sent me back to Germany, of course," Jorgensen remembers with a taint of sarcasm.

But being sent overseas allowed him to visit his parents twice, and when he returned in 1950 the G.I. Bill paid for his linotype classes in Chicago.

HE HAS WORKED for "Pioneer" ever since.

The 16-page tabloid has Danish news printed in English and Danish with much of the information being provided by the Danish Information Office in Copenhagen.

Ten persons work in the Elmwood Park print shop where the paper is published, but only Jorgensen and Hjalmar Bertelsen, the editor, actually work on the "Pioneer" because they are the only ones who understand the Danish language.

With Bertelsen nearing retirement, Jorgensen says he someday hopes to take over the "Pioneer."

"IT IS THE only way Danish people can get news from the old country," he explains.

The importance of "Den Danske Pio-

IT'S BETTER THAN a Pulitzer. To Arne William Jorgensen of Arlington Heights, the medal he received from Queen Margrethe of Denmark is a much greater reward for his 26 years of service for The Danish Pioneer newspaper.

neer" also is realized by Queen Margrethe. In a luncheon speech during her visit, she announced that the Danish Bicentennial Committee has started a fund to insure the continuation of the paper, as well as the "Blen" of Los Angeles, because they are the last remaining Danish newspapers in the U.S.

"I have no doubt that these two papers are among the most important means by which Danish-Americans keep contact with each other and their heritage," she said.

U.S.'s CARE still caring for world's needy

by FRED T. FERGUSON

NEW YORK (UPI) — In the beginning, there were small packages of the "C" rations, about which GIs had little charitable to say.

But there was a welcoming ceremony and joy on the Le Havre docks when the first 5,000 packages arrived 30 years ago.

To Frenchmen in the aftermath of World War II that day — May 11, 1946 — it meant food for survival. To Americans, it was a way to contact friends and relatives and provide some help in the process.

THE SURPLUS military rations were purchased at $15 a package through a newly formed group which had the acronym, CARE. Then, it stood for Cooperative for American Remittances to Europe.

Although it delivered its last package more than a decade ago, CARE is still thought of as a package lift by many Americans. Millions in the 38 countries it now helps know better.

"I guess we are a victim of the early image," says Frank Goffio, who has been with CARE for 29 of its 30 years and is now its executive director. But CARE has changed drastically.

The letters now stand for Cooperative for American Relief Everywhere. The agency has some 1,400 employees. All but 400 are natives of the countries served.

CARE STILL handles a number of food programs but provides medical aid, technical advice, agricultural assistance and educational services. It even helps the United Nations with its aid programs.

By a system in which the country receiving the aid contributes extensively in manpower and services and the U.S. government provides massive amounts of grain under a surplus food program, CARE says its aid last year multiplied to $180 million in the receiving end out of $19 million in donations and another $14 million in the contribution of services and goods.

As the CARE people like to put it, "$5 in aid for every dollar contributed."

Dallas Vipond, 40, of Berea, Ohio, was at CARE's New York headquarters recently while on home leave between assignments. For the past two years he has been in charge of CARE's program in Bangladesh. Now he is headed for Indonesia.

"FOOD FOR WORK is the biggest program we have in Bangladesh," he said. "The idea is that the work people do in return for food we distribute, increases food production and, in the process, results in more jobs while providing each the food his family needs to live."

CARE manages the U.N. World Food Program distribution in Bangladesh. It feeds 187,000 mothers and 593,000 children. It also handles UNICEF food distribution for 87,500 preschool and primary school children who receive food at rural health centers.

Food for Work uses U.S.-provided wheat. It goes to 750,000 workers on such agriculture-related projects as earth works, canal excavation, dams, levies and tanks in which fish are grown. Counting the families, Vipond said the grain benefits 4.5 million persons per year.

Schools

High School Dist. 211

The Conant High School junior-senior prom and dinner will be held from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m., today at Henric's Restaurant-O'Hare Inn, Rosemont. The committee, under the direction of Mike Della, chose the theme "We May Never Pass This Way Again."

Music for the dance, which follows a steak dinner, will be played by the Krystaltones. A senior girl will be picked by her classmates and crowned queen of the prom at 11 p.m.

A free coke bar precedes the dinner. Tickets are sold during lunch and after school for $29 per couple. Students must attend both the dinner and the dance.

High School Dist. 214

U.S. Sen. Charles Percy will be at Arlington High School at 2 p.m. today to discuss current topics with students. Percy will meet with students in Grace gymnasium, 502 W. Euclid Ave., Arlington Heights. The public is invited to attend.

Auditions for the North High School Dist. 214 Symphony Orchestra are scheduled for 7 p.m. Thursday at Buffalo Grove High School, 1100 W. Dundee Rd., Buffalo Grove.

Students eligible to audition for seats in the brass, woodwind and percussion sections are from Arlington, Hersey, Buffalo Grove and Wheeling high schools. Presentations will include a solo performance, the major scales and sightreading.

Openings exist in the following instruments: flute, piccolo, clarinet, bassoon, french horn, trombone, tuba and percussion.

For information call Bruce Fowler at Wheeling High School, 459-1298, or Buffalo Grove High School, 541-5400, ext. 68.

Nancy Semple, a senior at Forest View High School, has been awarded the A. K. Oliver scholastic scholarship grant. The $1,000 grant is awarded by the scholarship jury of the National Scholastic art awards to the candidate best exemplifying a combination of outstanding creative art ability and high academic standing.

Miss Semple also is the recipient of a scholarship from Illinois Wesleyan University where she will be enrolled next fall.

Both scholarships were based on the art work in a portfolio she submitted to the Scholastic art awards exhibition regional contest. Her portfolio was selected for national competition in New York.

By virtue of these awards, Nancy's art portfolio is ranked as the best group of art works submitted for jurying from all the high school seniors in the nation.

Arlington High School's student newspaper, the Cardinal, is the recipient of two major awards for journalistic excellence.

The Cardinal has been awarded an All-American rating for its first semester publications by the National Scholastic Press Assn. critical service.

NSPA rates the top 10 per cent of the 2,000 high school publication entries as All-American.

The student staff members also were awarded the Golden Eagle trophy for the Cardinal from the Northern Illinois Scholastic Press Assn. The Cardinal was one of 10 student newspaper entrants from among 100 competitors to win the award.

Seven Arlington High School students were chosen to compete in the State Science Exposition recently at the University of Illinois-Champaign. The exposition was sponsored by the Illinois Junior Academy of Sciences.

Freshmen Bryan Blankfield and Eileen Lacey and sophomore Kimberlee Curnyn were among 12 students whose scientific papers were selected from entries from throughout Illinois to compete in the state exposition.

Sophomore Susan Revers' paper was selected for competition in the Bicentennial science essay contest. Susan is one of only 10 Illinois students selected to compete in this category.

Papers written by sophomore Gregg Terrell, the recipient of the U.S. Air Force award for Best Project, and freshman Kathy Hughes were chosen for competition in the state research project session.

Ravano cited by PTA; 472 attend workshops

About 472 members of the Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 Council of PTAs and guests attended the council's 13th annual School of Information Wednesday to hold workshops and honor members for their service during the past year.

Frank Tavano, principal of Schaumburg School, 520 E. Schaumburg Rd., Schaumburg, was awarded a lifetime membership in the PTA.

Council Pres. Arlene Czajkowski said the lifetime award is not given every year but Tavano was chosen this year because of his service to the PTA far beyond that involved in his principal position.

The council presented three $650 scholarship awards to High School Dist. 211 students Michael Frisch, Diane Fuhs and Mark Mandel, who attended the banquet with their families.

Following the banquet at Addams Junior High School, 700 Springguth Rd., Schaumburg, officers for 1976-77 were installed. They are Judy Lesley, president; Ann Weber, first vice president; Judie Horcher, second vice president; Ardye Heuer, recording secretary; Kathy Stawinoga, corresponding secretary; and Sharon Farm, treasurer.

pretation" whether money spent by Dist. 214 has been to oppose the unit district or "to keep us informed as to what is happening."

HE SAID THE lawfirm was hired "to advise us as to the legalities" of the procedures used to form a unit district.

Richard Doyle, state's attorney for Vermillion County, who requested the Scott opinion, said the question on the legality of the expenditures was raised "when one district (in the county) wanted to spend money in opposition to a unit district consolidation in another district. They wanted to fund legal moves to stop the consolidation."

He said Scott's opinion agrees with his own interpretation of what is legal, and that "school districts can't spend taxpayers' money to promote their ideas on various issues." He said the legal role of the school district is to "educate and inform — not to influence."

To supply mobile home spaces

Oasis owner must meet state pact

by TOM VON MALDER

An out-of-court agreement was reached Thursday calling for Oasis Mobile Home Park owner Oscar Brotman to supply all the mobile home spaces which he had promised the State of Illinois.

The state filed suit against Brotman for breach of contract when Brotman could not supply by Tuesday 27 more spaces in the park, 7500 N. Elmhurst Rd. The state is relocating residents the Elk Grove Mobile Home Park, which will be flooded for the Upper Salt Creek Watershed Project.

"We believe and hope we have it worked out to get these people in there in time," said attorney Edward J. Barrett, who is representing the state in the suit. Barrett said all residents of the Elk Grove Park, 941 W. Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Township, must be moved out by July 1 so that work on the Busse Woods reservoir can be completed.

BARRETT did not disclose details of the agreement other than to say the spaces would be provided by Brotman. He added that Brotman said Thursday 12 families are being evicted by June 21.

Brotman could not be reached Thursday.

Those being evicted have charged that Brotman ordered the evictions to provide for the spaces promised to the state. Brotman has said the evictions are based on problems with dogs and other violations of park rules, not to obtain spaces for the state relocation.

Michael Bramlet, of the right-of-way section of the Division of Water Resources, said that when the agreement was signed the state paid Brotman $7,500 in entry fees to reserve 100 spaces and began paying $93 per month per rented space. He said the agreement contained a provision permitting refund of the entry fees for any spaces not used but not for the rents.

BARRETT SAID the suit will not be dismissed because it also seeks reimbursement for any additional expenses incurred by the state.

Because the moving was not completed by June 1, the state will have to pay the moving firm, Park Homes, more than the $124,259 set in the original contract.

Barrett said the case was assigned to Cook County Circuit Court Judge Joseph M. Wosik, but Brotman's attorneys Thursday asked for a change in judges and the case was reassigned to Circuit Court Judge Walter P. Dahl who set a hearing for June 15.

Also in court Thursday, Barrett filed a motion requesting a "mandatory injunction" which would force Brotman to make the spaces immediately available.

Sixty-nine mobile homes already have been moved from the Elk Grove Park. The Division of Water Resources, Dept. of Transportation, entered into a contract with Brotman in April 1975 for 100 spaces in Oasis Park.

Dist. 54 denies free busing to Nerge

Free busing for children living in two Schaumburg subdivisions was denied Thursday night by the Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 Board of Education.

The board voted 4 to 2 to make alternate safety provisions other than busing for children in the Sunset Hills and Meadow Knolls subdivisions despite protests by parents that busing is the only safe way for their children to attend Nerge School in September.

About 200 children in the two areas will attend Nerge in September. The subdivisions are less than 1.5 miles from the school and do not qualify for free busing.

THE BOARD, however, is authorized to provide free busing to areas where it is considered a safety hazard for children to walk to school.

The board last week informally voted 5 to 2 in a committee meeting to recommend to the board that free busing be provided. Board Pres. Arlene Czajkowski and board member Elizabeth Carpenter said Thursday they had voted last week to recommend free busing be approved only to bring the issue to the board.

A motion made by board member Sherry Reynolds to provide free busing died for lack of a second. The board then voted 4 to 2 to approve an administration recommendation that the children be bused to Nerge until a sidewalk can be built on Nerge Road between Blackhawk Drive and Monterey Avenue. A crossing guard would be stationed at Nerge Road.

Ms. Reynolds and Dennis Watts voted against the sidewalk because they favored busing the children.

EDWARD BLICKHAIN, spokesman for the Meadow Knolls parents, said, "We have had our suspicions confirmed that the administration is in fact a dictatorship by the superintendent and that the board of education does not run the administration but the administration runs the board of education."

"We refuse to sacrifice even one of our children's lives in an attempt to cross Nerge Road. Therefore, further action will be taken," he said. He did not elaborate.

Parents said that their children would have to walk along heavily traveled Nerge Road, which is lined by deep ditches and has no sidewalk, to get to school. They also said the streets within their subdivisions are narrow, have no sidewalks or shoulders and are lined by ditches.

Busse Woods youth hangout, ranger charges

by WANDALYN RICE

The Ned Brown Forest Preserve has apparently replaced other Northwest suburban preserves as the headquarters for bands of rowdy young persons, the chief of the forest preserve rangers said Wednesday.

Ranger Chief Richard Sloan said other area forest preserves, including past trouble spots in Deer Grove, Palatine Township, and Beck Lake, Northfield Township, have been relatively trouble free this spring.

"We have no problems this year at Deer Grove," Sloan said. "We cleaned that up and we'll clean Busse Woods up too." Busse Woods is in Ned Brown Forest Preserve, Elk Grove Township.

Sloan said the forest ranger patrols have been beefed up in Busse Woods and the rangers' special task force which deals with special problems also has been sent to the area.

ON MONDAY, rangers made about a dozen arrests for offenses ranging from possession of marijuana or other dangerous drugs to obstructing police, Sloan said.

"The undesirables come from all over," Sloan said. "Some come from Libertyville or as far away as Indiana and others come from Elk Grove Village."

Sloan said he doesn't know why Busse Woods should have more problems this year than other forest preserves.

"The word just seems to get around that that's where to go," he said. Sloan also said the forest preserve and all others in the county are being closed at dusk as part of a new policy being tried this year. Early closings at Ned Brown are not a result of the trouble there, he said.

He said he will welcome aid from other law enforcement agencies and believes the problems at Busse Woods will clear up soon.

"We're concentrating on this area and we're making arrests like you wouldn't believe," he said.

Sloan said he appreciates efforts by village officials in Elk Grove Village and Schaumburg to set up a June 15 meeting to discuss law enforcement in the Busse Woods part of the preserve.

Super dog saves girl, 13, in home fire

The early hours of Tuesday morning produced nothing very extraordinary for the Carlson family of Carpenter Street in Palatine. Allan Carlson Sr. left for work. His wife, Donna, trudged around their house, making sure that Dan, Ruthanne and Allan Jr. would find their respective schools.

Chestnut, the family's 1-year-old golden retriever, who would be a heroine later that morning, kept herself busy by acting out a dog's life.

Then it all began to fall apart.

ON MOST WEEKDAYS, 13-year-old Nancy Carlson also leaves for school. But not Tuesday morning. In fact, she had not been to school for a week.

Nancy underwent nose surgery last week. By Tuesday morning, her nose remained painful and it still bled.

She placed cotton inside her nose, took some pain relieving tablets and began to rest on her parents' bed.

Later that morning, Nancy's mother left home to shop for groceries.

"I thought she would be sleeping," Donna said of Nancy.

But while she rested, Nancy decided to cook French fries for her younger brother, Allan Jr., 10, who soon would come home for lunch.

NANCY WENT to the kitchen, placed grease in a pan, turned on

Today

Mike Klein's people

the electric range . . . and proceeded back to bed.

The next thing she remembers, Chestnut, the family's golden retriever, had jumped onto the bed and began to bark loudly.

"Then I heard a big boom," Nancy said. "I thought it was a door slamming. Chestnut kept going to the (bedroom) door and coming back, telling me to follow her.

"She walked down the hall, and when I went to the door, there was smoke everywhere," said Nancy, who attends Palatine Hills Junior High School.

The kitchen was ablaze. Nancy ran to a neighbor's house. They called the Palatine Fire Dept.

WHEN DONNA finally arrived home, she discovered the commotion of policemen and firemen outside her house.

"It was horrifying, thinking that your daughter is in there sleeping," Donna said. When she was a child, Donna had lost two cousins in a fire.

But Nancy was outside, watching firemen battle the kitchen blaze.

"It was so great to hug her, I just can't tell you," Donna said.

When they finally walked back inside, the telephone rang. A fireman answered and said, "This is the fireman." But the person hung up.

A few minutes passed. The phone rang again. Donna answered. It was a nurse from Palatine High School. She said that 15-year-old Ruthanne had a stomach ache.

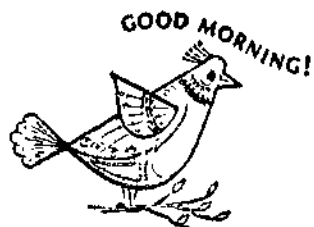

THE NURSE wondered whether Donna could come to the high school and get her daughter.

"I told her, 'I can't come now. We're putting out a fire in my house,'" Donna said.

The nurse must have thought that was funny. Donna said the nurse began to laugh very hard.

Along the way, Donna called her husband, Allan, who works in Elk Grove Village. She told him the house had begun to burn.

SCHAUMBURG FIREFIGHTERS hose down the smoldering ruins of an empty barn that caught fire at 9 p.m. Thursday. Three units responded to the blaze, which destroyed the structure, about 100 years old, near Golf and Roselle roads in Schaumburg.

2nd blaze near Campanelli center

Fire destroys 100-yr.-old barn

Schaumburg firefighters Thursday battled two fires which broke out at opposite ends of the village shortly after 9 p.m.

A fire in a barn, believed to be more than 100 years old, behind Barnaby's Restaurant, 134 W. Golf Rd., Schaumburg, destroyed the empty, wood-framed building. Three units had the blaze under control within 30 minutes, firemen said.

The cause of the fire is under investigation.

A chemical fire in a pump house next to the swimming pool at the Campanelli Recreation Center, Wise Road and Cranbrook Lane, Schaumburg, was reported at 9:30 p.m.

Firefighters extinguished the fire, which reportedly broke out in containers of granular hydrogen chloride, a chemical used in the pool. Firefighters said the recreation center, located in a new subdivision in southern Schaumburg, was not damaged.

Firemen theorized moisture seeped into the chemicals, generating heat that started the fire. Three units responded to the blaze, which extinguished itself after firemen ventilated the pump room.

No injuries were reported in the two fires.

Hays to quit only one of two posts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Trying to weather the storm, Rep. Wayne Hays announced Thursday he will resign only the lesser of his two committee chairmanships despite pressure to quit both because of the Elizabeth Ray sex scandal.

Meeting critics less than halfway, the Ohio Democrat agreed to have "a temporary chairman" replace him on the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee "until the charge against me has been resolved."

But he ignored high-level requests to quit his more important post as head of the House Administration Committee and said he would discuss with that panel "any questions concerning my role as chairman" — obviously sure of majority support there.

Later, looking stooped and haggard, Hays read his statement before television cameras at a podium normally reserved for another committee chairman. He walked with his head down and ignored reporters' questions.

Free busing denied Nerge School kids

Free busing for children living in two Schaumburg subdivisions was denied Thursday night by the Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 Board of Education.

'Salesman' nabbed for pot possession

A magazine subscription salesman knocked on one door too many in Schaumburg Wednesday, and he now faces a charge of marijuana possession, police reported.

Police said Noel D. Skrenes, 19, Sun Prairie, Wis., was reported Wednesday afternoon by a resident at the Jamestown Apartments, 1000 Knollwood, when Skrenes allegedly went door-to-door trying to sell magazine subscriptions.

Skrenes reportedly had no village solicitors' permit when a patrolman stopped him.

When police searched Skrenes, a plastic bag, suspected to be filled with marijuana was found, reports said.

Police charged Skrenes with marijuana possession and soliciting without a permit. He was released on $1,000 bond and ordered to appeal June 23 in the Schaumburg branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15

Hunting Ridge School's safety patrol boys will be treated to a picnic by the school's safety committee from 3:30 to 5 p.m. Monday. In case of rain the picnic will be scheduled for Wednesday.

Schaumburg Township Dist. 54

A picnic-country fair will be held from noon to 5 p.m. Sunday at Hale School, 1300 W. Wise Rd., Schaumburg. The fair is being held in celebration of the Bicentennial and will honor the school's namesake, Nathan Hale, whose 221st birthday is Sunday.

Student activities will be displayed in booths and in the school gym which will be turned into a museum. Demonstrations of candlemaking, corn husking and taffy pulling will go on all afternoon.

A rocket blast off and parade will start off the fair. Opening ceremonies will include the presentation of a time capsule made by the sixth grade. A mural, also made by the sixth grade, will be given to Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 Supt. Wayne Schaible to be used in the administration center. A bust of Nathan Hale, made by parent Lynn Habermeyer, will be unveiled.

At 12:45 there will be a Bicentennial salute by the fifth grade chorus directed by teacher Jane Burton. First graders will perform Indian ceremonial dancing at 1:15 p.m. and contests and the auction of pies, cakes, cookies, candy, fudge, and other goods will be held from 1 to 2 p.m.

Games will be held from 2 to 3 p.m. Kindergarten students will present square dancing at 2:15 and 3 p.m. and first graders will perform ethnic dances at 2:30 p.m. Senior citizens will take the spotlight at 3:30 with a square dance.

A play on Nathan Hale will be performed by second graders at 4 p.m. and at 4:15 there will be a choral reading by fourth graders. Closing ceremonies will be held at 5 p.m.

High School Dist. 211

Doris Haack, faculty advisor of Conant High School's student council, was one of five honored recently by the Illinois Assn. of School Councils at its convention in Chicago.

The "Award of Commendation" was given for her work as student council advisor at Conant for the past four years. Before coming to Conant, she held similar positions at Crown High School, Carpentersville, and the Dundee Middle School.

Palatine Hills Junior High School

Commencement ceremonies for eighth grade students at Palatine Hills Junior High School will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the school, 1100 N. Smith Rd., Palatine.

Plum Grove Junior High School

Commencement exercises for Plum Grove Junior High School students will begin at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at William Fremd High School, 1000 S. Quentin Rd., Palatine.

Sandburg Junior High School

Sandburg Junior High School will graduate 369 eighth-grade students at commencement ceremonies at 8 p.m. Thursday in the school gym, 2600 Martin Ln., Rolling Meadows. Everett Charlier, a member of the Palatine Township Dist. 15 Board of Education, will address the graduates and award the diplomas.

Winston Park Junior High School

Winston Park Junior High School eighth graders will attend graduation ceremonies at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at Palatine High School, 150 E. Wood St., Palatine.

Swimming pool signup to get under way June 11

Registration to use the Hoffman Estates Park District Community Swimming Pool on Grand Canyon Boulevard will be conducted June 11 and 12 at the administration office, 650 W. Higgins Rd.

Residents whose last names begin with A to M should register from 6 to 7:30 p.m., June 11 and 1 to 2:30 p.m. June 12. Residents with last names N to Z should register from 7:30 to 9 p.m., June 11 and 2:30 to 4 p.m., June 12.

The pool, heated for early morning and late evening swimmers, will be open from 1 to 5 p.m. and 6 to 9 p.m. daily beginning June 12.

Weekday rates are $1 for children under 18 and $1.50 for adults. Weekend rates are $1.50 for children and $2 for adults. Children 8 years old and under must be accompanied by an adult.

Season passes are $29 for families and $10 for individuals. Each family member 5 years old or older must have an identification card costing 50 cents.

Children 5 and older may enroll in park district swimming lessons.

Special classes in senior life-saving, diving, and synchronized swimming are offered. Adult lessons will be scheduled if interest is shown. Free bus transportation will be provided by the park district five days a week, weather permitting.

Further information on the pool or programs may be obtained by contacting the park district at 885-7500.

Officials to meet Saturday on swine flu inoculations

A proposed inoculation program against swine flu in Palatine Township will be discussed at 9:30 a.m. Saturday when representatives from Cook County and area village governments and hospitals meet for the first planning session of Task Force '76.

The task force was formed last month at the suggestion of auditor Liston Pennington to plan a possible program for vaccinating township residents. Palatine was the first township in Cook County to begin such plans.

Frank Lochner, an epidemiologist from the Cook County Health Dept., will attend the meeting at township hall, 37 N. Plum Grove Rd.

CECIL KISTLER and Tom Bierman from the Palatine Health Dept. and Mike Raimondi, director of Northwest Opportunity Center, also will attend.

Representatives from Hoffman Estates, Rolling Meadows, Schaumburg, Inverness, Palatine Township Dist. 15, High School Dist. 211, the Palatine Nurses Club, Alexian Brothers Hospital and Northwest Community Hospital also have accepted invitations to the meeting.

The Barrington Area Council of Governments (BACOG), of which Inverness is a member, has formed a group similar to the township's Task Force '76.

Congress has appropriated $135 million for a nationwide inoculation program against the virus after several cases of a swine-like virus were reported in February at Ft. Dix, N.J.

Vaccination of high-risk, elderly and chronically ill persons had been scheduled for late July in various parts of the country. Those vaccinations will be delayed four to six weeks because one of four drug companies producing the vaccine used the wrong virus strain.

Local scene

Blood drive June 28

Schaumburg will have a community blood drive from 4 to 9 p.m. June 28 at the Church of the Holy Spirit, Bode Road east of Springguth Road.

Village residents blood needs are fully insured under the Red Cross Community Blood Replacement program provided at least 4 per cent of the population donates blood annually.

Persons 17 and older who are in good health are eligible to become donors.

Donor appointments for the blood drive can be made by calling Schaumburg Health Dept., 894-4500, between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays.

Parks offer sailing class

Sailing classes will be offered next week by the Hoffman Estates Park District.

Deadline for registration is Saturday at the administrative building, 650 W. Higgins Rd.

The program consists of two dry-land classes Tuesday and Thursday with six sailing lessons at Highpoint Lake, on Ash Road between Golf and Higgins roads.

Beginning classes will cover fundamentals of sailing including basic points, single-handed operations of safety.

Fee is $30. More information may be obtained at the district office, 885-7500.

Jaycees plan carnival

Schaumburg Jaycees annual carnival will be June 17-20 at Town Square Shopping Center, Roselle and Schaumburg roads.

Rides, games and refreshments will be provided at reasonable prices by Jaycee vendors and the chapter will raffle a color TV set and stereo component kit.

Proceeds from the carnival will be used to support community projects which include Jaycee Pet Park, an animal refuge at the shopping center; visits from Santa Claus; food baskets for the needy; and numerous other club activities.

Jury may decide Clavey fate today

by DAN BARREIRO

The jury in the trial of former Lake County Sheriff Orville (Pat) Clavey will continue its deliberation today following the completion Thursday of final prosecution and defense arguments in federal court.

The jury began deliberation Thursday morning in U.S. District Court in Chicago, and some court observers believe a verdict might be reached today.

Clavey is being tried in Chicago on four counts of perjury, three counts of tax evasion and one count of extortion.

DEFENSE ATTORNEY George Collins continued his attack of those charges Thursday, telling the jury of six men and six women "there is a reasonable doubt" of Clavey's guilt.

He again referred to testimony of prosecution witnesses Jerome Schuetz, former Lake County chief deputy, and Martin DeFoor, owner of the Cheestah II bar in Half Day. Both received immunity from criminal prosecution for their testimony against Clavey.

"Clavey is what Schuetz and DeFoor have to have to get their pass (immunity)," Collins said. "They (the prosecution) gave them the pass of the century and the deal of the age."

COLLINS SAID DeFoor and Schuetz knew the prosecution wanted to hear damaging testimony against Clavey, and that they obliged by concocting a story implicating Clavey.

U.S. Assistant District Atty. James Burns rebuffed Collins' closing statement. Burns said the inference from the argument was that the prosecution conspired with witnesses to convict Clavey.

"I find it repugnant to my sense of justice," Burns said. Referring to Collins' statement that Schuetz and DeFoor had to "point the finger" at Clavey, Burns said, "The question is 'was it a truthful finger?'"

Family to move if zoners rule against farm animals

board hearing.

Members of the zoning board voted to recommend the village board deny Shafer's request to keep three rabbits, eight chickens and four ducks on their 1.5-acre lot at 322 N. Pleasant Dr.

THE SHAFER ANIMALS, and a pair of Shetland ponies kept by the Howard Isaacson family, also residents of Pleasant Drive, were brought to the attention of village officials in February when other neighbors asked permission to keep nondomestic animals.

The requests were denied because of a 1971 village ordinance which prohibits the harboring or raising of animals and fowl.

When advised by the health department they were in violation of the ordinance, both families refused to get rid of their pets and questioned whether the village had the power to enforce the ordinance.

Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel reviewed the ordinance and suggested special-use requests could be heard by the zoning board.

THE $50 HEARING fees were waived for the Shafers and the Isaacsons. The zoning board will hear the Isaacsons' case Wednesday.

The Shafers said they moved to Schaumburg in 1973 because of the animals their son planned to raise as a scout project. They said they were told by a real estate agent the village would allow them to keep the animals.

Mrs. Shafer said she has grown to love the pets and her family depends on the chickens for the eggs they lay daily.

Although the Shafers are the third owners of the property, they say an original deed conveyed by the farmer who owned the tract allows subsequent occupants to keep "any animals but cattle."

ZONING BOARD MEMBERS told the Shafers the farmer's covenant was voided when the property was annexed to the village.

The zoning board refused to agree on a proposal by member Wayne Silva who called for the Shafers to be given five years to get rid of the animals.

Silva said he felt the limit would probably cover the lifespan of the fowl, which he would not allow the Shafers to replace.

"At that time the family would have had adequate time to either change its lifestyle or make plans to move," Silva said.

Board Chairman Russell Parker said a time limit would serve only to prolong the Shafers' ultimate decision.

"I don't know if it is possible for them to make a decision today let alone five years from now. I favor having them make their decision now," Parker said.

BOARD MEMBER Martin Coniglio said "the simple fact Mrs. Shafer loves animals doesn't mean she can have them."

Coniglio said he loves animals "and fresh eggs. I eat two of them every morning but that doesn't mean the village must allow me to keep chickens."

The Shafers said they hold little hope the village board will overturn the zoning recommendation.

Bridge, new staff OK'd by parks

A walk bridge for Highpoint Park and a new recreation staff position have been tentatively approved as 1977 projects by the Hoffman Estates Park Board.

The bridge and staff addition are part of several recommended objectives for the park district's 1977-78 year.

Park Director Allen Binder said the bridge would span a small channel which connects the retention lake at Highpoint Park on Ash Road with an overflow lake.

The bridge will allow easier access to the park for residents living north of Highpoint Lake. Residents now must walk around the lake to reach the park area.

The additional staff position probably will be an assistant to Recreation Supt. Edward Haag, Binder said. The position is needed to keep up with the growing number of duties in community recreation, he added.

Park Board Pres. George Rush said the objectives are to be used as flexible guidelines in evaluating the progress of the park district.

Super dog saves girl, 13, in home fire

The early hours of Tuesday morning produced nothing very extraordinary for the Carlson family of Carpenter Street in Palatine. Allan Carlson Sr. left for work. His wife, Donna, trudged around their house, making sure that Dan, Ruthanne and Allan Jr. would find their respective schools.

Chestnut, the family's 1-year-old golden retriever, who would be a heroine later that morning, kept herself busy by acting out a dog's life.

Then it all began to fall apart.

ON MOST WEEKDAYS, 13-year-old Nancy Carlson also leaves for school. But not Tuesday morning. In fact, she had not been to school for a week.

Nancy underwent nose surgery last week. By Tuesday morning, her nose remained painful and it still bled.

She placed cotton inside her nose, took some pain relieving tablets and began to rest on her parents' bed.

Later that morning, Nancy's mother left home to shop for groceries.

"I thought she would be sleeping," Donna said of Nancy.

But while she rested, Nancy decided to cook French fries for her younger brother, Allan Jr., 10, who soon would come home for lunch.

NANCY WENT to the kitchen, placed grease in a pan, turned on the electric range . . . and proceeded back to bed.

The next thing she remembers, Chestnut, the family's golden retriever, had jumped onto the bed and began to bark loudly.

"Then I heard a big boom," Nancy said. "I thought it was a door slamming. Chestnut kept going to the (bedroom) door and coming back, telling me to follow her.

"She walked down the hall, and when I went to the door, there was smoke everywhere," said Nancy, who attends Palatine Hills Junior High School.

The kitchen was ablaze. Nancy ran to a neighbor's house. They called the Palatine Fire Dept.

WHEN DONNA finally arrived home, she discovered the commotion of policemen and firemen outside her house.

"It was horrifying, thinking that your daughter is in there sleeping," Donna said. When she was a child, Donna had lost two cousins in a fire.

But Nancy was outside, watching firemen battle the kitchen blaze.

"It was so great to hug her, I just can't tell you," Donna said.

When they finally walked back inside, the telephone rang. A fireman answered and said, "This is the fireman." But the person hung up.

A few minutes passed. The phone rang again. Donna answered. It was a nurse from Palatine High School. She said that 15-year-old Ruthanne had a stomach ache.

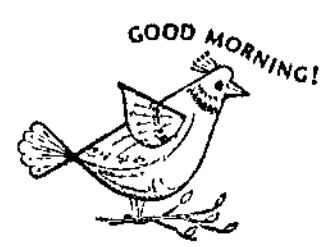

THE NURSE wondered whether Donna could come to the high school and get her daughter.

"I told her, 'I can't come now. We're putting out a fire in my house,'" Donna said.

The nurse must have thought that was funny. Donna said the nurse began to laugh very hard.

Along the way, Donna called her husband, Allan, who works in Elk Grove Village. She told him the house had begun to burn.

Ruling in Downstate case

Use of school cash in unit role illegal

by DOROTHY OLIVER

Funds spent by High School Dist. 214 and Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 in the unit district controversy may have been spent illegally, according to an opinion from Illinois Atty. Gen. William J. Scott.

"It is my opinion that an Illinois school board may not expend school district funds to promote or oppose the formation of a unit school district," Scott stated in an opinion requested by the Vermilion County State's Attorney in connection with a unit school district controversy there.

"Were such a power granted to a school board, questions might be raised as to its validity under . . . the Illinois Constitution of 1970 which requires that public funds be used only for public purposes," the opinion states.

THE SCOTT opinion states school districts exercise "limited governmental powers" as set forth in the school code and that school districts "have no inherent powers" beyond that.

Scott said after reviewing the powers of a school board set forth in the school code "I find nothing in these provisions authorizing school boards to expend district funds . . . to oppose or promote a unit district.

Dist. 59 spent $8,500 to hire a consultant to update information on the impact of a unit school district in the Dist. 59 area. The district spent between $18,000 and $20,000 in 1973 for the original unit study which was used as a basis for the review this year.

Dist. 59 also has paid for the printing of the unit district citizens' study committee reports and authorized the administration to assist in the organization of the committee.

DIST. 59 RETAINED the law firm of Reid, Ochsenschlager, Murphy and Hupp for legal advice on the procedures of bringing the unit district question to the voters in a referendum. The district has not approved payments to the law firm, said Leah Cummins, coordinator of community relations for Dist. 59, but she said the attorneys have started working with district officials and "the meter is running."

Dist. 214 also has retained a law firm, Faywell, James and Brooks, for legal advice on the unit district. Robert Weber, associate superintendent for business services, said the board has paid the firm $6,525.

Dist. 214 also hired a court reporter to make transcripts of all unit district study committee meetings, Weber said. Copies of the transcripts were given to the committee and are being used by Dist. 214 officials "to keep us informed," Weber said.

In March, the district also published a special edition of "Our Schools Are People" newsletter to the community urging residents "to join the opposition to the formation of a unit district in the area served by Dist. 59." The newsletters, written as a letter from former Board Pres. Gene Artemenko, states that the Dist. 214 board "passed a resolution expressing unanimous opposition" to the Dist. 59 unit district, which would separate Elk Grove and Forest View high schools from Dist. 214 and place the control of elementary and high schools under one board and administration.

MRS. CUMMINS and Weber each questioned whether the tax dollars spent by their districts on the unit study are illegal.

Mrs. Cummins said the Dist. 59 board has not formally voted to support or promote the unit district concept, and although some board members have publically stated they favor bringing the question to the voters in a referendum, they have not endorsed it.

"The objective of the board has been to let the voters decide," she said.

Weber said, "It's a matter of interpretation" whether money spent by Dist. 214 has been to oppose the unit district or "to keep us informed as to what is happening."

HE SAID THE law firm was hired "to advise us as to the legalities" of the procedures used to form a unit district.

Richard Doyle, state's attorney for Vermilion County, who requested the Scott opinion, said the question on the legality of the expenditures was raised "when one district (in the county) wanted to spend money in opposition to a unit district consolidation in another district. They wanted to fund legal moves to stop the consolidation."

He said Scott's opinion agrees with his own interpretation of what is legal, and that "school districts can't spend taxpayers' money to promote their ideas on various issues." He said the legal role of the school district is to "educate and inform — not to influence."

Hays to quit only one of two posts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Trying to weather the storm, Rep. Wayne Hays announced Thursday he will resign only the lesser of his two committee chairmanships despite pressure to quit both because of the Elizabeth Ray sex scandal.

Meeting critics less than halfway, the Ohio Democrat agreed to have "a temporary chairman" replace him on the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee "until the charge against me has been resolved."

But he ignored high-level requests to quit his more important post as head of the House Administration Committee and said he would discuss with that panel "any questions concerning my role as chairman" — obviously sure of majority support there.

Later, looking stooped and haggard, Hays read his statement before television cameras at a podium normally reserved for another committee chairman. He walked with his head down and ignored reporters' questions.

The House Ethics Committee, meantime, launched its investigation of Miss Ray's charge that Hays put her on the Administration Committee payroll at $14,000 a year to serve as his mistress. Hays admits they had a long affair before his April marriage, but denies he hired her for that purpose.

Chairman John Flynt, D-Ga., said

the panel "definitely" expected to discuss more names than those of Hays and Miss Ray. It was not clear whether

Hunting Ridge School's safety patrol boys will be treated to a picnic by the school's safety committee from 3:30 to 5 p.m. Monday. In case of rain the picnic will be scheduled for Wednesday.

Schaumburg Township Dist. 54

A picnic-country fair will be held from noon to 5 p.m. Sunday at Hale School, 1300 W. Wise Rd., Schaumburg.

The fair is being held in celebration of the Bicentennial and will honor the school's namesake, Nathan Hale, whose 221st birthday is Sunday.

Student activities will be displayed in booths and in the school gym which will be turned into a museum. Demonstrations of candlemaking, corn husking and taffy pulling will go on all afternoon.

A rocket blast off and parade will start off the fair. Opening ceremonies will include the presentation of a time capsule made by the sixth grade. A mural, also made by the sixth grade, will be given to Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 Supt. Wayne Schaible to be used in the administration center. A bust of Nathan Hale, made by parent Lynn Habermeler, will be unveiled.

At 12:45 there will be a Bicentennial salute by the fifth grade chorus directed by teacher Jane Burton. First graders will perform Indian ceremonial dancing at 1:15 p.m. and contests and the auction of pies, cakes, cookies, candy, fudge, and other goods will be held from 1 to 2 p.m.

Games will be held from 2 to 3 p.m. Kindergarten students will present square dancing at 2:15 and 3 p.m. and first graders will perform ethnic dances at 2:30 p.m. Senior citizens will take the spotlight at 3:30 with a square dance.

A play on Nathan Hale will be performed by second graders at 4 p.m. and at 4:15 there will be a choral reading by fourth graders. Closing ceremonies will be held at 5 p.m.

High School Dist. 211

Doris Haack, faculty advisor of Conant High School's student council, was one of five honored recently by the Illinois Assn. of School Councils at its convention in Chicago.

The "Award of Commendation" was given for her work as student council advisor at Conant for the past four years. Before coming to Conant, she held similar positions at Crown High School, Carpentersville, and the Dundee Middle School.

Palatine Hills Junior High School

Commencement ceremonies for eighth grade students at Palatine Hills Junior High School will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the school, 1100 N. Smith Rd., Palatine.

Plum Grove Junior High School

Sandburg Junior High School

Sandburg Junior High School will graduate 389 eighth-grade students at commencement ceremonies at 8 p.m. Thursday in the school gym, 2600 Martin Ln., Rolling Meadows. Everett Charlier, a member of the Palatine Township Dist. 15 Board of Education, will address the graduates and award the diplomas.

Winston Park Junior High School

Winston Park Junior High School eighth graders will attend graduation ceremonies at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at Palatine High School, 150 E. Wood St., Palatine.

To reduce flooding in area

Expand Wilke basin: consultant

An expansion of the $8 million second Wilke-Kirchoff water retention basin to handle additional run-off water from 115 acres east of the proposed project has been recommended by Stanley Consultants of Chicago.

It is estimated it will cost $300,000 to increase the size of the basin, which will be built immediately east of the existing retention basin between Kirchoff and Central roads, east of Wilke Road.

The new recommendation from Stanley Consultants was presented Tuesday to the Citizens Action Committee Against Flooding. The proposal will be reviewed by the Arlington Heights Village Board Monday.

Stanley Consultants recommended the expansion of the plans for the second basin over two alternatives: the construction of a diversionary ditch between the two basins, or delay in expansion of the second basin until the area east of the basins is developed, when run-off will greatly increase.

BENNETT D. REISCHAUER of Stanley Consultants advised against the diversionary ditch approach because the existing basin may not be able to handle the extra run-off water. "It was designed under less stringent design criteria," he said.

Reischauer also recommended against waiting to expand the new basin until later. "It is less expensive to design and construct the additional capacity now," he said.

Digging the second basin approximately 30 feet deep, rather than 20 feet deep, should also help dry up the east side of the existing basin where the park district has its baseball diamonds, Reischauer said.

Another reason for expanding the capacity of the second basin is the proposed widening of Wilke Road and the new storm sewer system along the road, which will undoubtedly have its outlet to the existing basin, he said.

"Some additional drainage from the Arlington Park race track parking area will probably be collected in the new Wilke Road sewer, also," Reischauer said.

Family to move if zoners rule against farm animals

by PAT GERLACH

Oh, give us a home
Where the bunnies can roam
And the ducks and the chickens can lay
Where never is heard
A prohibitive word
From the pesty officials each day.

The Floyd Shafers will move from Schaumburg if village officials uphold a zoning board recommendation to deny the family a special-use permit to keep farm animals their son has raised.

"We'll sell and move. I'm not going to get rid of Brandy and Quacker or Henny Penny," a determined Mrs. Shafer said after Wednesday's zoning board hearing.

Members of the zoning board voted to recommend the village board deny Shafer's request to keep three rabbits, eight chickens and four ducks on their

1.5-acre lot at 322 N. Pleasant Dr.

THE SHAFER ANIMALS, and a pair of Shetland ponies kept by the Howard Isaacson family, also residents of Pleasant Drive, were brought to the attention of village officials in February when other neighbors asked permission to keep nondomestic animals.

The requests were denied because of a 1971 village ordinance which prohibits the harboring or raising of animals and fowl.

When advised by the health department they were in violation of the ordinance, both families refused to get rid of their pets and questioned whether the village had the power to enforce the ordinance.

Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel reviewed the ordinance and suggested special-use requests could be heard by the zoning board.

THE $50 HEARING fees were waived for the Shafers and the Isaacsons. The zoning board will hear the Isaacsons' case Wednesday.

The Shafers said they moved to Schaumburg in 1973 because of the animals their son planned to raise as a scout project. They said they were told by a real estate agent the village would allow them to keep the animals.

Mrs. Shafer said she has grown to love the pets and her family depends on the chickens for the eggs they lay daily.

Although the Shafers are the third owners of the property, they say an original deed conveyed by the farmer who owned the tract allows subsequent occupants to keep "any animals but cattle."

ZONING BOARD MEMBERS told the Shafers the farmer's covenant was voided when the property was annexed to the village.

The zoning board refused to agree on a proposal by member Wayne Silva who called for the Shafers to be given five years to get rid of the animals.

Silva said he felt the limit would probably cover the lifespan of the fowl, which he would not allow the Shafers to replace.

"At that time the family would have had adequate time to either change its lifestyle or make plans to move," Silva said.

Board Chairman Russell Parker said a time limit would serve only to prolong the Shafers' ultimate decision.

"I don't know if it is possible for them to make a decision today let alone five years from now. I favor having them make their decision now," Parker said.

BOARD MEMBER Martin Coniglio said "the simple fact Mrs. Shafer loves animals doesn't mean she can have them."

Coniglio said he loves animals "and fresh eggs. I eat two of them every morning but that doesn't mean the village must allow me to keep chickens."

The Shafers said they hold little hope the village board will overturn the zoning recommendation.

"I'm calling the real estate people in the morning. The only place we can go to keep our pets is Wisconsin," Mrs. Shafer said.

Parade, fair, fireworks mark July 4 celebration

Some 60 marching units, floats and cars will participate in Rolling Meadows' July 4 celebration.

The parade will start the city's observance of the Bicentennial which will include an afternoon of activities in Kimball Hill Park capped with an evening fireworks display.

Karen Treiber of the July 4 committee said plaques in junior, senior and commercial divisions will be awarded for floats judged the best in the parade.

AMERICAN LEGION Post 1251 also will sponsor a bicycle decorating contest for cyclists participating in the parade.

The parade, starting at 1 p.m., will begin at Rolling Meadows High School and travel north on Jay Lane to Grouse Lane, west to Meadow Drive, north to Kirchoff Road and west to the west entrance of the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center.

A reviewing stand will be located at the shopping center. Prizes for winning parade units will be awarded there.

Afternoon activities will start at about 2 p.m. in the park. They will include water fights sponsored by the fire department; games sponsored by the park district; free pony rides for children sponsored by the Jayceettes, an old-fashioned county fair featuring bake-offs, crafts, sewing and a parade of oldtime fashions, and a drum and bugle corps competition tentatively scheduled for 6 p.m.

CONCESSIONS SPONSORED by civic organizations will be open throughout the afternoon. Mrs. Treiber added proceeds from sales of the baked items at the county fair have been pledged to the city's Bicentennial bandshell project.

The city's Bicentennial committee hopes to build a bandshell in Kimball Hill Park as a commemorative project.

A fireworks display subsidized by the Rolling Meadows Jaycees will take place in the park to end the day's activities.

Mrs. Treiber said the July 4 committee will meet Monday at 8 p.m. in the city hall, 3600 Kirchoff Rd., to continue with plans for the day. The public is invited to attend.

In third questionnaire

50 to rank priorities of village planning goals

A questionnaire asking respondents to rank a list of planning goals and objectives for Palatine will be sent to about 50 village officials later this month.

The questionnaire, the final in a series of three, is being prepared by Barton-Aschman Associates, Evanston, which has been working for the past year on updating the village master plan. The questionnaire will be sent to officials who attended a recent planning session, which included trustees, members of the plan commission and board members of school districts and the Palatine Park District.

Leslie Pollock, senior associate with Barton-Aschman, said the questionnaire will state certain goals the planning firm drafted based on discussions from the planning session and previous questionnaires.

POLLOCK SAID respondents will be asked if the goals are desirable and in what priority they should be listed.

From this final questionnaire, Pollock said planners will prepare a draft of goals and objectives for the village to follow in future planning. The draft should be ready to present to the village board late in July, he said.

"The statement of objectives will have to be adopted by the board after a public hearing," Pollock said. When the final draft is adopted, the village will have a statement of direction from which to work, he said.

The planning firm's first questionnaire was sent to all residents in the village and asked for opinions on low- and moderate-income housing, taxes, transportation and downtown redevelopment as well as information on income levels, number of persons per household and employment status.

THE FOLLOW-UP questionnaire, which was drafted based on responses from the first survey, sought information about government service, housing, growth impact, planning and annexation, environmental resources, roads, transportation and public utilities.

The master-plan updating is being financed with a $15,000 grant from the Cook County Community Development Program.

Steve Lenet, village planner, said he expects the work to be completed by September.

14 more parking spaces sought at new library

Officials of the Palatine Public Library are trying to speed up installation of 14 more parking stalls at the new library to ease parking problems at the facility.

The library board's building committee this week directed board member Robert Dix to meet with Winn Davidson, president of the Bank of Palatine and developer of the library site at Northwest Highway and Plum Grove Road, to work on the problem. The bank is under construction and the parking area, which is to be shared by the library and the bank, is scheduled to be completed in conjunction with the bank.

The library, which was completed last fall, has only a gravel lot with space for about two dozen cars. Traffic congestion at the library because of the parking situation has become more of a problem as summer library use increases.

TEMPORARY ADDITIONAL parking for library patrons has been made available at St. Theresa's Church parking lot, 445 N. Benton St. across the street from the library, 500 N. Benton St.

Dix said Thursday he had not talked to Davidson, but was meeting with representatives of the architectural firm which built the library, Wendt, Cedarholm and Tipples, to discuss the parking situation.

The library board is seeking 14 additional spaces near Northwest Highway on the north end of the library in order to meet requirements of the planned unit development ordinance under which construction of the bank-library complex was approved.

All library parking currently is located to the south and rear of the library.

Davidson was unavailable for comment Thursday.

DAVIDSON HAS said the bank will be completed in July. In addition to the new bank, construction of a dozen retail stores was scheduled to start this month. The bank-retail complex will be called the Bank of Palatine Plaza.

The bank currently has temporary offices at 291 N. Northwest Hwy.

The entire complex is scheduled to be completed by Dec. 31.

Recycler open Saturday

The Palatine Recycling Center, Northwest Highway and Smith Street, will be open Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The center accepts paper tied in bundles or placed in brown paper bags, cans and bottles with labels removed.

No earth, processed from sludge by the Metropolitan Sanitary District, also will be available at the center. The fertilizer is free but persons must provide their own containers.

The Palatine Garden Club also will have a sign-up sheet at the center for persons who wish to enter the Bicentennial garden contest.

Officials to meet on flu program

A proposed inoculation program against swine flu in Palatine Township will be discussed at 9:30 a.m. Saturday when representatives from Cook County and area village governments and hospitals meet for the first planning session of Task Force '76.

The task force was formed last month at the suggestion of auditor Liston Pennington to plan a possible program for vaccinating township residents. Palatine was the first township in Cook County to begin such plans.

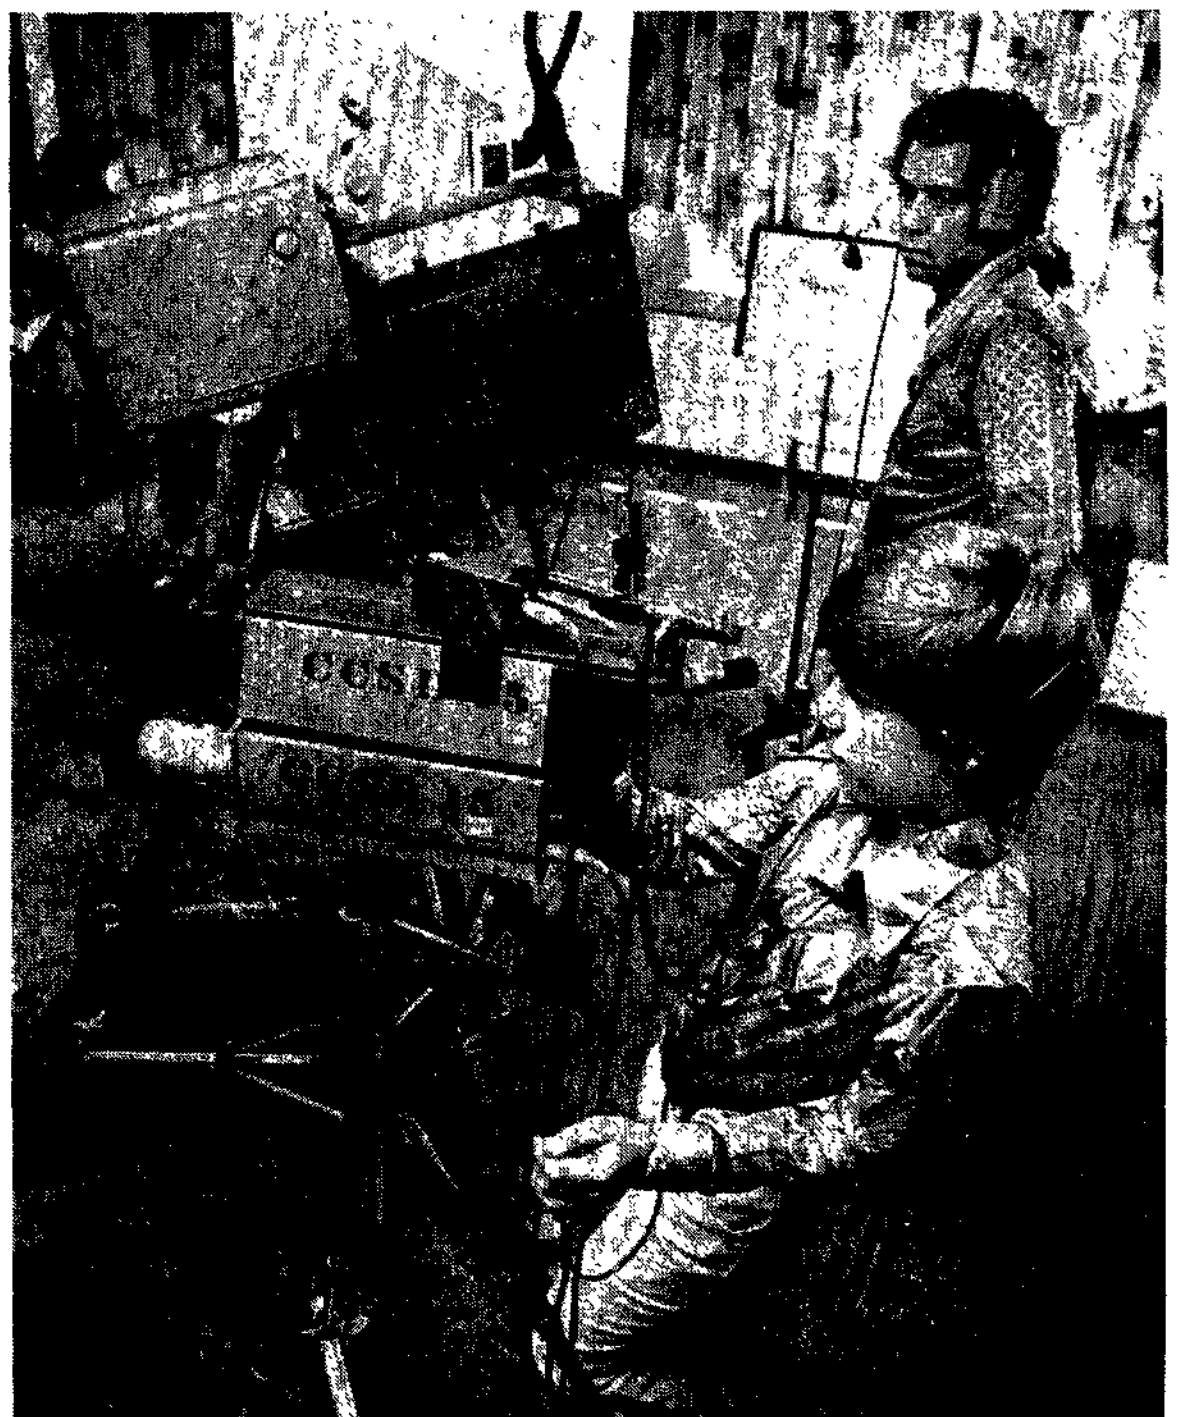

Frank Lochner, an epidemiologist from the Cook County Health Dept., will attend the meeting at township hall, 37 N. Plum Grove Rd.

CECIL KISTLER and Tom Bierman from the Palatine Health Dept. and Mike Raimondi, director of Northwest Opportunity Center, also will attend.

Representatives from Hoffman Estates, Rolling Meadows, Schaumburg, Inverness, Palatine Township Dist. 15, High School Dist. 211, the Palatine Nurses Club, Alexian Brothers Hospital and Northwest Community Hospital also have accepted invitations to the meeting.

The Barrington Area Council of Governments (BACOG), of which Inverness is a member, has formed a group similar to the township's Task Force '76.

Congress has appropriated $135 million for a nationwide inoculation program against the virus after several cases of a swine-like virus were reported in February at Ft. Dix, N.J.

TELEVISION STARS. Plum Grove Junior High School students in the television club found themselves behind and in front of the camera Thursday as a film crew from WMAQ-TV's "Bubble Gum Digest" visited the school to shoot an episode for the children's show. WASHINGTON (UPI) — Trying to weather the storm, Rep. Wayne Hays announced Thursday he will resign only the lesser of his two committee chairmanships despite pressure to quit both because of the Elizabeth Ray sex scandal.

Meeting critics less than halfway, the Ohio Democrat agreed to have "a temporary chairman" replace him on the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee "until the charge against me has been resolved."

But he ignored high-level requests to quit his more important post as head of the House Administration Committee and said he would discuss with that panel "any questions concerning my role as chairman" — obviously sure of majority support there.

Later, looking stooped and haggard, Hays read his statement before television cameras at a podium normally reserved for another committee chairman. He walked with his head down and ignored reporters' questions.

The House Ethics Committee, meantime, launched its investigation of Miss Ray's charge that Hays put her on the Administration Committee payroll at $14,000 a year to serve as his mistress. Hays admits they had a long affair before his April marriage, but denies he hired her for that purpose.

Chairman John Flynt, D-Ga., said

the panel "definitely" expected to discuss more names than those of Hays and Miss Ray. It was not clear whether

Hunting Ridge School's safety patrol boys will be treated to a picnic by the school's safety committee from 3:30 to 5 p.m. Monday. In case of rain the picnic will be scheduled for Wednesday.

Schaumburg Township Dist. 54

A picnic-country fair will be held from noon to 5 p.m. Sunday at Hale School, 1300 W. Wise Rd., Schaumburg.

The fair is being held in celebration of the Bicentennial and will honor the school's namesake, Nathan Hale, whose 221st birthday is Sunday.

Student activities will be displayed in booths and in the school gym which will be turned into a museum. Demonstrations of candlemaking, corn husking and taffy pulling will go on all afternoon.

A rocket blast off and parade will start off the fair. Opening ceremonies will include the presentation of a time capsule made by the sixth grade. A mural, also made by the sixth grade, will be given to Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 Supt. Wayne Schaible to be used in the administration center. A bust of Nathan Hale, made by parent Lynn Habermeyer, will be unveiled.

At 12:45 there will be a Bicentennial salute by the fifth grade chorus directed by teacher Jane Burton. First graders will perform Indian ceremonial dancing at 1:15 p.m. and contests and the auction of pies, cakes, cookies, candy, fudge, and other goods will be held from 1 to 2 p.m.

Games will be held from 2 to 3 p.m. Kindergarten students will present square dancing at 2:15 and 3 p.m. and first graders will perform ethnic dances at 2:30 p.m. Senior citizens will take the spotlight at 3:30 with a square dance.

A play on Nathan Hale will be performed by second graders at 4 p.m. and at 4:15 there will be a choral reading by fourth graders. Closing ceremonies will be held at 5 p.m.

High School Dist. 211

Doris Haack, faculty advisor of Conant High School's student council, was one of five honored recently by the Illinois Assn. of School Councils at its convention in Chicago.

The "Award of Commendation" was given for her work as student council advisor at Conant for the past four years. Before coming to Conant, she held similar positions at Crown High School, Carpentersville, and the Dundee Middle School.

Palatine Hills Junior High School

Commencement ceremonies for eighth grade students at Palatine Hills Junior High School will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the school, 1100 N. Smith Rd., Palatine.

Plum Grove Junior High School

Sandburg Junior High School

Sandburg Junior High School will graduate 389 eighth-grade students at commencement ceremonies at 8 p.m. Thursday in the school gym, 2800 Martin Ln., Rolling Meadows. Everett Charlier, a member of the Palatine Township Dist. 15 Board of Education, will address the graduates and award the diplomas.

Winston Park Junior High School

Winston Park Junior High School eighth graders will attend graduation ceremonies at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at Palatine High School, 150 E. Wood St., Palatine.

Clavey jury deliberation may bring verdict today

by DAN BARREIRO

The jury in the trial of former Lake County Sheriff Orville (Pat) Clavey will continue its deliberation today following the completion Thursday of final prosecution and defense arguments in federal court.

The jury began deliberation Thursday morning in U.S. District Court in Chicago, and some court observers believe a verdict might be reached today.

Clavey is being tried in Chicago on four counts of perjury, three counts of tax evasion and one count of extortion.

DEFENSE ATTORNEY George Collins continued his attack of those charges Thursday, telling the jury of six men and six women "there is a reasonable doubt" of Clavey's guilt.

He again referred to testimony of prosecution witnesses Jerome Schuetz, former Lake County chief deputy, and Martin DeFoor, owner of the Cheetah II bar in Half Day. Both received immunity from criminal prosecution for their testimony against Clavey.

"Clavey is what Schuetz and DeFoor have to have to get their pass (immunity)," Collins said. "They (the prosecution) gave them the pass of the century and the deal of the age."

COLLINS SAID DeFoor and Schuetz knew the prosecution wanted to hear damaging testimony against Clavey, and that they obliged by concocting a story implicating Clavey.

U.S. Assistant District Atty. James Burns rebutted Collins' closing statement. Burns said the inference from the argument was that the prosecution conspired with witnesses to convict Clavey.

"I find it repugnant to my sense of justice," Burns said. Referring to Collins' statement that Schuetz and DeFoor had to "point the finger" at Clavey, Burns said, "The question is 'was it a truthful finger?'"

A second proposal seeking annexation of seven acres on which five homes will be built also was continued until Aug. 3. The land is bound by Ela Road on the east, Baldwin on the north and Bradwell on the south.

Consideration of potential draining problems in the Inverway East development was the commission's primary concern. More than 600 acres of farmland drain into the area and could cause serious flooding problems to Barrington developer Phillip Knoll.

Knoll also must submit a conservation service report to the commission before the meeting Aug. 3.

Inverness shop center? Village studying request

Annexation of two proposed developments to Inverness, including what would be the village's first shopping center, will be reviewed again Aug. 3 after the village plan commission raised several questions about both projects at a meeting earlier this week.

Super dog saves girl, 13, in home fire

The early hours of Tuesday morning produced nothing very extraordinary for the Carlson family of Carpenter Street in Palatine. Allan Carlson Sr. left for work. His wife, Donna, trudged around their house, making sure that Dan, Ruthanne and Allan Jr. would find their respective schools.

Chestnut, the family's 1-year-old golden retriever, who would be a heroine later that morning, kept herself busy by acting out a dog's life.

Then it all began to fall apart.

ON MOST WEEKDAYS, 13-year-old Nancy Carlson also leaves for school. But not Tuesday morning. In fact, she had not been to school for a week.

Nancy underwent nose surgery last week. By Tuesday morning, her nose remained painful and it still bled.

She placed cotton inside her nose, took some pain relieving tablets and began to rest on her parents' bed.

Later that morning, Nancy's mother left home to shop for groceries.

"I thought she would be sleeping," Donna said of Nancy.

But while she rested, Nancy decided to cook French fries for her younger brother, Allan Jr., 10, who soon would come home for lunch.

NANCY WENT to the kitchen, placed grease in a pan, turned on

Today

Mike Klein's people

the electric range . . . and proceeded back to bed.

The next thing she remembers, Chestnut, the family's golden retriever, had jumped onto the bed and began to bark loudly.

"Then I heard a big boom," Nancy said. "I thought it was a door slamming. Chestnut kept going to the (bedroom) door and coming back, telling me to follow her.

"She walked down the hall, and when I went to the door, there was smoke everywhere," said Nancy, who attends Palatine Hills Junior High School.

The kitchen was ablaze. Nancy ran to a neighbor's house. They called the Palatine Fire Dept.

WHEN DONNA finally arrived home, she discovered the commotion of policemen and firemen outside her house.

"It was horrifying, thinking that your daughter is in there sleeping," Donna said. When she was a child, Donna had lost two cousins in a fire.

But Nancy was outside, watching firemen battle the kitchen blaze.

"It was so great to hug her, I just can't tell you," Donna said.

When they finally walked back inside, the telephone rang. A fireman answered and said, "This is the fireman." But the person hung up.

A few minutes passed. The phone rang again. Donna answered. It was a nurse from Palatine High School. She said that 15-year-old Ruthanne had a stomach ache.

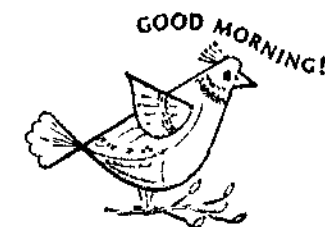

THE NURSE wondered whether Donna could come to the high school and get her daughter.

"I told her, 'I can't come now. We're putting out a fire in my house,'" Donna said.

The nurse must have thought that was funny. Donna said the nurse began to laugh very hard.

Along the way, Donna called her husband, Allan, who works in Elk Grove Village. She told him the house had begun to burn.

It's official! Gilman wins council seat

by DIANE MERMIGAS

A Cook County Circuit Court recount Thursday of votes cast in the Prospect Heights city election confirmed Frederick E. Gilman as the winner of the eighth and final city council seat.

The recount showed Gilman with 850 total votes compared to 847 total votes for Robert T. Perkowitz. Both men requested the recount of the Use of funds in unit role illegal: Scott

by DOROTHY OLIVER

Funds spent by High School Dist. 214 and Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 in the unit district controversy may have been spent illegally, according to an opinion from Illinois Atty. Gen. William J. Scott.

"It is my opinion that an Illinois school board may not expend school district funds to promote or oppose the formation of a unit school district," Scott stated in an opinion requested by the Vermilion County State's Attorney in connection with a unit school district controversy there.

"Were such a power granted to a school board, questions might be raised as to its validity under . . . the Illinois Constitution of 1970 which requires that public funds be used only for public purposes," the opinion states.

THE SCOTT opinion states school districts exercise "limited governmental powers" as set forth in the school code and that school districts votes cast in the city's five voting precincts in the May 22 election to clear up what had been a discrepancy in the number of votes cast for each.

Neither was available for comment.

GILMAN WAS installed nearly two weeks ago, along with other newly elected officials, when the court's canvass of election results showed him the winner over Perkowitz, 845 to 842 votes.

Perkowitz originally requested a recount of just fifth precinct votes when election officials working at that polling place reported a difference in the number of votes he actually received and those recorded.

A recount of fifth precinct votes altered the total votes for each candidate and showed Perkowitz winning with 850 votes to Gilman's 848 total votes.

The men requested a recount of votes cast for them in the remaining four precincts "to clear up the discrepancies once and for all," said Donald Kreger, Prospect Heights city attorney.

KREGER AND Arlington Heights attorney William Moore — appointed by the court to count the ballots — Thursday tabulated the returns in the chambers of Circuit Court Judge Harry G. Comerford.

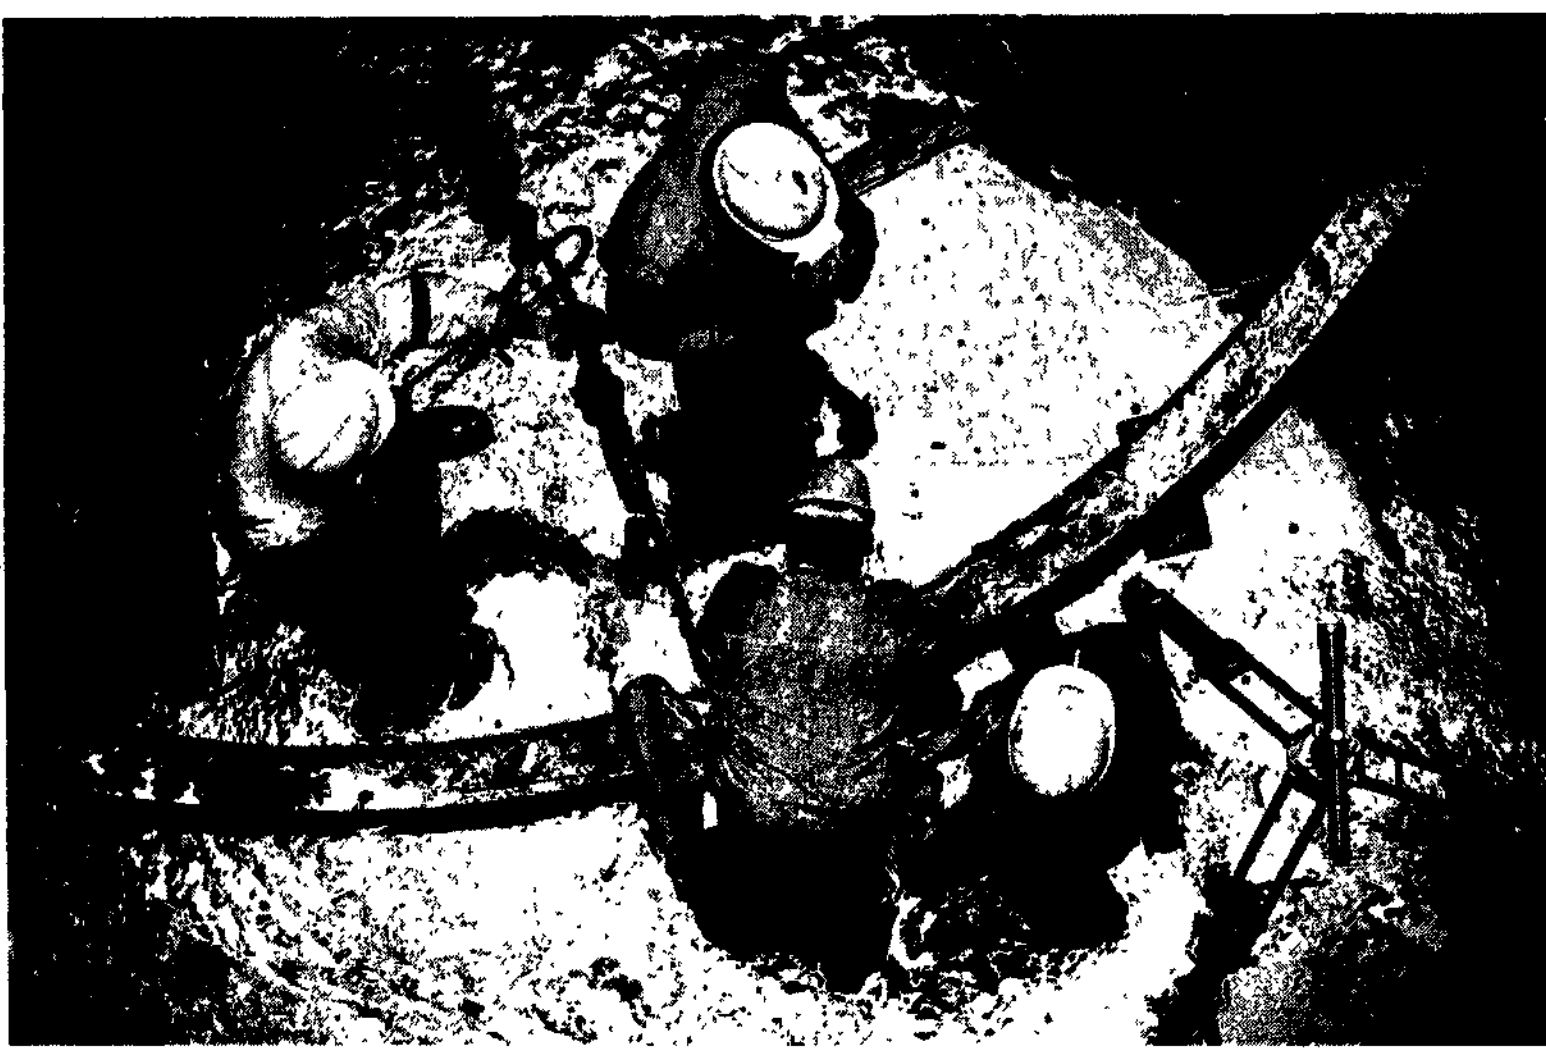

Judge Comerford has overseen the city's first municipal election and incorporation proceedings.

The judge is expected to approve an order today, certifying the vote results of the two candidates, Kreger said.

"There appears to be no reason for any other recount," Kreger said. "This should put an end to the matter."

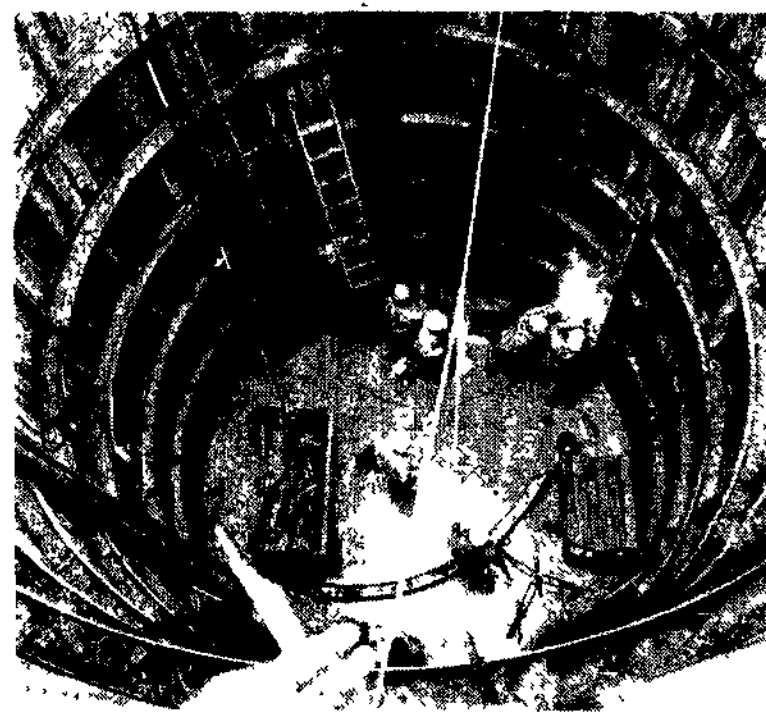

"As trying as a recount has been, I sincerely think it has been in the best interest of the city," Perkowitz said.

"I offer my services to Mayor Richard Wolf and now join a group of dedicated candidates who lost the election but who will continue to serve the community," he said.

Low enrollment cuts others

Dist. 21 offers 4 summer classes

Wheeling-Butte Grove Dist. 21 has canceled most of its summer school classes because of insufficient enrollment.

Dist. 21 officials decided to call off all but four of the summer classes after only 155 students registered for the program.

The Dist. 21 Board voted last month to charge tuition of $40 per student for summer school, but an average of 15 students per class was needed to make the program financially feasible.

THE FOUR CLASSES that had at least 15 students registered are first-grade readiness, two sections of intensive study/review and a camping experience to Williams Bay, Wis., said Marjorie Beu, assistant superintendent for instruction.

These four classes will be offered at Riley School, 1200 Burr Oak Dr., Arlington Heights, Miss Beu said. The district originally planned to offer classes at all schools, but because of the low enrollment administrators decided to hold classes in only one school.

Miss Beu said offering the classes will depend on whether parents will provide transportation to Riley.

In past years Dist. 21 offered a free summer school program. This year, however, there was no state reimbursement for summer school so the board decided to offer it on a fee basis. Last year's summer program had an enrollment of 2,000 students.

Dist. 23 cancels summer school

The Prospect Heights Dist. 23 tuition summer school program has been canceled because of low enrollment.

Philip Cornwell, assistant principal at MacArthur Junior High School, 700 N. Schoenbeck Rd., Prospect Heights, said board of education members were notified of the low enrollment Tuesday and decided to cancel the summer program.

"Less than three dozen students have signed up for the classes," Cornwell said. The district cannot afford to keep the school open for such a small number of students, he said.

Cornwell said checks paid by parents for summer school will be returned immediately.

The board decided in May to charge a fee of $50 per course for summer school because members were uncertain whether school districts will be reimbursed by the state for summer school costs.

The state in the past has paid for all summer school costs, but because of state cutbacks in aid to education school districts are not expecting reimbursement for summer school. The program would cost Dist. 23 about $25,000.

The Conant High School junior-senior prom and dinner will be held from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m., today at Henric's Restaurant-O'Hare Inn, Rosemont. The committee, under the direction of Mike-Delia, chose the theme "We May Never Pass This Way Again."

Music for the dance, which follows a steak dinner, will be played by the Krystaltones. A senior girl will be picked by her classmates and crowned queen of the prom at 11 p.m.

A free coke bar precedes the dinner. Tickets are sold during lunch and after school for $29 per couple. Students must attend both the dinner and the dance.

U.S. Sen. Charles Percy will be at Arlington High School at 2 p.m. today to discuss current topics with students. Percy will meet with students in Grace gymnasium, 502 W. Euclid Ave., Arlington Heights. The public is invited to attend.

Auditions for the North High School Dist. 214 Symphony Orchestra are scheduled for 7 p.m. Thursday at Buffalo Grove High School, 1100 W. Dundee Rd., Buffalo Grove.

Students eligible to audition for seats in the brass, woodwind and percussion sections are from Arlington, Hersey, Buffalo Grove and Wheeling high schools. Presentations will include a solo performance, the major scales and sightreading.

Openings exist in the following instruments: flute, piccolo, clarinet, bassoon, French horn, trombone, tuba and percussion.

For information call Bruce Fowler at Wheeling High School, 459-1208, or Buffalo Grove High School, 541-5400, ext. 68.

Nancy Semple, a senior at Forest View High School, has been awarded the A. K. Oliver scholastic scholarship grant. The $1,000 grant is awarded by the scholarship jury of the National Scholastic art awards to the candidate best exemplifying a combination of outstanding creative art ability and high academic standing.

Miss Semple also is the recipient of a scholarship from Illinois Wesleyan University where she will be enrolled next fall.

Both scholarships were based on the art work in a portfolio she submitted to the Scholastic art awards exhibition regional contest. Her portfolio was selected for national competition in New York.

By virtue of these awards, Nancy's art portfolio is ranked as the best group of art works submitted for jurying from all the high school seniors in the nation.

Arlington High School's student newspaper, the Cardinal, is the recipient of two major awards for journalistic excellence.

The Cardinal has been awarded an All-American rating for its first semester publications by the National Scholastic Press Assn. critical service.

NSPA rates the top 10 per cent of the 2,000 high school publications as All-American.

The student staff members also were awarded the Golden Eagle trophy for the Cardinal from the Northern Illinois Scholastic Press Assn. The Cardinal was one of 10 student newspaper entrants from among 100 competitors to win the award.

Seven Arlington High School students were chosen to compete in the State Science Exposition recently at the University of Illinois-Champaign. The exposition was sponsored by the Illinois Junior Academy of Sciences.

Freshmen Bryan Blankfield and Eileen Lacey and sophomore Kimberlee Curryn were among 12 students whose scientific papers were selected from entries from throughout Illinois to compete in the state exposition.

Sophomore Susan Revers' paper was selected for competition in the Bicentennial science essay contest. Susan is one of only 10 Illinois students selected to compete in this category.

Papers written by sophomore Gregg Terrell, the recipient of the U.S. Air Force award for Best Project, and freshman Kathy Hughes were chosen for competition in the state research project session.

"have no inherent powers" beyond that.

Scott said after reviewing the powers of a school board set forth in the school code "I find nothing in these provisions authorizing school boards to expend district funds . . . to oppose or promote a unit district."

Dist. 59 spent $8,500 to hire a consultant to update information on the impact of a unit school district in the Dist. 59 area. The district spent between $18,000 and $20,000 in 1973 for the original unit study which was used as a basis for the review this year.

Dist. 59 also has paid for the printing of the unit district citizens' study committee reports and authorized the administration to assist in the organization of the committee.

DIST. 59 RETAINED the law firm of Reid, Ochenschlager, Murphy and Hupp for legal advice on the procedures of bringing the unit district question to the voters in a referendum. The district has not approved payments to the law firm, said Leah Cummins, coordinator of community relations for Dist. 59, but she said the attorneys have started working with district officials and "the meter is running."

Dist. 214 also has retained a law firm, Faywell, James and Brooks, for legal advice on the unit district. Robert Weber, associate superintendent for business services, said the board has paid the firm $6,525.

Dist. 214 also hired a court reporter to make transcripts of all unit district study committee meetings, Weber said. Copies of the transcripts were given to the committee and are being used by Dist. 214 officials "to keep us informed," Weber said.

In March, the district also published a special edition of "Our Schools Are People" newsletter to the community urging residents "to join the opposition to the formation of a unit district in the area served by Dist. 59." The newsletters, written as a letter from former Board Pres. Gene Artemenko, states that the Dist. 214 board "passed a resolution expressing unanimous opposition" to the Dist. 59 unit district, which would separate Elk Grove and Forest View high schools from Dist. 214 and place the control of elementary and high schools under one board and administration.

MRS. CUMMINS and Weber each questioned whether the tax dollars spent by their districts on the unit study are illegal.

Mrs. Cummins said the Dist. 59 board has not formally voted to support or promote the unit district concept, and although some board members have publicly stated they favor bringing the question to the voters in a referendum, they have not endorsed it.

"The objective of the board has been to let the voters decide," she said.

Weber said, "It's a matter of interpretation" whether money spent by

Dist. 214 has been to oppose the unit district or "to keep us informed as to what is happening."

HE SAID THE law firm was hired "to advise us as to the legalities" of the procedures used to form a unit district.

Richard Doyle, state's attorney for Vermilion County, who requested the Scott opinion, said the question on the legality of the expenditures was raised "when one district (in the county) wanted to spend money in opposition to a unit district consolidation in another district. They wanted to fund legal moves to stop the consolidation."

He said Scott's opinion agrees with his own interpretation of what is legal, and that "school districts can't spend taxpayers' money to promote their ideas on various issues." He said the legal role of the school district is to "educate and inform — not to influence."

Two-week trip with V.P.

Alan Soderstrom, 25, of 403 N. Emerson St., was a member of one of two crews that recently made a two-week around-the-world trip with Vice President Nelson Rockefeller. Alan is a flight engineer in the U.S. Air Force, stationed at McGuire Air Force Base in New Jersey.

The excursion started at Andrews Field in Washington, D.C. where Rockefeller, a presidential car and 20 secret service men boarded. Then the flight went to Tunis, Tunisia; Teheran, Iran; Singapore; Bali; Sydney, Australia; and Tahiti.

Rockefeller presented Soderstrom with a pair of cuff links with the vice presidential seal as a memento of the trip.

JOELLE PETERSON, 17, of 1501 Greenwood Ln., has been selected to spend the next two months in Turkey as a summer American Field Service student. She expects to depart for the foreign country within a week and so she is currently taking a fast crash course in the Turkish language.

Joelle will live with a family in Istanbul. There is a daughter in that family the same age as the Mount Prospect girl and both are interested in dance. As soon as the foreign exchange student arrives, a vacation trip to the Turkish city of Sinop is planned.

Miss Peterson will be a senior at Hersey High School in the fall.

THE YOUNG PEOPLE at two churches in town tomorrow will wash cars to raise funds. The Senior-Hi kids at South Church-Community Baptist, 501 S. Emerson St., will wash cars from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Waxing also is available.

The Hi League at Northwest Covenant Church, 300 N. Elmhurst Ave., will clean autos between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. and will offer baked goods and other items for sale.

CONSTRUCTION HAS begun on a new restaurant on the grounds of Randhurst Shopping Center. "The Sign of the Beefeater," a chain operation, will be a cafeteria run by Montgomery Ward and will be located just west of the south entrance to Wards from Kensington Road.

The new eating spot is scheduled to open in mid-September and its hours are expected to be similar to those of the shopping center.

RICK ERICKSON, 120 N. Elmhurst Ave., was recently named to the Blue Key National Honor Fraternity at Western Illinois University. He was selected for excellence in academics, leadership and service.

Rick has served as director of the "hot line" at the campus. His major is psychology and he will receive his bachelor degree in August.

Super dog saves girl, 13, in home fire

The early hours of Tuesday morning produced nothing very extraordinary for the Carlson family of Carpenter Street in Palatine. Allan Carlson Sr. left for work. His wife, Donna, trudged around their house, making sure that Dan, Ruthanne and Allan Jr. would find their respective schools.

Chestnut, the family's 1-year-old golden retriever, who would be a heroine later that morning, kept herself busy by acting out a dog's life.

Then it all began to fall apart.

ON MOST WEEKDAYS, 13-year-old Nancy Carlson also leaves for school. But not Tuesday morning. In fact, she had not been to school for a week.

Nancy underwent nose surgery last week. By Tuesday morning, her nose remained painful and it still bled.

She placed cotton inside her nose, took some pain relieving tablets and began to rest on her parents' bed.

Later that morning, Nancy's mother left home to shop for groceries.

"I thought she would be sleeping," Donna said of Nancy.

But while she rested, Nancy decided to cook French fries for her younger brother, Allan Jr., 10, who soon would come home for lunch.

NANCY WENT to the kitchen, placed grease in a pan, turned on

people

the electric range . . . and proceeded back to bed.

The next thing she remembers, Chestnut, the family's golden retriever, had jumped onto the bed and began to bark loudly.

"Then I heard a big boom," Nancy said. "I thought it was a door slamming. Chestnut kept going to the (bedroom) door and coming back, telling me to follow her.

"She walked down the hall, and when I went to the door, there was smoke everywhere," said Nancy, who attends Palatine Hills Junior High School.

The kitchen was ablaze. Nancy ran to a neighbor's house. They called the Palatine Fire Dept.

WHEN DONNA finally arrived home, she discovered the commotion of policemen and firemen outside her house.

"It was horrifying, thinking that your daughter is in there sleeping," Donna said. When she was a child, Donna had lost two cousins in a fire.

But Nancy was outside, watching firemen battle the kitchen blaze.

"It was so great to hug her, I just can't tell you," Donna said.

When they finally walked back inside, the telephone rang. A fireman answered and said, "This is the fireman." But the person hung up.

A few minutes passed. The phone rang again. Donna answered. It was a nurse from Palatine High School. She said that 15-year-old Ruthanne had a stomach ache.

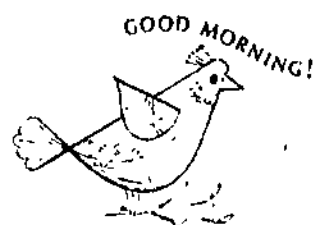

THE NURSE wondered whether Donna could come to the high school and get her daughter.

"I told her, 'I can't come now. We're putting out a fire in my house,'" Donna said.

The nurse must have thought that was funny. Donna said the nurse began to laugh very hard.

Along the way, Donna called her husband, Allan, who works in Elk Grove Village. She told him the house had begun to burn.

Over downtown tracks

Developers polled on stores complex

by BILL HILL

Private developers are being contacted by representatives of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce to determine if any are interested in building a shopping center-parking garage complex using the air-rights over the Chicago and North Western Ry. tracks in downtown Arlington Heights.

The effort is being made in the wake of a recent meeting with a railway spokesman who showed interest in the air-rights proposal, said Earl Johnson, executive manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

A few chamber members and Joseph Kesler, village planner, met with Thomas Lydon of the railway company May 18 in an "unofficial" meeting to find out if the air-rights over the railway tracks are for sale, Johnson said.

"THE FEELING we got was a definite yes. However, the ramifications of such a project are quite numerous. Such a development would have to be done through a private developer, rather than by the village," Johnson said.

To be economically feasible, the project would have to generate income from several sources, he said.

Kesler envisions a multi-level building with an enclosed shopping center on the bottom two levels, parking on two or three floor levels above that and office space on floors above the parking levels.

The multi-level project over the tracks was selected a few months ago by a subcommittee of the village's downtown redevelopment committee as the best plan for rejuvenating the central business district, but it was rejected by the full committee.

THE PLAN'S greatest merit was its connecting of the town downtown business districts, which are separated by the railway tracks and Northwest Highway.

However, the cost of the structure was considered prohibitive, and other committee members questioned whether the railway would even consider selling air-rights over the tracks.

Trustee August Bettman, chairman of the village board's downtown redevelopment committee, said Thursday he is still skeptical.

"I can't believe the railroad would be interested in selling or leasing the air-rights at a nominal fee," Bettman said.

"I wouldn't throw cold water on the idea, but they're going to have to prove to me that it's a feasible project. I understand the building codes for such a building are fantastic because of the safety problems," he said.

BETTMAN ALSO questioned whether the building's high cost would mean rental rates for space would be prohibitively high.

Kesler called the air-rights proposal "a bold, elegant solution" for redeveloping the central business district, and he is optimistic that a developer can be found.

"There are six or eight developers in the Chicago area capable of such a project. The question is whether they're interested. We must give them some incentives to do it," Kesler said. Johnson said several other communities have talked to the railway company about the possibility of purchasing air-rights over the tracks.

"Hopefully, within 30 days we will have some indications from people (developers) who might be interested in such a thing," Johnson said.

THE NEXT MEETING of the downtown redevelopment committee is June 14. A representative of the Oak Park Development Corp., where a very successful shopping mall has been built, will be a guest speaker at the meeting, Bettman said.

Bettman said the committee also will meet during the last week in June to draft final recommendations for improving the central business district.

Family moves but trash lingers on and on and...

by JOE SWICKARD

The family may be gone, but their rubbish lingers on.

The situation at 2730 N. Harvard Ave., Arlington Heights, is not the fault of the family that moved from the house more than a week ago. Indeed, their trash was neatly bagged, boxed and stacked at the curbside for easy pickup. They even labeled one of the boxes as to its contents: "Trash."

And there it still sits neatly bagged, boxed and stacked at the curbside for easy pickup. The only difference is now the trash has acquired a week's worth of weathering.

MRS. WILLIAM KELLY, a neighbor, said the residents placed the items at the curb for last Wednesday's regularly scheduled pick up by the Laseke Disposal Co. When the garbage truck passed by without loading up the refuse, the residents asked why.

"They were told that it would be picked up Saturday when they pick up the large items. Well, it's still out there now," Mrs. Kelly said.

In a tidy subdivision, several bags and boxes of trash will attract attention from other neighbors and their children.

"It has been blowing around some, so other people will pick it up again. But the kids go through it, and they have been jumping in it," she said.

Mrs. Kelly said she was concerned that the children might injure themselves on discarded bottles or other objects in the trash.

SHE SAID OTHER neighbors called Laseke, which has the trash hauling monopoly in the village, and were told that because the now-moved residents had not paid for the month of June, the refuse was not going to be picked up.

"But it was ready to go in May and they didn't take it then," she said, adding that calls to the village health department have gone unreturned.

"It's getting frustrating," Mrs. Kelly said. "It's like getting caught in a bureaucracy . . . We just want that stuff picked up."

George Weinand, village health director, said he had not heard of the problem until contacted by a reporter Thursday morning.

AFTER CONTACTING Laseke Thursday afternoon, Weinand said of the trash accumulation, which was well on its way to becoming a neighborhood landmark: "It looks like a pick up tomorrow (Friday)."

Although the house is not on the regular Friday collection schedule, Weinand said he would have the rubbish hauled away by Laseke.

"We're not going to have this sitting around any longer," he said.

As Mrs. Kelly said, "It's becoming quite a thing around the neighborhood."

Hays to quit only one of two posts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Trying to weather the storm, Rep. Wayne Hays announced Thursday he will resign only the lesser of his two committee chairmanships despite pressure to quit both because of the Elizabeth Ray sex scandal.

Meeting critics less than halfway, the Ohio Democrat agreed to have "a temporary chairman" replace him on the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee "until the charge against me has been resolved."

But he ignored high-level requests to quit his more important post as head of the House Administration Committee and said he would discuss with that panel "any questions concerning my role as chairman" — obviously sure of majority support there.

Later, looking stooped and haggard, Hays read his statement before television cameras at a podium normally reserved for another committee chairman. He walked with his head down and ignored reporters' questions.

The House Ethics Committee, meantime, launched its investigation of Miss Ray's charge that Hays put her on the Administration Committee payroll at $14,000 a year to serve as his mistress. Hays admits they had a long affair before his April marriage, but denies he hired her for that purpose.

Chairman John Flynt, D-Ga., said

the panel "definitely" expected to discuss more names than those of Hays and Miss Ray. It was not clear whether

High School Dist. 211

The Conant High School junior-senior prom and dinner will be held from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m., today at Henri's Restaurant-O'Hare Inn, Rosemont. The committee, under the direction of Mike Della, chose the theme "We May Never Pass This Way Again."

Music for the dance, which follows a steak dinner, will be played by the Krystaltones. A senior girl will be picked by her classmates and crowned queen of the prom at 11 p.m.

A free coke bar precedes the dinner. Tickets are sold during lunch and after school for $29 per couple. Students must attend both the dinner and the dance.

High School Dist. 214

U.S. Sen. Charles Percy will be at Arlington High School at 2 p.m. today to discuss current topics with students. Percy will meet with students in Grace gymnasium, 502 W. Euclid Ave., Arlington Heights. The public is invited to attend.

Auditions for the North High School Dist. 214 Symphony Orchestra are scheduled for 7 p.m. Thursday at Buffalo Grove High School, 1100 W. Dundee Rd., Buffalo Grove.

Students eligible to audition for seats in the brass, woodwind and percussion sections are from Arlington, Hersey, Buffalo Grove and Wheeling high schools. Presentations will include a solo performance, the major scales and sightreading.

Openings exist in the following instruments: flute, piccolo, clarinet, bassoon, french horn, trombone, tuba and percussion.

For information call Bruce Fowler at Wheeling High School, 459-1298, or Buffalo Grove High School, 541-5400, ext. 68.

Nancy Semple, a senior at Forest View High School, has been awarded the A. K. Oliver scholastic scholarship grant. The $1,000 grant is awarded by the scholarship jury of the National Scholastic art awards to the candidate best exemplifying a combination of outstanding creative art ability and high academic standing.

Miss Semple also is the recipient of a scholarship from Illinois Wesleyan University where she will be enrolled next fall.

Both scholarships were based on the art work in a portfolio she submitted to the Scholastic art awards exhibition regional contest. Her portfolio was selected for national competition in New York.

By virtue of these awards, Nancy's art portfolio is ranked as the best group of art works submitted for jurying from all the high school seniors in the nation.

Arlington High School's student newspaper, the Cardinal, is the recipient of two major awards for journalistic excellence.

The Cardinal has been awarded an All-American rating for its first semester publications by the National Scholastic Press Assn. critical service.

NSPA rates the top 10 per cent of the 2,000 high school publication entries as All-American.

The student staff members also were awarded the Golden Eagle trophy for the Cardinal from the Northern Illinois Scholastic Press Assn. The Cardinal was one of 10 student newspaper entrants from among 100 competitors to win the award.

Seven Arlington High School students were chosen to compete in the State Science Exposition recently at the University of Illinois-Champaign. The exposition was sponsored by the Illinois Junior Academy of Sciences.

Freshmen Bryan Blankfield and Eileen Lacey and sophomore Kimberlee Curnyn were among 12 students whose scientific papers were selected from entries from throughout Illinois to compete in the state exposition.

Sophomore Susan Revers' paper was selected for competition in the Bicentennial science essay contest. Susan is one of only 10 Illinois students selected to compete in this category.

Papers written by sophomore Gregg Terrell, the recipient of the U.S. Air Force award for Best Project, and freshman Kathy Hughes were chosen for competition in the state research project session.

O'Hare bus route starts Sunday

Bus service between O'Hare Airport and the commuter train stations in Palatine and at Arlington Park Race Track will begin Sunday, following approval of the service Thursday by the Regional Transportation Authority Board.

John C. McCarthy, vice president for Continental Air Transport Co. Inc., has announced schedules for the 180-day experimental service.

The service will be available Sunday through Friday, McCarthy said. The cost for a one-way trip is $3.05. Any deficit during the first six months will be made up by the RTA.

Buses will depart from the Palatine station at 5:55 and 7:10 a.m. Buses will leave Arlington Park at 6, 7:20 and 11 a.m., and 2 and 5:10 p.m.

BUSES WILL leave from the airport to Arlington Park at 10:35 a.m., 1:35, 4:15 and 6:30 p.m. Only the 4:15 and 6:30 p.m. buses will continue to Palatine and Barrington.

No service will be provided from the commuter station in downtown Arlington Heights during the test period, he said.

"We dropped that idea for right now because we thought two stops in the village may tend to confuse riders at first," McCarthy said.

Although the buses used will have a 29-person capacity, McCarthy said Continental hopes there will be at least eight riders on each bus.

Additional schedule information is available by calling 454-7800.

12 fathers to win tickets to games

Twelve fathers will win tickets to Chicago Bears, Cubs and White Sox games in this year's Father's Day promotion of Downtown Arlington Heights Merchants Assn. Registration slips are available in participating stores.

Persons may register their fathers' names, from now until June 19. He may win one of the 12 prizes, each of which includes two tickets to a Bears, Cubs or Sox game.

Funds use in unit role found illegal by Scott

by DOROTHY OLIVER

Funds spent by High School Dist. 214 and Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 in the unit district controversy may have been spent illegally, according to an opinion from Illinois Atty. Gen. William J. Scott.

"It is my opinion that an Illinois school board may not expend school district funds to promote or oppose the formation of a unit school district," Scott stated in an opinion requested by the Vermilion County State's Attorney in connection with a unit school district controversy there.

"Were such a power granted to a school board, questions might be raised as to its validity under . . . the Illinois Constitution of 1970 which requires that public funds be used only for public purposes," the opinion states.

THE SCOTT opinion states school districts exercise "limited governmental powers" as set forth in the school code and that school districts "have no inherent powers" beyond that.

Scott said after reviewing the powers of a school board set forth in the school code "I find nothing in these provisions authorizing school boards to expend district funds . . . to oppose or promote a unit district."

Dist. 59 spent $8,500 to hire a consultant to update information on the impact of a unit school district in the Dist. 59 area. The district spent between $18,000 and $20,000 in 1973 for the original unit study which was used as a basis for the review this year.

Dist. 59 also has paid for the printing of the unit district citizens' study committee reports and authorized the administration to assist in the organization of the committee.

DIST. 59 RETAINED the law firm of Reid, Ochenschlager, Murphy and Hupp for legal advice on the procedures of bringing the unit district question to the voters in a referendum. The district has not approved payments to the law firm, said Leah Cummins, coordinator of community relations for Dist. 59, but she said the attorneys have started working with district officials and "the meter is running."

Dist. 214 also has retained a law firm, Faywell, James and Brooks, for legal advice on the unit district. Robert Weber, associate superintendent for business services, said the board has paid the firm $8,525.

Dist. 214 also hired a court reporter to make transcripts of all unit district study committee meetings, Weber said. Copies of the transcripts were given to the committee and are being used by Dist. 214 officials "to keep us informed," Weber said.

In March, the district also published a special edition of "Our Schools Are People" newsletter to the community urging residents "to join the opposition to the formation of a unit district in the area served by Dist. 59." The newsletters, written as a letter from former Board Pres Gene Artemenko, states that the Dist. 214 board "passed a resolution expressing unanimous opposition" to the Dist. 59 unit district, which would separate Elk Grove and Forest View high schools from Dist. 214 and place the control of elementary and high schools under one board and administration.

MRS. CUMMINS and Weber each questioned whether the tax dollars spent by their districts on the unit study are illegal.

Mrs. Cummins said the Dist. 59 board has not formally voted to support or promote the unit district concept, and although some board members have publically stated they favor bringing the question to the voters in a referendum, they have not endorsed it.

"The objective of the board has been to let the voters decide," she said.

Weber said, "It's a matter of interpretation" whether money spent by Dist. 214 has been to oppose the unit district or "to keep us informed as to what is happening."

HE SAID THE law firm was hired "to advise us as to the legalities" of the procedures used to form a unit district.

Richard Doyle, state's attorney for Vermilion County, who requested the Scott opinion, said the question on the legality of the expenditures was raised "when one district (in the county) wanted to spend money in opposition to a unit district consolidation in another district. They wanted to fund legal moves to stop the consolidation."

He said Scott's opinion agrees with his own interpretation of what is legal, and that "school districts can't spend taxpayers' money to promote their ideas on various issues." He said the legal role of the school district is to "educate and inform — not to influence."

LOOK-ALIKE AND SOUND-ALIKE DRUGS
The proper reading and interpretation of prescriptions is one of the most important responsibilities we have. That is why we are so careful when we take a prescription over the phone or decipher a hard-to-read handwriting. We must avoid dispensing of a drug product not intended by the doctor.

We have a list of over 1,000 drugs that, when pronounced, their names sound very much alike or that look alike if written or read in a hurry. Some drugs both sound and look alike such as digitoxin and digoxin, quinine and quinine.

A GREAT MANY PEOPLE ENTRUST US with their prescriptions, health needs and other pharmacy products. We consider this trust a privilege and a duty. May we be your personal family pharmacy?
